Definitions/Examples for STAAR Reporting Category 2 English I (3)

Essence Statement A

The following definitions clarify terms used in the English I reading assessment tasks to ensure that the content of the tasks is understood. When appropriate, examples and nonexamples have been provided for further clarification. These are just examples and do not represent all the appropriate ways to test the skills in the STAAR Alternate assessment tasks.

Levels 3, 2, and 1: pages 4 and 5

Poems are a type of literature in which the author, poet, uses the sound and meaning of words to create ideas and feelings. Poems are usually presented in verse composed of short lines that include rhythm, rhyme, or both.

Personification is figurative language in which non-human things are represented as having human qualities.

Examples of personification:
- In Two Sunflowers Move in the Yellow Room by William Blake, the author personifies the sunflowers as weary travelers that talk:
  "Ah, William, we're weary of weather,"
  said the sunflowers, shining with dew.
  "Our traveling habits have tired us.
  Can you give us a room with a view?"

- In The Train by Emily Dickinson, the author personifies the train by giving it life-like characteristics such as lapping, licking, and feeding:
  I like to see it lap the miles,
  And lick the valleys up,
  And stop to feed itself at tanks;
  And then, prodigious, step . . .

Levels 2 and 1: page 5

Alliteration is the repetition of the same sounds at the beginning of two or more adjacent words or stressed syllables.

Examples of alliteration:
- From The Raven by Edgar Allan Poe:

  Once upon a midnight dreary while I pondered weak and weary
  And the silken sad uncertain rustling of each purple curtain
  Doubting, dreaming dreams no mortal ever dared to dream before

• From The Rime of the Ancient Mariner by Samuel Taylor Coleridge

For the sky and the sea and the sea and the sky

Level 1: page 5

For the Level 1 task, the teacher is asked to create a poem describing the student that includes alliteration using the student’s first initial.

Example of alliteration for a student named Larry:

Little Larry likes quite a lot
He likes lollipops, limes and lizards.
But Little Larry lashed out and fought,
When for lunch his mom brought him gizzards.

Example of alliteration for a student named Olivia:

Olivia likes olives on her pizza
But only when smothered with cheese.
She likes them green, pitted and with pimento
And a soda on the side if you please.

Example of alliteration for a student named Pablo:

Slender as a pencil is Pablo,
Proud and princely, too.
You will never find him wearing polka dots
But checkered plaids will do.

Example of alliteration for a student named Sharika:

Sharika shrieks when she is excited
and shrinks in her chair when sad,
But one thing you can always count on
Is Sharika is never bad.

Levels 3, 2 and 1: pages 10 and 11

A story is a fictional literary text. The literary elements an author uses to create a story include the characters, the setting, and the plot.

Levels 3 and 2: pages 10 and 11

The literary elements of a story include the characters, the setting, plot details, and a conclusion. Characters are the people or animals in the story. The setting is the time and place in which the story occurs. Plot details refer to the specific events in the story. The conclusion of the story is when the reader learns how the problem was solved.

Level 2: page 11

For the Level 2 task, the student will be using a story map to help organize the story elements. There are many types of story maps available from general education teachers and the internet.

The following examples can be changed to meet the teacher’s needs or task requirements:
STAAR Reporting Category 4 – Composition: The student will demonstrate an ability to compose a variety of written texts with a clear, controlling idea; coherent organization; sufficient development; and effective use of language and conventions.

Level 3: page 14

The topic is the subject or the single big idea that names what the text is about. The topic reflects the overall idea of the text and informs the reader of what to expect from the text. The topic should be simply stated and generally in one or two words. Examples of topics include:

- Castles
- Japan
- Mosaics
- Soccer
- Roller coasters

An essay is a piece of writing usually written from the author's point of view.

For the Level 3 task the student will generate a short essay and present it to an audience for feedback. The audience can be one or more person(s) such as the teacher, a peer, a small group of students, a paraprofessional, the principal or others who can provide appropriate feedback regarding the student’s essay. The feedback does not need to be extensive but should include a few types of edits such as grammar, punctuation, and content (tell me more about..., what else...).

Level 2: page 15

A sentence fragment is a group of words that is capitalized and punctuated as a sentence but lacks the grammatical structure to express a complete thought.

The Level 2 task requires the student to identify and correctly edit a sentence fragment. The sentence fragment should be embedded within a paragraph and the other sentences surrounding the fragment can be the choices required for a Level 2 task.

Example of paragraphs that include sentence fragments:

- The first sentence is a sentence fragment.

  Antonia ran as fast as she could to. When she got there, she was still late and missed out on the best seat. She enjoyed the movie anyway.

- The second sentence is a sentence fragment.
Yesterday, Leonardo went to the mall to apply for a job. Asked the interviewer if he would have to work on the weekends. Since the job did not require working on the weekends, Leonardo shook the interviewer’s hand and accepted the job.

- The third sentence is a sentence fragment.

The sly cat crouched low to the ground as he watched to mouse playing in the grass. The cat quietly moved closer and closer to his prey. Suddenly, he pounced on.

Level 1: page 15

A simple sentence has a subject and a verb and expresses a complete thought.

Examples of simple sentences include:
- Boys run.
- Birds fly.
- Students learn.
- Seeds grow.
- Balls bounce.
STAAR Reporting Category 5 – Revision: The student will demonstrate an ability to revise a variety of written texts.
