Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Gather Tricky Word index cards from Lessons 6 and 8 (folks, machine, talk, mind, notice, course, country), including any other Tricky Words you reviewed in Lessons 6 and 8. Write the following new words on index cards: carry, heavy, and people.
- Use the cards with the new words. Say, “Today we will review some more Tricky Words together. You can sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Display and point to the word heavy and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘ea’ is pronounced /e/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /h/ for this letter. We say /e/ for these letters. We say /v/ for this letter, and we say /ee/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /h/ /e/ /v/ /ee/, heavy. Say, “Heavy! It’s a word we use all the time, like when we say ‘Firefighters run up flights of stairs and carry heavy equipment.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say heavy. What’s the word?” Ask them to sound it out and then read it again. Say, “It is helpful to remember another word that has the /e/ sound spelled ‘ea.’” Write head on the board, then blend and read the word aloud with students.
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining word(s), mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Add the Tricky Word cards from Lessons 6 and 8. Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all the new words we learned this week. Let’s play a game. We’re going to go through this stack of cards as fast as we can, reading the word on each card. Read the words carefully, because these are words that you have to sound out in a special way. Let’s see how fast we can go. My turn first.”
- Model taking the top card off the stack, showing it to students, and saying the Tricky Word after a pause. Continue through the stack.
- Say, “Do you think you can go faster than I did?”

- Assign students to small groups. As you show each card, have one group of students read through the stack of cards as quickly as they can.
- If a student says the wrong word for a card, model how to sound out the Tricky Word and then say the word. Ask the student to repeat your answer, and move on to the next card in the stack with the same small group until you go through all of the cards.
- Select the next small group, shuffle the stack of cards, and repeat until all groups have had a turn.
- Say, “Okay, now let’s go faster.” Shuffle the stack of cards and repeat at a faster pace so that each group has had two turns.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Save the index cards to incorporate review of the Tricky Words throughout the unit.

Additional Activities to Review All Tricky Words from This Week

(1) Tricky Words Race

- Create a four-column chart. Fill it out with the Tricky Words you taught this week.
- Divide the class into two groups and have each group line up by the board.
- Explain how the game works. You will call out a Tricky Word. One student from each team will race to find the word on the chart and tap it. The first student to find and tap the word earns a point for the team.
- Repeat until all the words have been found or every student has had a turn.

Note: Consider playing this game in pairs to provide support for students who are still mastering these Tricky Words.

(2) Call, Flip, Read, Roll

- Gather ten index cards for each student.
- Give each student ten index cards, and have them number the cards 1-10.
- Display all Tricky Words that have been taught so far. Have each student pick ten Tricky Words from the list and write one word on the back of each index card. Their set of cards should now have a word to be read on one side and a number on the other side.

- Place students into pairs. Call out a number at random and have each student take turns finding a card with that number on it in their stack. The student then reads the word aloud. If the word is read correctly, the student may then roll a die and whatever number it lands on is the number of points they receive. The student with the most points is the winner.
- Save the index cards to use the next time students play this game. Students can reuse another student's set of cards.

ENRICHMENT PASSAGE

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 10.2 for each student.
- Tell students they will be reading a short passage with some of the sound spellings they have recently learned.
- Direct students to the passage "Concord Hymn and the 'Shot Heard Round the World.'" Tell students that they may read the passage either silently or softly to themselves.
- Then have them read the passage again and
  - underline three words with ar, or, er, or ur such as dark;
  - put a box around two words with ear, ire, eir, our, or ure such as heard;
  - and highlight one r-controlled two-syllable word, such as farmers.
- After students have annotated the passage, have them complete the comprehension questions independently. If they do not complete the activity page in class, instruct them to work on it at home.
- If time allows, review student responses and engage students in a discussion when the opportunity arises. Encourage students to build on each other's responses with the following sentence starters:
  - I agree with _____ because. . .
  - I have an additional perspective about. . .
  - That is a great point because. . .
  - Another example is. . .

REVIEW

Words with /ə/ > 'a' and 'e'

PRIMARY FOCUS OF LESSON

Warm-Up

- Students will read words with /ə/ > 'a' and 'e'. TEKS 3.2.A.i

Phonics—Decoding

- Students will read words with /ə/ > 'a' and 'e'. TEKS 3.2.A.i
- Students will review syllable types. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Morphology

Students will identify the meaning of and use words with prefixes tele- and

- super-*. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

Reading

Students will read “A Trans-Galactic Dash” orally with appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) and will answer questions about key details in the text.

- TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.4

Phonics—Encoding

Students will spell and write words with /ə/ > 'a' and 'e'.

- TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

FORMATIVE ASSESSMENT

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Create a chart containing examples for the various spellings of /ə/ that are reviewed in Lessons 11–13. Cover all spellings. You will uncover the first two columns in this lesson and continue to uncover spellings as they are reviewed in Weeks 3 and 4.

| /ə/ > 'a' | /ə/ > 'e' | /ə/ > 'i' | /ə/ > 'o' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'le' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'le' ('s-tle') |
|-----------|-----------|-----------|-----------|------------------|----------------------------|
| about     | taken     | basil     | oven      | circle           | bustle                     |
| alone     | model     | raisin    | purpose   | uncle            | hustle                     |
| zebra     | item      | victim    | wisdom    | little           | wrestle                    |

Morphology

- Students will complete an activity in groups. Decide beforehand if students will be assigned groups or if they may self-select.
- Write the following numbered sentences on the board or chart paper.

1. The store sells televisions.
2. We looked at the stars through a telescope.
3. The superhero saved the city from disaster.
4. The supermarket sells many types of food.
5. Telephones connect us with distant places.
6. The famous actor was a superstar.
7. Telemedicine helps doctors treat people at home.
8. The ice skaters had near superhuman balance.

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 3 Discussion Questions Observation Record that you prepared in Lesson 1. Remember to ask each student to respond to at least one discussion question over the course of the week. Make notes regarding each student's ability to answer literal, inferential, and evaluative questions and to respond using complete sentences.

- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: chancellor, unity, telecast, and transmit.

Lesson 11: Review: Words with /ə/ &gt; 'a' and 'e', Part 1

Warm-Up

🗺️ Primary Focus: Students will read words with /ə/ > 'a' and 'e'. TEKS 3.2.A.i

REVIEW SCHWA /ə/ > 'A' AND 'E' (3 MIN.)

- Say, "Most words with two or more syllables have stressed and unstressed syllables. Unstressed syllables are spoken more quietly or more quickly than stressed syllables. The vowel in an unstressed syllable often makes the schwa sound.
- Have the class say schwa.
- Have the class say the sound /ə/
- Say, "Many vowels can make the schwa sound. This lesson will focus on 'a' and 'e'."
- Write the word alive on the board.
- Say, "When we read the word a•live, we might use what we know about open syllables to pronounce it as /ae•liev/. However, the first syllable is unstressed. We don't say /ə•liev/, we say /ə•liev/! Therefore, the 'a' makes the schwa sound."
- Say, "Listen carefully to the words as I read them aloud. I will read the word once altogether and then a second time pausing between its syllables. Raise your right hand if you hear a stressed syllable. Raise your left hand when you hear an unstressed syllable.
- Read the following words aloud. Read the word once and then a second time, emphasizing the stressed syllables and pausing between syllables to allow students to raise their hands: a•round, bro•ken, com•ma, and i•tem.

🗺️ TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en.

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Beginning

To support conversation about regional differences in pronunciation, ask students about regional differences in their home language. Then, ask, “What are some words in your home language that people pronounce in different ways?”

Intermediate

To support conversation about regional differences in pronunciation, ask students about regional differences in their home language. Ask, “What are some words in your home language that people pronounce in different ways?” Encourage students to share examples of differences.

Advanced/

Advanced High

To support conversation about regional differences in pronunciation (i.e., language variations), ask students about regional differences in their home language. Ask, “Do people from different countries or regions say words in your home language differently?” Encourage students to share examples of differences.

ELPS 3.A

Lesson 11: Review: Words with /ə/ > ‘a’ and ‘e’, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

- ✦ Students will read words with /ə/ > ‘a’ and ‘e’. TEKS 3.2.A.i
- ✦ Students will review syllable types. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

READ WORDS WITH /ə/ > ‘A’ AND ‘E’ (3 MIN.)

- Write the word schwa on the board.
- Write the symbol for schwa, /ə/, on the board and explain that this is the symbol for schwa, a vowel sound.
- The name of the sound is schwa, but that is not the sound it makes. The schwa often sounds like /u/ and it can be difficult to tell the difference. You can think of schwa as a more muffled version of /u/. We usually hear the schwa sound in words with two or more syllables.”
- Explain that the exact pronunciation of schwa differs from person to person, place to place, and word to word. However, in many words and many parts of the United States, schwa sounds a lot like /u/. In some words and some regions of the United States, it is pronounced more like /i/.
- Write the word about on the board, and ask students how they might expect it to be pronounced. They may say that they expect it to be pronounced /a/ /b/ /ou/ /t/ or /ae/ /b/ /ou/ /t/.
- Explain that this word is usually pronounced /ə/ /b/ /ou/ /t/. This is because the first syllable is unstressed and the second is stressed: a•bout.
- Have students read and correctly pronounce the word about.
- Direct students’ attention to the chart with various spellings of /ə/ that you prepared in advance. Uncover the column labeled /ə/ > ‘a’.
- Point to /ə/ > ‘a’ and say the schwa sound.
- Underline the ‘a’ as you read each word. Have students read the words aloud after you and practice pronouncing each one.
- Write the word taken on the board, and ask students how they might expect it to be pronounced. Students may expect it to be pronounced /tae•ken/.
- Explain that this word is usually pronounced /tae•kən/ and not /ta•ken/.

✦ TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

- Say, "The 'e' makes the schwa sound. This is because the second syllable is unstressed."
- Direct students' attention to the chart and uncover the column labeled schwa > 'e'.
- Point to /ə/ > 'e' and say the schwa sound.
- Underline the 'e' as you read each word.

Have students read the words aloud after you and practice pronouncing each one.

REVIEW SYLLABLE TYPES (3 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 11.1. Read the instructions aloud.
- Say, "When we read longer multisyllabic words, breaking them or chunking them into their syllables makes it easier to read them. It's important to remember that one word might have multiple syllable types. If that is the case, we will write both syllable types on the line."
- Write the word blue•bird as it appears in the activity page on the board.
- Ask, "What syllable type is blue in the word blue•bird?" (vowel team)
- Say, "Yes, 'ue' is a vowel team that makes the /oo/ sound." Write vowel team; on the board next to the word blue•bird, and have students write it on their activity page.
- Ask, "What type of syllable is bird in the word blue•bird?" (r-controlled)
- Say, "Yes, 'ir' in the word bird is an r-controlled vowel making the /er/ sound. That makes bird an r-controlled syllable." Write r-controlled on the board next to vowel team, and have students write it on their activity page.
- Repeat the routine with the words re•lax (open; closed) and arch•way (r-controlled; vowel team).
- Direct student pairs to complete the rest of the activity page together. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Support

Students may need extra help decoding words, such as event, that feature different pronunciations of the same vowel. Remind students that they can identify the schwa sound by asking themselves which syllable is unstressed.

Activity Page 11.1

Challenge

Ask students to identify which words in the activity page have a schwa sound. (hap•pen; place•ment; un•sure)

Lesson 11: Review: Words with /ə/ > 'a' and 'e', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with prefixes tele- and super-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Language

Learning How English Works

Beginning

Tell students that tele- and super- are used in several languages including Spanish, French, and Italian. They have the same meaning in these languages as they do in English. These prefixes come from the same root in both English and in these other languages. Students can use words in their home language to find the meaning of English words. For example, the Spanish words teléfono and supermercado and the French words téléphone and supermarché can be used to determine the meanings of telephone and supermarket.

Intermediate

Ask, “Do you know any words in your home language that start with tele- or super-?”

Advanced/

Advanced High

Ask, “Do you know any words in your home language that start with tele- or super-? What are the meanings of these words?”

ELPS 3.A

ROOT WORDS AND PREFIXES: TELE-, SUPER- (6 MIN.)

