Teachers benefit from introductory and ongoing training and support to help them use their high-quality instructional materials effectively. School and school system leaders also benefit from professional development that equips them to support their teachers with curriculum.

TEA would like to support the implementation of high-quality materials by offering a curriculum-focused professional development track in conjunction with aligned professional development for literacy. The professional development summit would take place in the summer of 2020 and would bring together Texas teachers and administrators who participated in the IMQE. Sessions would focus on providing introductory curriculum training tied to instructional materials that were reviewed as part of the IMQE.

Instructional Materials Quality Evaluation Curriculum-Focused Professional Development

Would your organization and/or a professional development provider of your choosing be willing and able to lead sessions at a professional development summit for IMQE teachers, school leaders and LEA leaders focused on helping them use your organization's instructional materials effectively? All expenses associated with leading sessions at the event would be the responsibility of your organization or designee, including but not limited to travel, food, materials, and facilitators. TEA would be responsible for recruiting and coordinating Texas educators to attend sessions.

Definitely, yes. We would be willing and able to lead sessions for teachers and school and LEA leaders of IMQE LEAs in the summer of 2020.
