The Honorable Michael L. Williams
Commissioner
Texas Education Agency
1701 North Congress Avenue
Austin, TX 78701

Dear Commissioner Williams:

Thank you for submitting Texas’ guidelines for teacher and principal evaluation and support systems, as well as the corresponding changes to Principle 3 of your ESEA flexibility request, for peer review. On October 15, 2014 and December 4, 2014, two expert peers reviewed Texas’ guidelines and the corresponding changes to Principle 3 of Texas’ request. Staff from the U.S. Department of Education (ED) also reviewed Texas’ submission.

During that review, the expert peers provided comments in the form of Peer Panel Notes to inform my decision regarding Texas’ guidelines. The Peer Panel Notes, a copy of which is enclosed with this letter, identify strengths of Texas’ Principle 3 submission and revisions that may be needed to meet Principle 3. They also provide technical assistance suggestions.

Based on the review of Texas’ guidelines and taking into account the feedback from the expert peers, I have determined that Texas has not yet adopted guidelines for teacher and principal evaluation and support systems that meet all requirements of ESEA flexibility, nor does it have a process for ensuring that each district in Texas develops, adopts, pilots, and implements teacher and principal evaluation and support systems consistent with those guidelines as required by ESEA flexibility.

The enclosed list provides details regarding concerns raised in the review of Texas’ Principle 3 submission that must be addressed before I can approve Texas’ guidelines for teacher and principal evaluation and support systems. In addition, I encourage Texas to consider all of the peers’ comments and technical assistance suggestions in making revisions. If Texas chooses to renew its ESEA flexibility request, Texas must submit to ED through the renewal process an amended request incorporating its final guidelines for teacher and principal evaluation and support systems consistent with all requirements for these systems under Principle 3 of ESEA flexibility and consistent with the renewal requirements pertaining to Principle 3 described in the document titled ESEA Flexibility Guidance for Renewal Process (Nov. 13, 2014). Renewal request submissions are due no later than March 31, 2015.

In addition to modifying its guidelines to address the issues raised during peer review, Texas may wish to make other changes as a result of its ongoing development and piloting of its teacher and principal evaluation and support systems. If Texas wishes to make any additional changes through the renewal process, it should ensure that those changes are consistent with Principle 3 of ESEA flexibility.

ED remains committed to working with Texas on your request for ESEA flexibility. ED staff will reach out to Texas to set up a call soon to provide clarification of the concerns on the enclosed list and technical assistance that may be useful as you revise and refine your Principal 3 submission in anticipation of renewal. I also strongly encourage Texas to schedule regular check-ins with its ED State flexibility contact, Erin Shackel, about Texas’ progress in addressing the concerns raised in the enclosed list.

If you have any questions regarding the renewal process or anything else related to Texas’ implementation of ESEA flexibility, please contact Erin Shackel at: erin.shackel@ed.gov. Thank you for your continued focus on enhancing education for all students in Texas.

Sincerely,

Deborah S. Delisle
Assistant Secretary