- Say, “We are going to practice using words with the prefixes tele- and super- in sentences.”
- According to your class size, divide students into either four or eight groups. Give each group a number.
- Say, “I am going to write a list of sentences on the board. Pay special attention to the sentence that matches your group number. Copy the sentence in your dictation journal.”
- Direct students’ attention to the numbered sentences on the board or chart paper that you prepared in advance.
- Working in their dictation journal, have one member of each group circle the word with the prefix tele- or super- in the assigned sentence. Have one student underline the prefix.
- Have groups read their sentences aloud to the whole class and identify the word with tele- or super-.
- Work with students to define the words in their sentences. Use the chart below to confirm or correct students’ definitions of the words.

| Word         | Meaning                                                            |
|--------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------|
| television   | a system for sending images and sounds across distances            |
| telescope    | a device used to see distant objects                               |
| superhero    | a person with extraordinary powers                                 |
| supermarket  | a large store that sells food and other goods                      |
| telephone    | a device for sending voices over long distances                    |
| superstar    | an extremely talented or famous person such as an actor or athlete |
| telemedicine | health care that is delivered over the telephone or computer       |
| superhuman   | beyond what humans are usually capable of                          |

- Direct students to Activity Page 11.2. Have them complete the activity page individually.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 11: Review: Words with /ə/ &gt; 'a' and 'e', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “A Trans-Galactic Dash” orally with appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) and will answer questions about key details in the text. TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.4

READ “A TRANS-GALACTIC DASH” WITH ACCURACY (10 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 11.3.
- Define unfamiliar words and phrases for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: chancellor, unity, telecast, transmit, transcended
  - phrases: “supersonic transport vehicles,” “working in unison,” “witness this event”
- Have students follow along as you read “A Trans-Galactic Dash.”
- Read the story once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately and at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read a few lines of the story again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., metallic and guidance) so you read accurately. Point out that rereading unfamiliar words is one way students can monitor their comprehension, or make sure they understand what they read.
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the story once more with the whole class as a choral read.

Support

Before reading “A Trans-Galactic Dash,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

Have students find an example of a schwa word in the text, for example, debate.

TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as igh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Ask students yes/no questions using simple phrases to summarize the story: “Were the students getting along? Was the race meant to help students work together? Was the race a private event? Did the students use different vehicles? Were the students who lost sad?”

Intermediate

Provide students with a specific sentence frame for summarizing and use temporal words: Mr. Sharma wanted his students to ____ so he held a _____. First, the students _____. Then, they _____ and _____. After the race, everyone _____.

Advanced/

Advanced High

Encourage students to expand or build on other students’ responses.

ELPS 4.G; ELPS 4.I

Wrap-Up

Discussion Questions for “A Trans-Galactic Dash”

1. Literal. What problem did Mr. Sharma see at Magnet University?
  - » Students were so different that they had trouble getting along.
2. Literal. What was the purpose of the Trans-Galaxy Dash?
  - » The event was meant to get students to work together.
3. Literal. What did students do in the Dash?
  - » They worked in teams of seven and had to do various tasks in different vehicles.
4. Literal. What was the result of the Dash?
  - » The students felt like superstars and learned to get along better.
5. Inferential. Why are events like the Dash good for students?
  - » They help students get to know each other outside of the usual classroom setting.

Observation: Discussion Questions Observation Record

- Call on a different student to answer each question. Note students’ performance in the Discussion Questions Observation Record.
- Turn and Talk: For the inferential question, have students share their thoughts with one another. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their answer. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner’s thinking with the group.

Lesson 11: Review: Words with /ə/ > ‘a’ and ‘e’, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /ə/ > ‘a’ and ‘e’.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

SPELL WORDS WITH SCHWA > 'A' AND 'E' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with the schwa sound that you say aloud.
- Say the word human. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- |           |             |           |
|-----------|-------------|-----------|
| 1. human  | 4. item     | 7. basket |
| 2. atlas  | 5. sofa     | 8. happen |
| 3. carpet | 6. children | 9. vowel  |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- |                                             |
|---------------------------------------------|
| 1. The system began thousands of years ago. |
| 2. We saw a camel and a zebra at the zoo.   |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students complete the encoding activity. Monitor students' comprehension and provide assistance when necessary.

Lesson 11: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 11.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 11.3.
- Have them reread “A Trans-Galactic Dash”
- Review the prompt on Activity Page TR 11.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to draw for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their drawings with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following words on index cards: among, common, several, thousands, didn't, and wasn't.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word common and say, “This word is tricky because the second ‘o’ is pronounced with the schwa sound /ə/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /k/ for this letter. We say /o/ for this letter. We say /m/ for these letters. We say /ə/ for this letter. We say /n/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /k/ /o/ /m/ /ə/ /n/, common. Say, “Common! It’s a word we use all the time, like when we say ‘The teams became united in their common purpose.’”

- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say common. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Display the chart containing examples for the various spellings of /ə/ that you created in Lesson 11. You will continue to use this chart in Lesson 13. Cover any spellings not yet reviewed.

| /ə/ > 'a' | /ə/ > 'e' | /ə/ > 'i' | /ə/ > 'o' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'le' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'le' ('s-tle') |
|-----------|-----------|-----------|-----------|------------------|----------------------------|
| about     | taken     | basil     | oven      | circle           | bustle                     |
| alone     | model     | raisin    | purpose   | uncle            | hustle                     |
| zebra     | item      | victim    | wisdom    | little           | wrestle                    |

- Consider having students cut word cards on Activity Page 12.2 before the activity begins.

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 3 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
  - Have students take turns reading the entire story.
  - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
  - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the story.
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: chancellor, unity, telecast, and transmit.

Lesson 12: Review: Words with /ə/ &gt; 'i' and 'o', Part 1

Warm-Up

🗺️ Primary Focus: Students will identify words with /ə/ > 'i' and 'o'. TEKS 3.2.A.i

REVIEW /ə/ > 'I' AND 'O' (3 MIN.)

- Say, "Today, we are going to review additional spellings of the schwa sound. The words in this lesson have the schwa sound spelled with 'i' and 'o'"
- Say, "Remember that no matter how it is spelled, schwa makes the /ə/ sound. The /ə/ sound is like a muffled version of /u/."
- Have the class say the sound /ə/.
- Say, "When a syllable with an 'i' or 'o' is unstressed, that vowel makes the schwa sound."
- Write the word promise on the board.
- Say, "We know that most VCe syllables make the long vowel sound. So, when we read the word promise, we might think it is pronounced /prom•ies/. However, because the second syllable ise is unstressed, the 'i' makes the schwa sound. So we pronounce the word /prom•əs/. Read it with me." Read the word aloud with the students.
- Write the word button on the board.
- Say, "We know that most vowels that are 'closed up' by consonants make the short vowel sound. So when we read the word button, we might think it is pronounced /but•ton/. However, because the second syllable is unstressed, the 'o' makes the schwa sound. So we pronounce the word /but•tən/. Read it with me." Read the word aloud with the students.
- Say, "Listen carefully to the words as I read them aloud. Raise your right hand when you hear the /oe/ or /ie/ sound. Raise your left hand when you hear the /ə/ sound."
- Read the following words aloud: cousin (left), lemon (left), cargo (right), pilot (right), offend (left).

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

- ✚ Students will read words with /ə/ > 'i' and 'o'. TEKS 3.2.A.i
- ✚ Students will review syllable types. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

READ WORDS WITH /ə/ > 'I' AND 'O' (3 MIN.)

- Write the symbol for schwa, /ə/, on the board. Ask students how to pronounce the schwa sound.
- Write the word April on the board, and ask students how they might expect it to be pronounced. They might expect it to be pronounced /æ•pril/.
- Explain that this word is usually pronounced /æ•prəl/. Have students read aloud the word April after you.
- Direct students' attention to the chart with various spellings of /ə/ that you prepared in advance. Uncover the column labeled schwa > 'i'.
- Point to /ə/ > 'i' and say the schwa sound.
- Underline the 'i' as you read each word. Have students read the words aloud after you and practice pronouncing each one.
- Write the word occur on the board, and ask students how they might expect it to be pronounced. They might expect it to be pronounced /oe•ker/ or /o•ker/.
- Explain that this word is often pronounced /ə•ker/. Have the students read the word aloud.
- Direct students' attention to the chart and uncover the column labeled /ə/ > 'o'.
- Point to /ə/ > 'o' and say the schwa sound.

- ✚ TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

- Underline the 'o' as you read each word. Have students read the words aloud after you and practice pronouncing each one.
- Direct students to Activity Page 12.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

REVIEW SYLLABLE TYPES (3 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 12.2. Read the instructions aloud.
- Emphasize that a word may work in more than one category. For example, be•cause should touch both the open and vowel team syllable-type cards.
- Students may categorize the cards independently or work with a partner.
- After students have completed their piles, assign individual students partners or assign pairs of students to small groups to go over their answers.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback.

Challenge

Have students identify word cards that contain schwa sounds. (lesson, because)

Check for Understanding

Support students as they sort words by syllable types. Answer questions students may have and correct mistakes as you circulate.

Lesson 12: Review: Words with /ə/ > 'i' and 'o', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes uni- and trans-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

ROOT WORDS AND PREFIXES: UNI-, TRANS- (6 MIN.)

- Remind students that prefixes are word parts added to the beginning of a root word to change the meaning of the word.
- Write the prefix uni- on the board. Read it aloud and have students read it aloud.
- Explain that the prefix uni- means “one” or “single.”
- Write the word unicycle on the board.
- Say, “Let’s identify the meaning of this word by breaking it into its parts. I’m going to draw a line between the prefix and the root word. Where should I draw the line?” (after the prefix uni-)
- Say, “We can recognize the root word cycle from words like bicycle. Cycle means ‘wheel’ or ‘circle.’”
- Ask, “If the prefix uni- means ‘one’ or ‘single’ and the root cycle means ‘wheel’ or ‘circle,’ then what does the word unicycle mean?” (a vehicle with one wheel)
- Repeat with the words unicorn and uniform. Alert students to the fact that the word unicorn comes from the Greek root cornu meaning “horn.”
- Write the prefix trans- on the board. Read it aloud and have students read it aloud.
- Explain that the prefix trans- means “across” or “beyond.”
- Write the word transatlantic on the board. Read the word aloud and have students read it aloud.
- Say, “When you read the root atlantic, what do you think about? (Students may be familiar with the Atlantic Ocean or other place names that reference the ocean.)
- Ask, “If the prefix trans- means ‘across’ or ‘beyond,’ then what does the word transatlantic mean?” (across the Atlantic Ocean)
- Repeat with the words transnational and transform.
- Work with students to come up with sentences using the words unicycle, unicorn, uniform, transatlantic, transnational, and transform.

Support

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meaning: transcript and unidirectional.

- Direct students to Activity Page 12.3 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner's response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 12: Review: Words with /ə/ &gt; 'i' and 'o', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will reread “A Trans-Galactic Dash” fluently with a partner. TEKS 3.1.D; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.4

REREAD “A TRANS-GALACTIC DASH” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s story with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the story.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 11.3. Tell students that today they will reread “A Trans-Galactic Dash” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “A Trans-Galactic Dash.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.
- After students read the passage, have them work together to
  - underline words with /ə/ > ‘a’, ‘e’, ‘i’, and ‘o’, such as magnet, normal, and problem;
  - circle words with prefixes super-, tele-, trans-, or uni-, such as university, Trans-Galaxy, and telecast; and

- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Check for Understanding

Question-Pair-Share: Have partners think of questions about the story to ask each other. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their questions and answers. When pairs have answered each other’s questions, tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner’s thinking with the group.

