

WHAT IS SPECIAL EDUCATION?

When a child receives special education, it means that a public school provides custom services and instruction specific to the needs of that student. Special education is available because of a federal law called the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), which provides students with disabilities and their parents special legal rights to receive these individualized learning opportunities.

Special education is a service, not a place.

How can special education services help your child?

- ▶ If your child is eligible for special education services, your child will have access to services and supports that are specially designed to meet your child's unique needs.
- ▶ Special education services provide individualized programming at NO cost to you and may include special education teachers and service providers such as occupational therapists, physical therapists, speech-language pathologists, and providers of dyslexia instruction.

SPECIAL EDUCATION PROCESS:

Parents have a right to request a special education evaluation at any time. Schools are required to refer a student for an evaluation when a disability is suspected that might require special education services. It's important to understand the steps of the special education process.

Steps to Begin Special Education:

Receiving Special Education Services:

Implement the IEP

While there are other federal laws that also offer certain protections for students with disabilities - such as Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 - IDEA has specific rights only available under that law. This document summarizes those rights.

WHAT IS IN AN IEP?:

The IEP must address certain elements for your child, including:

PLAAFP

- » Present Levels of Academic Achievement and Functional Performance (PLAAFP): The ARD committee writes down your child's skills, abilities, and challenges based on the evaluation report and other data.

Goals

- » Measurable annual goals: Goals are developed to focus on your child's specific needs and to describe when your child is expected to make progress.
 - If your child has dyslexia, for example, a goal might focus on improvement in a specific area of reading development or fluency within a certain amount of time.

Instruction & Services

- » A description of the specially designed instruction, related services, and supplementary aids and services that will be provided. The instruction and services will vary based on the specific needs of your child. For example, if your child has been identified with dyslexia:
 - The specially designed instruction would likely include a regularly scheduled time for instruction by a highly trained provider using a program that has been shown to help students with dyslexia and in accordance with the Dyslexia Handbook;
 - Related services might include support to improve your child's fine motor skills from an occupational therapist if he or she also struggles with handwriting; and
 - Supplementary aids and services might include documenting your child's need for speech to text options for writing assignments.

Assessments

- » Information on how your child will participate in state and districtwide assessments, including whether accommodations like extra time are necessary.

Transition

- » Transition services: When your child turns 14, the IEP must begin to document plans for your child after high school and how your child's special education services will be adjusted to work on those plans.

Placement

- » The IEP notes the educational placement of your child. Placement decisions are guided by a requirement to provide education in the least restrictive environment (LRE). The goal of LRE is to have your child included in classrooms and settings with children without disabilities as much as appropriate based on your child's unique needs.