Observation: “A Trans-Galactic Dash” Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read “A Trans-Galactic Dash,” make notes about the student’s reading, such as errors in fluency and prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 12: Review: Words with /ə/ > ‘i’ and ‘o’, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /ə/ > ‘i’ and ‘o’.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL WORDS WITH SCHWA > ‘I’ AND ‘O’ (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with the schwa sound that you say aloud.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

- Say the word raisin. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- |            |           |            |
|------------|-----------|------------|
| 1. raisin  | 4. civil  | 7. second  |
| 2. confess | 5. ribbon | 8. kingdom |
| 3. pencil  | 6. offend | 9. pupil   |

- Then tell students that you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- |                                          |
|------------------------------------------|
| 1. I promise to bring carrots and basil. |
| 2. The parrot is named Kevin.            |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

End Lesson

Support

Students may need help identifying the double letters in confess, ribbon, offend, carrot, and parrot.

Lesson 12: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 12.1 for each student.
- Read the instructions aloud and have students complete the word search.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the drawing they made of a scene in “A Trans-Galactic Dash” on Activity Page TR 11.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their choice of details to include was impactful, and (c) how their drawing communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Drawing About Text

1. When you _____, it showed _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it helped me understand _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you drew _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say common and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, kooommmænnn. Write the letters to spell common on the board.
- Point to the word common and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /ə/ sound is spelled with ‘o.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds.

- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /k/ for this letter. We say /o/ for this letter. We say /m/ for these letters. We say /ə/ for this letter. And we say /n/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /k/ /o/ /m/ /ə/ /n/, common. Say, “Common! It’s a word we use all the time.”
- Repeat with the words among, several, thousands, didn’t, and wasn’t. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

REVIEW

Words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'le'

PRIMARY FOCUS OF LESSON

Warm-Up

- Students will read words that end in /ə/ + /l/ > 'le'. TEKS 3.2.A.i

Phonics—Decoding

- Students will read words that end in /ə/ + /l/ > 'le'. TEKS 3.2.A.i
- Students will read multisyllabic words with final stable syllable 'le'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Morphology

Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes uni- and

- trans-*. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

Reading

Students will read “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World” fluently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Display the chart containing examples for the various spellings of /ə/ that you created in Lesson 11. Cover any spellings not yet reviewed.

| /ə/ > 'a' | /ə/ > 'e' | /ə/ > 'i' | /ə/ > 'o' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'le' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'le' ('s-tle') |
|-----------|-----------|-----------|-----------|------------------|----------------------------|
| about     | taken     | basil     | oven      | circle           | bustle                     |
| alone     | model     | raisin    | purpose   | uncle            | hustle                     |
| zebra     | item      | victim    | wisdom    | little           | wrestle                    |

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: transnational, and transformed.

Lesson 13: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ &gt; 'le', Part 1

Warm-Up

✦ Primary Focus: Students will read words that end in /ə/ + /l/ > 'le'. TEKS 3.2.A.i

REVIEW WORDS THAT END IN /ə/ + /l/ > 'LE' (3 MIN.)

Challenge

Ask students to identify which of these words has a silent letter. (castle)

- Remind students that a stressed syllable is one that is said louder and an unstressed syllable is one that is said quieter or quicker.
- Write the word alive on the board. Ask, "How do people usually pronounce the word alive: /æ/ /l/ /ie/ /v/ or /ə/ /l/ /ie/ /v/?" (/ə/ /l/ /ie/ /v/)
- Say, "We can hear from how it is pronounced that the first syllable in alive is unstressed."
- Write the word beetle on the board and underline bee.
- Read the word beetle. Have students read the word aloud.
- Ask, "How many syllables do you hear in beetle?" (two: bee•tle) "Which syllable is stressed, or louder?" (bee)
- Say, "Yes, so the unstressed syllable is /təl/."
- Say, "Notice that even though the word ends in 'le', we say the schwa sound before the 'l': /əl/, and not /lə/."
- Repeat with the following words: apple, castle, maple, shuffle, and nozzle.

Lesson 13 Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ &gt; 'le', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

- ✦ Students will read words that end in /ə/ + /l/ > 'le'. TEKS 3.2.A.i
- ✦ Students will read multisyllabic words with final stable syllable 'le'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

READ WORDS WITH /ə/ + /l/ > 'le' (3 MIN.)

- Say, “Today we are going to review more spellings of the schwa sound. The words in this lesson end in ‘le.’”
- Say, “Remember that no matter how it is spelled, schwa makes the /ə/ sound. The /ə/ sound is like a muffled version of /u/.”

Note: In some regions, people may pronounce some words with the schwa sound with more of an unstressed /i/ sound instead of the /u/ sound. For example, the second syllable of wa•gon may be pronounced /gun/ or /gin/.

- Have the class say the sound /ə/.
- Say, “When a syllable is unstressed, the vowel usually makes the schwa sound.”
- Say, “Words that end in ‘le’ commonly have the schwa sound.”
- Write the symbol for schwa, /ə/, on the board. Ask students how to pronounce the schwa sound.
- Write candle on the board, and say it aloud. Have students repeat it after you.
- Mark the syllables in candle with a slash. Point out the schwa sound in the second syllable: /kan•dəl/. Circle the ‘le’.
- Have students read the word candle.
- Direct students’ attention to the chart with various spellings of /ə/ that you prepared in advance. Uncover the column labeled /ə/ + /l/ > ‘le’.
- Point to /ə/ + /l/ > ‘le’ and say /əl/.
- Underline the consonant + ‘le’ as you read each word. Have students read the words aloud after you and practice pronouncing each one.

READ MULTISYLLABIC WORDS WITH FINAL STABLE SYLLABLE ‘LE’ (3 MIN.)

- Write the word ankle on the board with the syllables marked: an•kle.
- Underline ‘a’. Say, “This vowel is part of a closed syllable.” Pronounce the syllable /aen/. Point out that closed syllables usually make a short vowel sound, but this word is an exception to that rule.

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Say, “When we read words that end in ‘le’, we might want to say /l/ before the vowel sound. However, the order of the sounds is backward.” Ask, “What are some words in your home language that are pronounced differently than they might seem?”

ELPS 2.B

- Say, “The second syllable of this word is called a final stable syllable because it comes at the end of the word. A consonant and ‘le’ is one kind of final stable syllable. We know the last syllable is unstressed and has the schwa sound.” Circle -kle. Say, “This is a final stable syllable.” Pronounce the syllable /kəl/. Have students read the word aloud with you.
- Ask, “How many syllables does ankle have?” (two)

Note: You may wish to point out that there are other final stable syllables, including -tion/-sion, -cian/-tian, -el/-il/-ul, and -age. Students will continue to learn about these spellings in Units 3 and 4.

- Say, “When we read words with final stable syllables spelled ‘le’, we say the schwa sound followed by the /l/ sound.”
- Have students practice pronouncing the sound. Then, have students practice pronouncing ankle.
- Repeat the routine with the following words: tri•an•gle, mir•a•cle and ex•am•ple.
- Have students separate the words into syllables and pronounce each syllable and then read the whole word aloud.
- Direct students to Activity Page 13.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Say, “Give a thumbs-up if you agree or a thumbs-down if you disagree with the following statement: ‘Double has a final stable syllable.’” (thumbs-up)

Lesson 13: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'le', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes uni- and trans-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

WORDS WITH UNI- AND TRANS- (6 MIN.)

- Write the following words on the board: unidirectional, uniform, transcontinental, and transcribe.
- Ask for a different student volunteer to identify the prefix in unidirectional.
- Ask, “What does the prefix uni- mean?” (one or single)
- Ask, “What words or word parts do you recognize in the root directional?” (Students should notice the word direction.)
- Say, “Yes, directional means moving in a direction or directions.”
- Underline the prefix uni-. Ask, “What does unidirectional mean?” (moving in one direction)
- Repeat the routine with the remaining prefix and words. If students do not recognize the meaning of roots, provide them with definitions from the chart below. You may also want to model how to use the dictionary to define the words.

| Word             | Meaning                         |
|------------------|---------------------------------|
| uniform          | one form or shape; all the same |
| transcontinental | extending across a continent    |
| transcribe       | to copy something in writing    |

- Point out that many roots words with the prefixes uni- and trans- come directly from Latin or Greek and do not stand alone as words in English. For example, transmit (“to send across a distance”) comes from the Latin words trans (across) and mittere (send). However, mit is not an English base word in the same way atlantic in transatlantic is. In cases such as transmit

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Support

Even with teacher support, students may struggle to define complicated uni- and trans- words. Collaborate with students to find definitions for difficult words in a dictionary.

or translate, students will probably need to use a dictionary to define or correct their understanding of unfamiliar words. Point out that we can sometimes use context clues from the text to understand an unfamiliar word, and sometimes we need a dictionary.

- Direct students to Activity Page 13.2 and review the instructions. Define any unfamiliar words.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 13: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ &gt; 'le', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World” fluently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.4

READ “ON THE MOVE: HOW TRANSPORTATION UNITES OUR WORLD” (10 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 13.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: enables, universal, transnational, transformed, sensible
  - phrases: “hustle and bustle,” “work together in unison,” “universally important”
  - domain-specific language: transport, transit system, goods
- Have students follow along as you read “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World.”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., continent and transcontinental).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read or have students read it independently.
- Then have them turn to Activity Page 13.4 and complete the comprehension questions. If they don’t complete the activity page, instruct them to work on it at home.

TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Activity Pages
13.3, 13.4

ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Ask students yes/no questions using simple phrases to summarize the story: Is there only one mode of transportation? Is walking a kind of transportation? Is transportation only something that happens on the land? Can some kinds of transportation go to other countries?

Intermediate

Provide students with a specific sentence frame for summarizing and use temporal words: Transportation is _____. Human-powered transportation includes _____. Examples of engine-powered vehicles are _____. In addition to people, transportation can move _____.

Advanced/
Advanced High

Encourage students to expand or build on other students’ responses.

ELPS 4.G; ELPS 4.I

Support

Before reading “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 13: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ > ‘le’, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /ə/ + /l/ > ‘le’.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL WORDS THAT END IN ‘LE’ (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with final stable syllables spelled ‘le’ that you say aloud.
- Say the word article. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- |            |           |             |
|------------|-----------|-------------|
| 1. article | 4. mumble | 7. paddle   |
| 2. bangle  | 5. turtle | 8. sensible |
| 3. pebble  | 6. raffle | 9. tricycle |

- Then tell students that you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- |                                          |
|------------------------------------------|
| 1. Should I draw a triangle or a circle? |
| 2. The beetle lived on a maple tree.     |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate the room as students complete the encoding activity. Monitor students’ comprehension and provide assistance when necessary.

End Lesson

Challenge

Ask, “Why are cradle and paddle pronounced differently?” (The ‘a’ in crad•le is open and makes the long /ae/ sound. The ‘a’ in pad•dle is closed up by the consonant ‘d’ and makes the short /a/ sound.)

Lesson 13: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 13.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 13.3.
- Have them reread “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 13.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following words on index cards: whether and wheels. You may wish to create or gather additional Tricky Word cards to review in this lesson.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word wheels and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘wh’ is pronounced /w/ and the ‘s’ is pronounced /z/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /w/ for these letters. We say /ee/ for these letters. We say /l/ for this letter. We say /z/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /w /ee/ /l/ /z/, wheels. Say, “Wheels! It’s a word we use all the time, like when we say ‘A bicycle has two wheels.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say wheels. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.

- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

REVIEW

Words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'le'

PRIMARY FOCUS OF LESSON

Warm-Up

- Students will identify words that end in /ə/ + /l/ > 'le'. TEKS 3.2.A.i

Phonics—Decoding

- Students will read words that end in /ə/ + /l/ > 'le'. TEKS 3.2.A.i

Students will read multisyllable words with final stable syllable 'le'.

- TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Morphology

Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes uni- and

- trans-*. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

Reading

Students will reread “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World” fluently

- with a partner. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.4

Phonics—Encoding

- Students will spell and write words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'le'. TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Continue to display the chart containing examples for the various spellings of /ə/ that you created in Lesson 11. You will continue to use this chart in Lessons 16–19.

| /ə/ > 'a' | /ə/ > 'e' | /ə/ > 'i' | /ə/ > 'o' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'le' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'le' ('s-tle') |
|-----------|-----------|-----------|-----------|------------------|----------------------------|
| about     | taken     | basil     | oven      | circle           | bustle                     |
| alone     | model     | raisin    | purpose   | uncle            | hustle                     |
| zebra     | item      | victim    | wisdom    | little           | wrestle                    |

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 3 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
  - Have students take turns reading the entire story.
  - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
  - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the story.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: transnational and transformed.

Lesson 14: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ &gt; 'le', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify words that end in /ə/ + /l/ > 'le'.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.i

REVIEW WORDS THAT END IN /ə/ + /l/ > 'LE' (3 MIN.)

- Say, "We have learned that words that end in 'le' are pronounced with the schwa sound followed by /l/." Say the sounds. (/ə/ /l/)
- Say, "We are going to practice identifying these words and breaking them down into syllables and sounds."
- Read the word eagle. Have students repeat the word.
- Ask, "What sounds are in the word eagle?" (/ee/ /g/ /ə/ /l/)
- Say, "Remember that even though the word ends in 'le', we say the schwa sound before the 'l'."
- Repeat with the following words: horrible, buckle, spectacle, double, and angle.

Lesson 14: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ &gt; 'le', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

✚ Students will read words that end in /ə/ + /l/ > 'le'. TEKS 3.2.A.i

Students will read multisyllable words with final stable syllable 'le'.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

READ WORDS THAT END IN /ə/ + /l/ > 'LE' (3 MIN.)

- Write the symbol for schwa, /ə/, on the board. Ask students how to pronounce the schwa sound.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

- Write castle on the board, and say it aloud. Have students read it aloud.
- Draw a slash to mark the syllables in cas•tle. Point out the schwa sound in the second syllable: /cas•əl/.
- Say, “Notice that the ‘t’ that is in castle is silent and the ‘le’ at the end of the word makes the schwa sound followed by /l/. There are a few words that follow this pattern.”
- Direct students’ attention to the chart you prepared in advance.
- Point to /ə/ + /l/ > ‘le’ and say /əl/.
- Underline the ‘le’ as you read each word. Have students read the words aloud after you and practice pronouncing each one.

| /ə/ > ‘a’ | /ə/ > ‘e’ | /ə/ > ‘i’ | /ə/ > ‘o’ | /ə/ + /l/ > ‘le’ | /ə/ + /l/ > ‘le’ (‘s-tle’) |
|-----------|-----------|-----------|-----------|------------------|----------------------------|
| about     | taken     | basil     | oven      | circle           | bustle                     |
| alone     | model     | raisin    | purpose   | uncle            | hustle                     |
| zebra     | item      | victim    | wisdom    | little           | wrestle                    |

- Point out that even if a word is plural, such as candles, the consonant + ‘les’ still makes a final stable syllable.
- Direct students to Activity Page 14.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class with a partner. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Support

Remind students that only the unstressed syllable in these words makes the schwa sound. Even though the same vowel appears in both syllables in wrestle, only the second ‘e’ makes the schwa sound.

READ MULTISYLLABIC WORDS WITH FINAL STABLE SYLLABLE ‘LE’ (3 MIN.)

- Write the word terrible on the board, with the syllables marked: ter•ri•ble.
- Underline the first ‘e’. Say, “This vowel is part of an r-controlled syllable.” Pronounce the syllable /tair/. Point out that in this case, the ‘er’ does not make the /er/ sound that students might expect. Instead it makes the /air/ sound.
- Underline ‘i’. Say, “This vowel is part of an open syllable.” Pronounce the syllable /rie/.
- Underline the final ‘e’. Say, “This vowel is part of a final stable syllable.” Circle -ble. Pronounce the syllable /bəl/.

- Point to each syllable as you say the word /tair/ /rie/ /bəl/ aloud. Say, “That doesn’t make sense. Remember that open syllables often make a long vowel sound, but in multisyllabic words, some syllables are stressed and others are unstressed. In unstressed open syllables, vowels make the /ə/ sound. Let me adjust the vowel sound to the schwa and try again.” Read the word again, pronouncing the second syllable /rə/. Then have students read the word aloud.
- Repeat the routine with the following words: unicycle (u•ni•cy•cle), drizzle (driz•zle), and sandcastle (sand•ca•stle).

Challenge

Ask, “What does the word unicycle mean?” (a vehicle with one wheel)

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Say, “Give a thumbs-up if you agree or a thumbs-down if you disagree with the following statement: ‘Tables is an example of a final stable syllable “le” word.’” (thumbs-up)

Lesson 14: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ > ‘le’, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes uni- and trans-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND PREFIXES: UNI-, TRANS- (6 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 14.2.
- Read the instructions aloud.
- Tell students that they will use their knowledge of the prefixes uni- and trans- to determine the meanings of words and use them in sentences.
- Ask, “What does uni- mean?” (“one” or “single”) “What does trans- mean?” (“across” or “beyond”)

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Language

Learning How English Works

Review the meaning of prefixes. Say, “Uni- and trans- are prefixes.

Do prefixes appear at the start or end of words?” (start)

ELPS 4.A

- Direct students or partners to complete Part 1 of the activity page as a class. Have students attempt to match words to their definitions in the chart. Go over and correct any mistakes students make to ensure that they have the correct words for the definitions provided.
- Direct students or partners to complete Part 2 of the activity page by finishing the sentences. Remind students to use the definitions from part one to help them complete the sentences.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 14: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ &gt; 'le', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will reread “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World” fluently with a partner. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.4

REREAD “ON THE MOVE: HOW TRANSPORTATION UNITES OUR WORLD” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s story with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the story.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 13.3. Tell them that today they will reread “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about the story.
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.
- Tell students that after they finish reading, they should work together to
  - underline words with /ə/ + /l/ > le, such as enables, possible, and hustle; and
  - circle words with the prefixes uni- and trans-, such as transportation, universal, and unison.

Activity Page 13.3

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Turn and Talk: Have students discuss “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World” with their partners. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their discussions. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner’s thinking with the group.

Observation: “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World” Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World,” make notes about the student’s reading, such as errors in fluency and prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 14: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ > ‘le’, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /ə/ + /l/ > ‘le’.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

Challenge

Have students use a uni- or trans- word in their sentences.

SPELL WORDS THAT END IN ‘LE’ (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with final stable syllables spelled ‘le’ that you say aloud.
- Say the word possible. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Beginning

Have students choose one of the words from the dictation to complete this sentence frame: The _____ lit up the room. (candle)

Intermediate

Have students choose two of the words from the dictation to complete this sentence frame: The _____ filled the room with an _____ light. (candle; incredible)

Advanced/ Advanced High

Work with students to define a word from the dictation to use in their sentences.

ELPS 3.A

- |             |               |             |
|-------------|---------------|-------------|
| 1. possible | 4. incredible | 7. cable    |
| 2. cycle    | 5. wrestle    | 8. sensible |
| 3. pebble   | 6. trouble    | 9. candle   |

- Then tell students that you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- |                                        |
|----------------------------------------|
| 1. My uncle is making waffles.         |
| 2. A long icicle formed on the castle. |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

End Lesson

Lesson 14: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 14.1 for each student.
- Read the instructions.
- Answer any questions students have about the activity.
- Prompt student volunteers to share the words they formed to complete the sentences.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World” on Activity Page TR 13.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say wheels and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, weellzzz. Write the letters to spell wheels on the board.
- Point to the word wheels and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /w/ sound is spelled with ‘wh’ and the /z/ sound is spelled with ‘s.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds.

- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /w/ for this letter. We say /ee/ for these letters. We say /l/ for this letter. We say /z/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /w/ /ee/ /l/ /z/, wheels. Say, “Wheels! It’s a word we use all the time.”
- Repeat with the words whether and any other Tricky Words you reviewed in Lesson 13. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.
- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.
- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Students will complete an activity in groups. Decide beforehand if students will be assigned groups or if they may self-select.

Morphology

- Students will complete an activity in groups. Decide beforehand if students will be assigned groups or if they may self-select.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: showcase, custom, unified, and spectacle.

Lesson 15: Review: Mixed Review, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will review words with /ə/. TEKS 3.2.A.i

REVIEW WORDS WITH /ə/ (3 MIN.)

- Tell students you are going to say some riddles, each of which has an answer containing the schwa sound.
- Say, “Listen to the riddle as I say it and then guess the word that answers the riddle.”
- Say the following riddles aloud and allow students to guess their answers.

I am a problem that is difficult to solve. (puzzle)

I am a big animal with a trunk. (elephant)

I am what happens when you dry out a grape. (raisin)

I am a bird that talks. (parrot)

I am a dish made with lettuce and other vegetables. (salad)

I am a sour, yellow fruit. (lemon)

Challenge

Have students come up with their own riddles using words with /ə/ from the unit.

Lesson 15: Review: Mixed Review, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

- Students will review reading words with /ə/. TEKS 3.2.A.i*
- Students will read multisyllabic words with final stable syllable ‘le’. TEKS 3.2.A.ii*

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

Support

If students finish early, have them write examples of /ə/ words from the activity on the board to aid other students.

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Provide students with a list of the words in the activity page. Have students find each word in the text. Tell students whether the word has the /ə/ > 'e', 'a'; /ə/ > 'i', 'o'; and/or if it has a final stable syllable.

ELPS 3.B

READ WORDS WITH /ə/ (3 MIN.)

- Assign students to pairs and direct them to Activity Page 15.1.
- Read the instructions aloud. Tell students to take turns reading sentences aloud to identify words with /ə/. You may want to preview the following vocabulary: write articles, next issue, natural world, and ancient life.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback. Review the answers as a class.

REVIEW MULTISYLLABIC WORDS WITH FINAL STABLE SYLLABLE 'LE' (3 MIN.)

- Write the word humble on the board, with the syllables marked: hum•ble.
- Underline the final syllable of hum•ble.
- Say, "Remember that this is a final stable syllable. It is unstressed. When we read this type of syllable, we pronounce the consonant followed by the schwa and /l/ sounds."
- Say humble aloud and have students read it aloud.
- Write the following words on the board: baf•fle, in•vin•ci•ble, re•ver•si•ble, tri•cy•cle, in•fla•ta•ble, hus•tle, and sprin•kle.
- Underline the final stable syllable in each word and have students practice reading the words aloud. Remind students to look for unstressed syllables and adjust the vowel sound to the schwa if necessary.

Lesson 15: Review: Mixed Review, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with prefixes and suffixes. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (vi) spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

REVIEW PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES: -HOOD, -MENT, -EN, UNDER-, OVER-, TELE-, SUPER-, UNI-, TRANS- (6 MIN.)

- Tell students that they will review affixes that they have learned in this unit.
- Assign students to four groups. Divide the affixes among the groups. Use the table below for a suggestion of how to assign affixes to groups.

|-----------------------------------|
| Group 1: -hood, -ment, -en |
| Group 2: under-, over-     |
| Group 3: tele-, super-     |
| Group 4: uni-, trans-      |

- Direct each group to think of examples of words that use each of their affixes. Then have groups write a sentence for each of their words.
- Have groups share their sentences aloud to the class. Have the other students in the class listen to the group read the sentence and ask volunteers to identify the affix used in each sentence.
- Direct students to Activity Page 15.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner's response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Activity Page 15.2

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students work in groups and monitor student comprehension. If groups come up with words quickly, prompt them to offer several other examples.

Lesson 15: Review: Mixed Review, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Maple Talent Show” independently and will answer questions about key details in the text. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.5

READ “MAPLE TALENT SHOW” INDEPENDENTLY (10 MIN.)

- Tell students that they will be reading “Maple Talent Show.” Direct students to Activity Page 15.3.
- Define unfamiliar words and phrases for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: showcase, mingled, custom, unified, spectacle
  - phrases: “sparked universal interest,” “transported from their sofas”
- Read a few lines of the passage, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words: televise and bulletin board.
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace.
- Remind students that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression.
- Tell students that they may read the text either silently or softly to themselves.
- Then have them read the text again and
  - underline ten words with schwa (/ə/), such as pencil, Maple, and announcement;
  - circle words with the prefixes uni-, trans-, tele-, and super-, such as unique, transition, and superpower; and
  - highlight words with final stable syllable -le, such as Maple, couple, and able, and then draw a box around the final stable syllables.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; TEKS 3.5 Self-select text and read independently for a sustained period of time.

Activity Pages
15.3, 15.4

Support

Before reading “Maple Talent Show,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

- After students have annotated the passage, have them complete the comprehension questions on Activity Page 15.4 independently. If they don't complete the activity page, instruct them to work on it at home.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Ask students yes/no questions using simple phrases to summarize the story: "Did many students sign up for the talent show? Did anyone play music? Did anyone do a trick? Was there a first prize? Was the show a success?"

Intermediate

Provide students with a specific sentence frame for summarizing and use temporal words: The principal of Maple Elementary decided to have a _____. April decided to _____; Reyna and Fatima would _____; and _____ would ride his unicycle. To prepare, all the students _____. Then, on the day of the show, they _____. As a result, the talent show was _____.

Advanced/

Advanced High

Encourage students to expand or build on other students' responses.

ELPS 4.G; ELPS 4.I

Lesson 15: Review: Mixed Review, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will review spelling and writing words with 'le' > /ə/ + /l/.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

ENCODING REVIEW (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with schwa sounds that you say aloud.
- Say the word horizon. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- |               |                   |                 |
| 1. horizon    | 4. understandable | 7. supermarket  |
| 2. infanthood | 5. overpromise    | 8. unicycle     |
| 3. amazement  | 6. telecommute    | 9. transferable |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

1. A kitten is an example of an animal.
2. The lesson is about triangles and circles.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

Challenge

Ask students to name a word from the dictation activity that has an r-controlled syllable. (alert, natural, carpet, circles)

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Dictation Journals: Phonics/Encoding Dictation

Collect students’ dictation journals to review and monitor student progress.

Lesson 15: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 15.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 15.3.
- Have them reread “Maple Talent Show.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 15.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences. Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.

- Then, pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Maple Talent Show” on Activity Page TR 15.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Gather Tricky Word index cards from Lessons 11 and 13 (among, common, several, thousands, didn't, wasn't, whether, wheels). Include any other Tricky Words you reviewed in Lesson 13. Write the following new words on index cards: sign, second, alphabet, vowel, interest, and between.
- Use the cards with the new words. Say, “Today we will review some more Tricky Words together. You can sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Display and point to the word sign and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘i’ is pronounced /ie/ and the ‘gn’ is pronounced /n/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /s/ for this letter. We say /ie/ for this letter. We say /n/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /s/ /ie/ /n/, sign. Say, “Sign! It’s a word we use all the time, like when we say ‘Please sign up by the cafeteria bulletin board.’”

- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say sign. What’s the word?” Ask them to sound it out and then read it again. Say, “It is helpful to remember another word that has the /n/ sound spelled ‘gn.’” Write gnat on the board, then blend and read the word aloud with students.
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining word(s), mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Add the Tricky Word cards from Lessons 11 and 13. Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all the new words we learned this week. Let’s play a game. We’re going to go through this stack of cards as fast as we can, reading the word on each card. Read the words carefully, because these are words that you have to sound out in a special way. Let’s see how fast we can go. My turn first.”
- Model taking the top card off the stack, showing it to students, and saying the Tricky Word after a pause. Continue through the stack.
- Say, “Do you think you can go faster than I did?”
- Assign students to small groups. As you show each card, have one group of students read through the stack of cards as quickly as they can.
- If a student says the wrong word for a card, model how to sound out the Tricky Word and then say the word. Ask the student to repeat your answer, and move on to the next card in the stack with the same small group until you go through all of the cards.
- Select the next small group, shuffle the stack of cards, and repeat until all groups have had a turn.
- Say, “Okay, now let’s go faster.” Shuffle the stack of cards and repeat at a faster pace so that each group has had two turns.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Save the index cards to incorporate review of the Tricky Words throughout the unit.

Additional Activities to Review All Tricky Words from This Week

(1) Tricky Words Race

- Create a four-column chart. Fill it out with the Tricky Words you taught this week.
- Divide the class into two groups and have each group line up by the board.
- Explain how the game works. You will call out a Tricky Word. One student from each team will race to find the word on the chart and tap it. The first student to find and tap the word earns a point for the team.
- Repeat until all the words have been found or every student has had a turn.

Note: Consider playing this game in pairs to provide support for students who are still mastering these Tricky Words.

(2) Call, Flip, Read, Roll

- Gather ten index cards for each student.
- Give each student ten index cards, and have them number the cards 1-10.
- Display all Tricky Words that have been taught so far. Have each student pick ten Tricky Words from the list and write one word on the back of each index card. Their set of cards should now have a word to be read on one side and a number on the other side.
- Place students into pairs. Call out a number at random and have each student take turns finding a card with that number on it in their stack. The student then reads the word aloud. If the word is read correctly, the student may then roll a die and whatever number it lands on is the number of points they receive. The student with the most points is the winner.
- Save the index cards to use the next time students play this game. Students can reuse another student's set of cards.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Continue to display the chart containing examples for the various spellings of /ə/ that you created in Lesson 11. Create a new chart like the one shown below. You will continue to use this chart in Lessons 17–19. Cover any spellings not yet reviewed.

| /ə/ + /l/ > 'al' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'el' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'il' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul' |
|------------------|------------------|------------------|------------------|
| metal            | barrel           | nostril          | mindful          |
| final            | parcel           | fossil           | playful          |
| moral            | marvel           | peril            | skillful         |

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 3 Discussion Questions Observation Record that you prepared in Lesson 1. Remember to ask each student to respond to at least one discussion question over the course of the week. Make notes regarding each student's ability to answer literal, inferential, and evaluative questions and to respond using complete sentences.
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: ecosystem, mackerel, cuttlefish, stingray, mussels, bottlenose dolphin, Great Barrier Reef, snorkel, and bleached coral.

Lesson 16: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ &gt; 'al', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'al'.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW WORDS WITH /ə/ + /l/ > 'AL' (3 MIN.)

- Explain that students will continue to review words ending with the schwa and /l/ sounds.
- Say, "Remember that the schwa has a sound like a short 'u'. We usually hear the schwa in unstressed syllables of multisyllabic words."
- Pronounce the /ə/ sound for students, and have students repeat it.
- Say, "We have reviewed how the schwa sound can be combined with the letter 'l' to make final stable syllables. Now we will look at another one of these endings, 'al'."
- Write the word pedal on the board, and read it aloud, emphasizing the schwa sound in 'al'.
- Say, "A pedal is a part, such as on a bicycle or a piano, that you push with your foot."
- Underline the 'al' ending.
- Say, "The second syllable of pedal has a schwa sound. Read it with me."
- On the board, write the words cymbal, nasal, mental, legal, and social.
- Say, "Here are some other words that end with 'al' and have a schwa sound."
- Point to each word as you read it aloud. Have students read each word aloud with you. Note that sometimes the 'al' is preceded by syllables with long vowel sounds and sometimes by syllables with short vowel sounds.

ENGLISH
LANGUAGE
LEARNERS

Foundational Skills
Foundational Literacy Skills
Beginning

Have students blend the schwa sound and 'l' to understand the sound of 'al'. Then have them blend the two syllables in pe•tal.

Intermediate

Clarify for students that 'al' has the same sound as 'le'. Use the words pe•tal and ket•tle to illustrate this.

Advanced/
Advanced High

Have students make a list of five other words with an ending of 'al' that has a schwa sound.

ELPS 2.B

Lesson 16: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'al', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

✚ Students will read words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'al'. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will identify multisyllabic words with final stable syllable 'al'.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

READ WORDS WITH /ə/ + /l/ > 'AL' (3 MIN.)

- Write the symbol for schwa, /ə/, on the board. Ask students how to pronounce the schwa sound.
- Remind students that the schwa sound appears in unstressed syllables. Unstressed syllables are pronounced more quietly and often more quickly than stressed syllables. Any vowel can have the schwa sound.
- Write the word tidal on the board, and ask students how they might expect it to be pronounced. If needed, provide the clue that the first vowel sound is /ie/.
- Explain that this word is usually pronounced /tie•dəl/.
- Have students read aloud the word tidal.
- Direct students' attention to the chart with various spellings of /ə/ that you prepared in advance. Uncover the column labeled /ə/ + /l/ > 'al'.
- Point to /ə/ + /l/ > 'al' and say, "/əl/".
- Underline the 'al' as you read each word. Have students read the words aloud after you and practice pronouncing each one.
- Direct students to Activity Page 16.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

IDENTIFY MULTISYLLABIC WORDS WITH FINAL STABLE SYLLABLE 'AL' (3 MIN.)

- Explain to students that a word that ends with a consonant and 'al' often forms an unstressed syllable.
- Remind students that we refer to these syllable types as final stable syllables because they appear at the end of a word and follow a predictable pronunciation pattern.
- Write the word rental on the board, with the syllables marked: ren•tal.
- Underline 'e'. Say, "This vowel is part of a closed syllable." Pronounce the syllable /ren/.
- Underline 'a'. Say, "In this word, 'a' is part of a final stable syllable." Circle -tal. Pronounce the syllable /təl/.
- Point to each syllable as you say the word aloud, and then have students read the word aloud.
- Ask, "How many syllables does rental have?" (two)
- Repeat with the following three-syllable words: dig•i•tal, hos•pi•tal and per•so•nal. Remind students to look for unstressed syllables and adjust the vowel sound to the schwa if necessary.

Check for Understanding

Turn and Talk: Ask students to work with their partner to divide these words into syllables and then pronounce the final stable syllable in the words mammal and capital. (məl; təl) Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner's thinking with the group.

Lesson 16: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'al', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefix micro- and the suffix -ist.

TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (vi) spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Challenge

Point out that the 'al' in personal changes the noun person into an adjective. Challenge students to brainstorm other examples in which adding 'al' changes a noun into an adjective. (educational, national, cultural)

Support

PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES: MICRO-, -IST (6 MIN.)

Help students clarify the meaning of the suffix -ist by discussing people they will encounter regularly in their everyday lives, such as dentists, hair stylists, and pharmacists.

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meaning: microphone and microscope.

You may wish to clarify that when computers were first invented, they were very large and filled entire rooms. Today's personal computers and tablets are much smaller and can be considered microcomputers.

Activity Page 16.2

- Write the word microcomputer on the board, and read it aloud.
- Ask, “What do you think this word means?”
- If a volunteer answers correctly, ask the student to explain how they knew.
- Underline the prefix micro-, and circle the root computer.
- Say, “The prefix micro- means ‘small.’ So a microcomputer is a small computer, like a desktop computer or a tablet computer.”
- Say, “Now let’s talk about the suffix -ist.”
- Write the word cyclist on the board.
- Ask, “What do you think this word means?”
- If a volunteer answers correctly, ask the student to explain how they knew.
- Underline the suffix -ist, and circle the root cycl. Note that the letter ‘e’ was dropped when -ist was added. Explain that cycle most often refers to a bicycle. It can also refer to a tricycle or a motorcycle.
- Say, “The suffix -ist means ‘a person who does something.’ When we add this suffix to a noun, it changes the noun from a thing to a person. So a cyclist is someone who rides a bicycle.”
- Write the words microscope and artist on the board. Read the words aloud and have student volunteers define each word. Offer corrections as needed.
- Direct students to Activity Page 16.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner’s response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 16: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ &gt; 'al', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Special Report: Coral Reefs” orally with appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.4

READ “SPECIAL REPORT: CORAL REEFS” WITH ACCURACY (10 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 16.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: critical, diverse, vessel, counsel, tropical
  - phrases: “unravel the mysteries,” “Channel 3 News travels underwater”
  - domain-specific language: colony, ecosystems, microorganisms, microbiologists, environmentalists
- Have students follow along as you read “Special Report: Coral Reef.”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., notable and colossal).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read.

Support

Before reading “Special Report: Coral Reefs,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

Activity Page 16.3

TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Ask students yes/no questions: Is coral a rock? (no) Does a coral reef have food for animals? (yes) Do rocks give coral reefs their color? (no)

Intermediate

Provide students with specific sentence starters:
A coral reef provides sea animals with _____. (food and shelter)

Advanced/ Advanced High

Encourage students to expand or build on other students' responses.

ELPS 4.G; ELPS 4.I

Wrap-Up

Discussion Questions for “Special Report: Coral Reefs”

1. Literal. Is coral a type of rock? Explain why or why not.
  - » Coral is not a type of rock. It is a living creature.
2. Literal. What does a coral reef provide to sea animals and plants?
  - » A coral reef provides food and shelter to sea life.
3. Literal. What makes coral reefs so colorful?
  - » Algae provide the reefs with remarkable colors.
4. Literal. Why are some coral reefs in danger?
  - » High sea temperatures cause algae to leave coral. Then the coral turns white, which can kill the coral.
5. Inferential. What can people do to help coral reefs?
  - » Possible response: People can avoid activities that cause pollution.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Say, “Give a thumbs-up if you think I read these sentences at an appropriate rate or a thumbs-down if you think the rate is not appropriate.” Read the sentences too fast: “Coral reefs are found in tropical oceans around the world. Australia’s Great Barrier Reef is the most notable.” (thumbs-down)

Observation: Discussion Questions Observation Record

- Call on a different student to answer each question. Note students' performance in the Discussion Questions Observation Record.
- Turn and Talk: For the inferential question, have students share their thoughts with one another. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their answer. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner's thinking with the group.

Lesson 16: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'al', Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'al'.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL WORDS THAT END IN 'AL' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with /ə/ + l > 'al' that you say aloud.
- Say the word final. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- |           |           |             |
|-----------|-----------|-------------|
| 1. final  | 4. signal | 7. animal   |
| 2. floral | 5. rural  | 8. capital  |
| 3. total  | 6. global | 9. internal |

- Then tell students that you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- |                                  |
|----------------------------------|
| 1. The flower has pink petals.   |
| 2. I like reading digital books. |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

Lesson 16: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 16.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 16.3.
- Have them reread “Special Report: Coral Reefs.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 16.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following words on index cards: usually, cells, and mysteries. You may wish to create or gather cards for additional Tricky Words.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word cells and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘c’ is pronounced /s/ and the ‘s’ is pronounced /z/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”

- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /s/ for this letter. We say /e/ for this letter. We say /l/ for these letters. We say /z/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /s /e/ /l/ /z/, cells. Say, “Cells! It’s a word we might have heard in science, like when we say ‘Individual algae cells can be seen only by using a microscope.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say cells. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Continue to display the chart containing examples for the various spellings of /ə/ that you created in Lesson 11 along with the chart you created in Lesson 16 (shown below). You will continue to use this chart in Lessons 18–19. Cover any spellings not yet reviewed.

| /ə/ + /l/ > 'al' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'el' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'il' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul' |
|------------------|------------------|------------------|------------------|
| metal            | barrel           | nostril          | mindful          |
| final            | parcel           | fossil           | playful          |
| moral            | marvel           | peril            | skillful         |

Morphology

- Create a chart to display with the following definitions and roots.

Note: The second column will be completed in class as students use the information in the first and third columns to create words with affixes micro- or -ist.

| Root    | Word with Affix | Definition                                                                |
|---------|-----------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| tour    |                 | a person who travels for fun                                              |
| wave    |                 | a small electromagnetic wave used to create heat                          |
| flute   |                 | a person who plays the flute                                              |
| final   |                 | a person who makes the last round of a competition                        |
| novel   |                 | a person who has written a book                                           |
| chip    |                 | a small circuit, or electronic part, used to process or store information |
| cartoon |                 | a person who draws comics, graphic novels, or similar illustrated works   |
| film    |                 | a technology for making printed or drawn images very small                |

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 3 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
  - Have students take turns reading the entire story.
  - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
  - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the story.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: ecosystem, mackerel, cuttlefish, stingray, mussels, bottlenose dolphin, Great Barrier Reef, snorkel, and bleached coral.

Lesson 17: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ &gt; 'el', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'el'.

 TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW WORDS WITH /ə/ + /l/ > 'EL' (3 MIN.)

- Explain that students will continue to review words ending with the schwa and /l/ sounds.
- Say, "Remember that the schwa has a sound like a short 'u'."
- Pronounce the /u/ sound for students, and have students repeat it.
- Say the word nickel, emphasizing the schwa sound in 'el'. Have students repeat the word.
- Write the word nickel on the board. Underline the 'el' ending. Say, "The 'el' in nickel has a schwa sound. Let's read it together."
- Repeat the routine with the following words: model, bagel, chapel, easel, and travel.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Write the words channel and mammal. Ask students to give a thumbs-up if they agree or a thumbs-down if they disagree that both words end with the /ə/ + /l/ sound. (thumbs-up)

ENGLISH

Foundational Skills
Foundational Literacy Skills

To provide additional practice for students to distinguish words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'el' from words with /e/ + /l/ > 'el', write and read aloud the following words: elbow and counsel.

Have students identify the sound made by 'el' in each word. Point out that in elbow, the syllable with 'el' is stressed (/el•boe/), and in counsel, the syllable with 'el' is unstressed (/coun•sel/).

ELPS 2.A

 TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

Lesson 17: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'el', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will read words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'el'. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will identify multisyllabic words with the final stable syllable 'el'.

TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

READ WORDS WITH /ə/ + /l/ > 'EL' (3 MIN.)

- Write the symbol for schwa, /ə/, on the board, and have students pronounce the schwa sound.
- Remind students that the schwa sound appears in unstressed syllables. Unstressed syllables are pronounced more quietly and often more quickly than stressed syllables. Every vowel can have the schwa sound.
- Write the word chapel on the board, and ask students how they might expect it to be pronounced.
- Explain that this word is usually pronounced /cha•pəl/.

Note: You may want to point out that 'a' in the syllable cha- makes a short vowel sound even though it is an open syllable. Explain to students that sometimes words don't follow the rules and they will become more familiar with how to read them with practice.

- Have students read and pronounce the word chapel.
- Say, "Chapel is another word for church or a place of worship."
- Direct students' attention to the chart with various spellings of /ə/ that you prepared in advance. Uncover the column labeled /ə/ + /l/ > 'el'.
- Point to /ə/ + /l/ > 'el' and say /əl/.
- Underline the 'el' as you read each word. Have students read the words aloud after you.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

IDENTIFY MULTISYLLABIC WORDS WITH FINAL STABLE SYLLABLE 'EL' (3 MIN.)

Support

Tell students that words in the word search are hidden horizontally and vertically, and that some letters may be used for more than one word.

- Explain to students that a word that ends with 'el' often forms an unstressed syllable.
- Remind students that we refer to these syllable types as final stable syllables because they appear at the end of a word and follow a predictable pronunciation pattern.
- Write the word apparel on the board, with the syllables marked: ap•par•el.
- Underline the first 'a'. Say, "This vowel is part of a closed syllable." Pronounce the syllable /ap/.
- Underline 'ar'. Say, "In this word, 'ar' is an r-controlled vowel. It is part of this syllable." Circle -par-. Point out that in this word, the 'ar' makes the /air/ sound. Pronounce the syllable /pair/.
- Underline 'el'. Say, "In this word, 'e' is part of a final stable syllable." Circle -el. Pronounce the syllable /əl/.
- Point to each syllable as you say the word aloud. /ap/ /pair/ /əl/. Say, "That doesn't make sense. Remember that closed syllables often make a short vowel sound, but in multisyllabic words, some syllables are stressed and others are unstressed. In unstressed open syllables, vowels make the /ə/ sound. Let me adjust the vowel sound to the schwa and try again." Read the word again, pronouncing the first syllable /əp/. Then have students read the word aloud.
- Ask, "How many syllables does apparel have?" (three)
- Say, "Words with more than two syllables usually have several unstressed syllables. In this case, I hear two unstressed syllables and one stressed syllable: /əp•pair•əl/."
- Repeat with the following three-syllable words: mis•la•bel, su•per•mod•el, un•rav•el.
- Direct students to Activity Page 17.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have student pairs work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 17: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'el', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefix micro- and the suffix -ist.

 TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES: MICRO-, -IST (6 MIN.)

- Write the affixes micro- and -ist on the board.
- Point to micro-. Say, “The prefix micro- means ‘small.’”
- Point to -ist. Say, “The suffix -ist means ‘a person who does something.’”
- Direct students to the chart you prepared in advance.
- Explain that students will use the information in the first two columns to create words with affixes micro- or -ist.
- Read aloud the first definition and root word.
- Ask, “Which affix should we add to the root tour to create a word that means ‘a person who travels for fun’?” (-ist)
- Have a student volunteer create the correct word by adding -ist to tour. (tourist)
- Record the word in the top cell in the third column of the chart.
- Repeat the routine to complete the chart.
- Direct students to Activity Page 17.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner’s response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Challenge

Have students use words with the prefix micro- or the suffix -ist in a written or oral sentence.

Activity Page 17.2

 TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (vi) spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Lesson 17: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ &gt; 'el', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will reread “Special Report: Coral Reefs” fluently with a partner. TEKS 3.1.D; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.4

REREAD “SPECIAL REPORT: CORAL REEFS” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s text with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the text.

Activity Page 16.3

Support

Remind students that they can reread or scan the passage multiple times to look for words with the target skills. For example, they might first look for words with final stable syllables ‘el’. Then they may scan for words with the prefix micro-. They may read the passage a third time looking for words with the suffix -ist.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 16.3. Tell students that today they will reread “Special Report: Coral Reefs” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “Special Report: Coral Reefs.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.
- After students read the passage, have them work together to
  - underline words with final stable syllables ‘al’ and ‘el’ and
  - circle words that have the prefix micro- or the suffix -ist.

TEKS 3.1.D Work collaboratively with others by following agreed-upon rules, norms, and protocols; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Work with student pairs to identify a few words with the final stable syllable 'el'.

Intermediate

Have students share their annotations with another student.

Advanced/

Advanced High

Encourage students to read aloud the words they annotate to a partner.

ELPS 4.A

Observation: “Special Report: Coral Reefs”
Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read “Special Report: Coral Reefs,” make notes about the student’s reading, such as errors in fluency or prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 17: Review: Words with /ə/ + /l/ > ‘el’, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /ə/ + /l/ > ‘el’.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL WORDS THAT END IN ‘EL’ (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with /ə/ + l > ‘el’ that you say aloud.
- Say the word model. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

|          |           |             |
|----------|-----------|-------------|
| 1. model | 4. cancel | 7. marvel   |
| 2. camel | 5. bagel  | 8. tinsel   |
| 3. level | 6. nickel | 9. mislabel |

- Then tell students that you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

1. I want to travel when I grow up.
2. That barrel is full of water.

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students are working or collect their dictation journals to review and monitor their spelling progress.

End Lesson

Lesson 17: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 17.1 for each student.
- Review the directions. Read the words from the word bank aloud with the students and provide support for any possibly unfamiliar words, such as kennel, mantel, and swivel. Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to complete the activity.
- When students are done writing, ask pairs to share and check each other’s work.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Special Report: Coral Reefs” on Activity Page TR 16.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.

- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say cells and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, seeellzzz. Write the letters to spell cells on the board.
- Point to the word cells and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /s/ sound is spelled with ‘c’ and the /z/ sound is spelled with ‘s.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds.
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /s/ for this letter. We say /e/ for this letter. We say /l/ for these letters. We say /z/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /s/ /e/ /l/ /z/, cells. Say, “Cells! It’s a word we might have heard in science.”

- Repeat with the words usually and mysteries and any other Tricky Words you reviewed in Lesson 16. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Continue to display the chart containing examples for the various spellings of /ə/ that you created in Lesson 11 along with the chart you created in Lesson 16 (shown below). You will continue to use this chart in Lesson 19. Cover any spellings not yet reviewed.

| /ə/ + /l/ > 'al' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'el' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'il' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul' |
|------------------|------------------|------------------|------------------|
| metal            | barrel           | nostril          | mindful          |
| final            | parcel           | fossil           | playful          |
| moral            | marvel           | peril            | skillful         |

Reading

- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: gerbil, baby gerbil, rodent, and burrows.

Lesson 18: Review: Words with /ə/ + l &gt; 'il', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'il'.

✦ TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW /ə/ + /l/ > 'IL' (3 MIN.)

- Explain that students will continue to review words ending with the schwa and /l/ sounds.
- Say, "Remember that the schwa has a sound like a short 'u'."
- Pronounce the /u/ sound for students, and have students repeat it.
- Say the word pencil, emphasizing the schwa sound in 'il'. Have students repeat the word.
- Write the word pencil on the board. Underline the 'il' ending. Say, "The 'il' in pencil has a schwa sound. Let's read it together."
- Repeat the routine with the following words: stencil, council, pupil, and gerbil.

Lesson 18: Review: Words with /ə/ + l &gt; 'il', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

✦ Students will identify and read words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'il'. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will identify multisyllabic words with final stable syllable 'il'.

✦ TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

READ WORDS THAT END IN /ə/ + /l/ > 'IL' (3 MIN.)

- Write the symbol for schwa, /ə/, on the board, and have students pronounce the schwa sound.

✦ TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

ENGLISH
LANGUAGE
LEARNERS

Foundational Skills
Foundational Literacy Skills

Point out that when 'i' is part of a team, such as in 'ai' or 'oi', the spelling 'il' does not make the /ə/ + /l/ sound. Write and read aloud the following words: coil and snail.

Underline the vowel team in each word, and have students identify the sound each makes. Then write the words soil and tail and have students practice reading them aloud.

ELPS 2.A, ELPS 3.A

- Remind students that the schwa sound appears in unstressed syllables. Unstressed syllables are pronounced more quietly and often more quickly than stressed syllables. Any vowel can have the schwa sound.
- Write the word civil on the board, and ask students how they might expect it to be pronounced.
- Explain that this word is usually pronounced /si•vəl/.
- Have students pronounce the word civil.
- Say, “Civil is an adjective with multiple meanings. It can mean ‘polite’ or ‘relating to a political state or its citizens.’”
- Direct students’ attention to the chart with various spellings of /ə/ that you prepared in advance. Uncover the column labeled /ə/ + /l/ > ‘il’.
- Point to /ə/ + /l/ > ‘il’ and say, “/əl/.”
- Underline the ‘il’ as you read each word. Have students read the words aloud after you.
- Direct students to Activity Page 18.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Check for Understanding

Turn and Talk: After students have completed the activity page, have them work with a partner to compare and self-correct their work. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.

IDENTIFY MULTISYLLABIC WORDS WITH FINAL STABLE SYLLABLE ‘IL’ (3 MIN.)

- Explain to students that a word that ends with ‘il’ often forms an unstressed syllable.
- Remind students that we refer to these syllable types as final stable syllables because they appear at the end of a word and follow a predictable pronunciation pattern.

Challenge

Remind students that consonant sounds can be made up of multiple letters. Write the word nostril, and challenge students to identify the consonant blend in the final stable syllable. ('str')

Support

Provide support for any unfamiliar words in the passage or word bank. For example, explain that the base word in microphone and phone, comes from a Greek word meaning "sound." A microphone is used to change a small sound into a big sound. Explain that microfilm was used to put small pictures of information, like newspaper pages, on film before there was computer storage.

Activity Page 18.2

- Write the word daredevil on the board, with the syllables marked: dare•dev•il.
- Underline the first 'are'. Say, "This vowel team is part of an r-controlled syllable." Circle dare-. Pronounce the syllable /dair/.
- Underline the second 'e'. Say, "In this word, 'e' is part of a closed syllable." Circle dev-. Pronounce the syllable /dev/.
- Underline 'i'. Say, "In this word, 'i' is part of a final stable syllable. Circle il. Pronounce the syllable /əl/.
- Ask, "How many syllables does daredevil have?" (three)
- Say, "Remember that words with more than two syllables usually have several unstressed syllables. In this case, I hear two unstressed syllables and one stressed syllable: /dair•dev•əl/. Also in this case, only the final stable syllable makes the schwa sound."
- Repeat with the following words: basil, tonsil, and utensil. Ask students to identify the final stable syllable. (basil: 'sil'; tonsil: 'sil'; utensil: 'sil')

Lesson 18: Review: Words with /ə/ + I > 'il', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will use words with the prefix micro- and the suffix -ist.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES: MICRO-, -IST (6 MIN.)

- Write the affixes micro- and -ist on the board.
- Remind students that the prefix micro- means "small" and the suffix -ist means "a person who does something."
- Direct students to Activity Page 18.2 and review the instructions.
- Complete the activity page as a class. Read the passage aloud, and have student volunteers identify the word from the word bank that fits each blank. Offer corrections as needed.

Note: This activity page is done as a class so that there is support for unfamiliar vocabulary. In addition, these target words have been used in previous lessons.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (vi) spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Lesson 18: Review: Words with /ə/ + l &gt; 'il', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil” fluently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.4

READ “LIFE CYCLE OF A WILD GERBIL” (10 MIN.)

Note: You may want to point out that the text includes a table. Remind students that a table is a text feature that helps an author organize important information for the reader.

- Direct students to Activity Page 18.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: proceed, perils, tranquil, foreseeable, proactively
  - phrases: “settle into adulthood,” “progress in age,” “mindful of”
  - domain-specific language: zoologists, animal behaviorists, rodent family, animal specialists, lifespan
- Have students follow along as you read “Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil.”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., capable and, in the table, invincible).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read or have students read it independently.
- Then have them turn to Activity Page 18.4 and complete the comprehension questions. If they don’t complete the activity page, instruct them to work on it at home.

TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Support

Have students reread or scan the text to look for key ideas and details as they answer the comprehension questions.

Before reading “Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

Activity Pages 18.3, 18.4

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Have a strong reader work with a struggling reader to complete the comprehension questions.

Intermediate

Have a small group read the first paragraph together, taking turns, and work together to complete the comprehension questions.

Advanced/
Advanced High

Have students read independently and then work with a partner to share their responses to the comprehension questions.

ELPS 4.1

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Turn and Talk: Have student pairs discuss and compare their answers to the comprehension questions. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their answers. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner's thinking with the group.

Lesson 18: Review: Words with /ə/ + l > 'il', Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /ə/ + l > 'il'.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL WORDS THAT END IN 'IL' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with /ə/ + l > 'il' that you say aloud.
- Say the word pencil. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

|            |            |            |
|------------|------------|------------|
| 1. pencil  | 4. tonsil  | 7. stencil |
| 2. pupil   | 5. utensil | 8. peril   |
| 3. council | 6. fossil  | 9. civil   |

- Then tell students that you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

1. My sister wants a gerbil for a pet.
2. We grow fresh basil in our garden.

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

End Lesson

Lesson 18: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 18.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 18.3.
- Have them reread “Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 18.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following words on index cards: wild, half, and tranquil.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word wild and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘il’ is pronounced /ie(ə)l/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /w/ for this letter. We blend and say /ie/ /əl/ for these letters. We say /d/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /w/ /ie/ /əl/ /d/, wild. Say, “Wild! It’s a word we hear all the time, like when we say ‘A wild gerbil’s life cycle is very interesting.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say wild. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.

- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Continue to display the chart containing examples for the various spellings of /ə/ that you created in Lesson 11 along with the chart you created in Lesson 16 (shown below).

| /ə/ + /l/ > 'al' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'el' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'il' | /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul' |
|------------------|------------------|------------------|------------------|
| metal            | barrel           | nostril          | mindful          |
| final            | parcel           | fossil           | playful          |
| moral            | marvel           | peril            | skillful         |

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 3 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
  - Have students take turns reading the entire story.
  - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
  - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the story.
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: gerbil, baby gerbil, rodent, and burrows.

Lesson 19: Review: Words with /ə/ + l &gt; 'ul', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul'.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW /ə/ + /L/ > 'UL' (3 MIN.)

- Explain that students will continue to review words ending with the schwa and /l/ sounds. Today they will review the ending 'ul'.
- Say, "Even 'u', which often makes the /u/ sound anyway, can make the schwa sound. This happens in syllables that are unstressed, such as /aw•ful/."
- Write the word awful on the board. Underline the 'ul' ending. Say, "The 'ul' in awful has a schwa sound. Let's read it together."
- Repeat the routine with the following words: joyful, lawful, and dutiful.

Challenge

Point out that all of these words end in /fəl/. Challenge pairs or small groups to brainstorm at least one more word that ends in 'ful' to add to the list.

Lesson 19: Review: Words with /ə/ + l &gt; 'ul', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will identify and read words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul'.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will identify multisyllabic words with final stable syllable 'ul'.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

READ WORDS THAT END IN /ə/ + /L/ > 'UL' (3 MIN.)

- Write the symbol for schwa, /ə/, on the board, and have students pronounce the schwa sound.
- Remind students that the schwa sound appears in unstressed syllables. Unstressed syllables are pronounced more quietly and often more quickly than stressed syllables. Every vowel can have the schwa sound.

Foundational Literacy Skills

Students may struggle with choosing the correct ending while completing the activity page. Pair students with a mentor to check and self-correct their work.

ELPS 1.B

Activity Page 19.1

- Write the word helpful on the board, and ask students how they might expect it to be pronounced.
- Explain that this word is usually pronounced /help•fəl/.
- Have students read the word aloud.
- Direct students' attention to the chart with various spellings of /ə/ that you prepared in advance. Uncover the column labeled /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul'.
- Point to /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul' and say /əl/.
- Point out that when /əl/ follows the letter 'f', it is often spelled 'ul'.
- Underline the 'ul' as you read each word. Have students read the words aloud after you.
- Direct students to Activity Page 19.1 and review the instructions. Review the word endings in the bank by saying each aloud. Then read each word aloud with students.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

IDENTIFY MULTISYLLABIC WORDS WITH FINAL STABLE SYLLABLE 'UL' (3 MIN.)

- Explain to students that a word that ends with 'ul' often forms an unstressed syllable.
- Remind students that we refer to these syllable types as final stable syllables because they appear at the end of a word and follow a predictable pronunciation pattern.
- Write the word beautiful on the board, with the syllable marked: beau•ti•ful.
- Underline 'eau'. Say, "These vowels are part of a vowel team syllable." Circle beau-. Pronounce the syllable /bue/.
- Underline 'i'. Say, "In this word, 'i' is part of an open syllable. But it doesn't follow the rule and makes the short /i/ sound." Circle ti-. Pronounce the syllable /ti/.

Note: Some students may pronounce the second syllable /tə/, which is also acceptable.

- Underline 'u'. Say, "In this word, 'u' is part of a final stable syllable." Circle -ful. Pronounce the syllable /fəl/.
- Point to each syllable as you say the word aloud, and then have students read the word aloud.
- Ask, "How many syllables does beautiful have?" (three)
- Say, "Remember that words with more than two syllables usually have several unstressed syllables. In this case, I hear two unstressed syllables and one stressed syllable: /bue•ti•fəl/."
- Repeat with the following words: cheerful, eventful, peaceful, and wonderful, asking students to identify the final stable syllable. (cheerful: 'ful'; eventful: 'ful'; peaceful: 'ful'; wonderful: 'ful') Remind students to look for unstressed syllables and adjust the vowel sound to the schwa if necessary.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Write and read aloud the word truthful. Ask students to give a thumbs-up if they agree or a thumbs-down if they disagree that the final syllable has the /ə/ sound. (thumbs-up)

Lesson 19: Review: Words with /ə/ + l > 'ul', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes fore- and pro-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND PREFIXES: FORE-, PRO- (6 MIN.)

- Say, "Today we will be reviewing two prefixes: fore- and pro-."
- Remind students that prefixes are word parts added to the beginning of roots to change their meaning.
- Write the words foresee, forewarn, and forearm on the board.

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Support

Clarify that the prefix pro- has several meanings. Students may be familiar with the meaning “in favor of” as in the word pro-baseball or pro-recess. Point out that pro- words with this meaning are often hyphenated.

- Point to each word, reading it aloud. Have students read each word aloud.
- Say, “Foresee means ‘to see something before it happens.’ Forewarn means ‘to give a warning before something happens.’ Forearm means ‘the front part of an arm.’”
- Underline the prefix fore- in each word.
- Explain that the prefix fore- means “before.” Point out that sometimes it can be used to refer to the first part or front part of something, as in the word forearm.
- Write the words proceed, propose, and protect on the board.
- Point to each word, reading it aloud. Have students read each word aloud.
- Say, “Proceed means ‘to move forward.’ Propose means ‘to put forward a plan or idea.’ Protect means ‘to prevent harm or shield from danger.’”
- Underline the prefix pro- in each word.
- Explain that the prefix pro- means “forward” or “before.” Point out that sometimes the meaning of the prefix pro- is clear, as in the examples proceed and propose. Other times, the meaning is less obvious, as in the case of protect.
- Direct students to Activity Page 19.2 and review the instructions. Divide students into pairs. Tell students that they will work with a partner on the activity page.
- Complete the first item as a group.
- Then read each sentence aloud before having partners get to work on the activity page. Circulate as students work.
- If students do not complete the activity page in class, ask them to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 19: Review: Words with /ə/ + l &gt; 'ul', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will reread “Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil” fluently with a partner. TEKS 3.1.D; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.4

REREAD “LIFE CYCLE OF A WILD GERBIL” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s story with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the story.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 18.3. Tell students that today they will reread “Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.
- Tell students that after they finish reading, they should work together to
  - underline words with /ə/ + /l/ > ‘ul’ and
  - circle words with the prefixes pro- or fore-.

Activity Page 18.3

Challenge

Challenge students to highlight words with final stable syllables with other spellings they have reviewed.

TEKS 3.1.D Work collaboratively with others by following agreed-upon rules, norms, and protocols; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as igh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Work with student pairs to identify a few words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul'.

Intermediate

Have students share their annotations with another student.

Advanced/

Advanced High

Encourage students to read aloud the words they annotate to a partner.

ELPS 4.A

Check for Understanding

Think-Pair-Share: Give students time to review and think about their annotations. Then have pairs of students compare annotations with another pair of students. Tell students to signal when both sets of partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share one example from each category with the group.

Observation: “Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil”
Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read “Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil,” make notes about the student’s reading, such as errors in fluency or prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 19: Review: Words with /ə/ + l > 'ul', Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul'.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL WORDS THAT END IN 'UL' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul' that you say aloud.
- Say the word helpful. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

- |             |              |             |
|-------------|--------------|-------------|
| 1. helpful  | 4. wonderful | 7. lawful   |
| 2. peaceful | 5. eventful  | 8. mindful  |
| 3. awful    | 6. joyful    | 9. cheerful |

- Then tell students that you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- |                                   |
|-----------------------------------|
| 1. Our new puppy is very playful. |
| 2. I want to be a skillful cook.  |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 19.1 for each student.
- Review the directions. Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to complete the activity.
- When students are done, ask pairs to share and check each other's work.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about "Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil" on Activity Page TR 18.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.

- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say wild and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, wieəld. Write the letters to spell wild on the board.
- Point to the word wild and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /ie/ /əl/ sound is spelled ‘il’.
- Show how the letters map to the sounds.
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /w/ for this letter. We blend and say /ie/ /əl/ for these letters. We say /d/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /w/ /ie/ /əl/, /d/, wild. Say, “Wild! It’s a word we use all the time.”

- Repeat with the words half and tranquil and any other Tricky Words you reviewed in Lesson 18. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.
- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.
- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW /ə/ + /l/ (3 MIN.)

- Say, “Today we will review several spellings of /ə/ + /l/.”
- Remind students that the schwa sound appears in unstressed syllables and that every vowel can have the schwa sound.
- Say the words global, model, stencil, and useful.
- Say, “All of these words have final stable syllables that end in schwa + /l/, but they have different spellings.”
- Write the words on the board and underline their /ə/ + /l/ endings.
- Point to the ‘al’ ending in global. Say, “Here ‘al’ has the schwa sound. Read it with me.”
- Point to the ‘el’ ending in model. Say, “Here ‘el’ has the schwa sound. Read it with me.”
- Point to the ‘il’ ending in stencil. Say, “Here ‘il’ has the schwa sound. Read it with me.”
- Point to the ‘ul’ ending in useful. Say, “Here ‘ul’ has the schwa sound. Read it with me.”
- Say the words again, and have students repeat them.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Say, “Give a thumbs-up if you agree or a thumbs-down if you disagree that the words rental, fossil, hopeful, and gravel all end in /ə/ + /l/.” (thumbs-up)

Foundational Skills
Foundational Literacy Skills

Make sure that students feel the same articulation when they say words that end in /ə/ + /l/ but have different spellings. Practice saying the words oval, label, basil, and helpful. Have students feel their mouths as they say the end sound of each word. Talk about what their mouths are doing and how it feels. Have students look in a mirror to see that their mouth looks the same as they say the word endings, even though the word endings have different spellings. Students can also look at each other’s mouths as they say the sounds. Talk about why their mouths make the same motion when saying each word ending with a different spelling.

Lesson 20: Review: Mixed Review, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will review reading words with different spellings of /ə/ + /l/.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

✚ Students will review syllable types. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW WORDS WITH 'LE', 'EL', 'AL', 'IL', AND 'UL' SCHWA SOUNDS (3 MIN.)

- Explain that you are going to say a riddle and then students will guess the word. Each word will have an /ə/ + /l/ ending that they studied this week.
- Display the word bank you prepared in advance, and tell students that they will pick the answer to each riddle from the bank.
- Say, "This animal has a large hump on its back." (camel)
- Write the word camel on the board and underline /ə/ + /l/ ending 'el'. Have students read the word aloud.
- Repeat the routine with the following riddles.

Dogs, dolphins, and donkeys are all this type of creature. (mammal)

We use this to smell. (nostril)

This is a way to describe a painting that has blue, pink, yellow, and green in it. (colorful)

You use this to dry off after a bath or shower. (towel)

You might use this to write your name. (pencil)

This is a way to describe someone who is always happy. (cheerful)

In a sports game, the team you play against is your team's opponent, or this. (rival)

SORT WORDS BY SYLLABLES (3 MIN.)

- Explain that you are going to write and read aloud some words. When students hear a one-syllable word, they should put up one finger. When they hear a two-syllable word, they should put up two fingers. When they hear a three-syllable word, they should put up three fingers.
- Write the word marble on the board. Have students read the word silently to themselves and then raise a hand with the appropriate number of fingers up to indicate how many syllables it has. (two fingers)
- Draw a slash to mark the syllables: mar•ble.
- Say, “The first syllable in marble is an r-controlled syllable. The second is a final stable syllable.”
- Write the word ship on the board, as you read it aloud. Have students read aloud silently and then raise the appropriate number of fingers to answer. (one finger)
- Say, “The one-syllable word ship has a closed syllable.”
- Write the word eventful on the board. Have students read the word silently and then raise the appropriate number of fingers to answer. (three fingers)
- Draw a slash to mark the syllables: e•vent•ful.
- Say, “The first syllable in eventful is an open syllable with the schwa sound. The second is a closed syllable. The third is a final stable syllable.”
- Repeat with the following words: wonderful (both: closed, r-controlled, final stable syllable), crate (left: VCe), staircase (right: r-controlled, VCe), play (left: vowel team), counsel (right: vowel team, final stable syllable).
- Direct students to Activity Page 20.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have student pairs work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Support

Review the six syllable types: closed, open, VCe, vowel team, r-controlled, and final stable syllable.

Challenge

Challenge pairs or small groups to brainstorm two-syllable words ending in /ə/ + /l/ that use each of the spellings they reviewed this week: ‘al’, ‘el’, ‘il’, and ‘ul’.

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will review identifying the meaning of and using words with prefixes and suffixes.

 TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

REVIEW PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES: MICRO-, -IST, FORE-, PRO- (6 MIN.)

- Write the affixes micro-, -ist, fore-, and pro- on the board.
- Remind students of the meaning of each affix: micro- means “small,” -ist means “a person who does something,” fore- means “before,” and pro- means “forward” or “before.”
- Direct students to Activity Page 20.2 and review the instructions.
- Complete the activity page as a class. Read each sentence and read aloud chorally with students. Have student volunteers identify the affix that should be added. Offer corrections as needed. Write the completed word on the board, noting any spelling change. Read the completed sentence chorally with students.
- After the activity page is completed, have students use one of the completed words from the activity page in a written or oral sentence.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Nigel’s Magical Pencil” independently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.5

READ “NIGEL’S MAGICAL PENCIL” INDEPENDENTLY (10 MIN.)

- Tell students they will be reading “Nigel’s Magical Pencil” independently. Direct students to Activity Page 20.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
 - words: perilous, foresee, tranquil, forewarn
 - phrases: “novel-looking,” “artful design,” “progress further,” “lively arena”
 - domain-specific language: foreground, cartoonist, easel, drawing utensil
- Read a few lines of the passage, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words: lasso and chaos.
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace.
- Remind students that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression.
- Tell students that they may read the text either silently or softly to themselves.
- Then have them read the text again and
 - underline words with /ə/ + /l/ > ‘al’ endings,
 - put a box around words with /ə/ + /l/ > ‘el’ endings,

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.5 Self-select text and read independently for a sustained period of time.

Support

Before reading “Nigel’s Magical Pencil,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

Activity Pages
 20.3, 20.4

Challenge

Have students use a different color to highlight words with /ə/ + /l/ > ‘il’. (pupil, pencil, gerbil, tranquil, utensil, perilous)

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Have students write short phrases or draw their answers to the comprehension questions.

Intermediate

Encourage students to reread the passage as needed when answering the comprehension questions.

Advanced/
Advanced High

Encourage students to use new vocabulary and details from the passage when answering the comprehension questions.

ELPS 4.G

- highlight words with /ə/ + /l/ > 'ul' endings, and
- circle words with affixes micro-, -ist, fore-, or pro-.
- After students have annotated the passage, have them complete the comprehension questions on Activity Page 20.4 independently. If they don't complete it, instruct them to work on it at home.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Think-Pair-Share: Give students time to think about their answers to the comprehension questions. Have student pairs discuss their answers to the questions. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their answer. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner's thinking with the group.

Lesson 20: Review: Mixed Review, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will review spelling and writing words that end with /ə/ + /l/. TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

ENCODING REVIEW (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling some words with /ə/ + /l/ endings that you say aloud.
- Say the word utensil. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

- | | | |
|----------------|------------------|------------------|
| 1. utensil | 4. subtotal | 7. masterfully |
| 2. foreword | 5. microcomputer | 8. unilateral |
| 3. projectable | 6. novelist | 9. transportable |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- | |
| 1. I have a name label on my backpack. |
| 2. My favorite animal is the panda. |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Dictation Journals: Phonics/Encoding Dictation

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 20.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 20.3.
- Have them reread “Nigel’s Magical Pencil.”

- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 20.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should
 - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
 - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Then, pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Nigel’s Magical Pencil” on Activity Page TR 20.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Gather Tricky Word index cards from Lessons 16 and 18 (usually, cells, mysteries, wild, half, tranquil). Include any additional Tricky Words you reviewed in the lessons.

- Say, “Today we will review some more Tricky Words together. You can sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Display and point to the word half and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘al’ is pronounced /a/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /h/ for this letter. We say /a/ for these letters. We say /f/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /h/ /a/ /f/, half. Say, “Half! It’s a word we use all the time, like when we say ‘A baby gerbil is about the size of a half-inch pebble.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say half. What’s the word?” Ask them to sound it out and then read it again. Say, “It is helpful to remember another word that has the /a/ sound spelled ‘al.’” Write calf on the board, then blend and read the word aloud with students.
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining word(s), mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Add the other Tricky Word cards from Lessons 16 and 18. Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all the new words we learned this week. Let’s play a game. We’re going to go through this stack of cards as fast as we can, reading the word on each card. Read the words carefully, because these are words that you have to sound out in a special way. Let’s see how fast we can go. My turn first.”
- Model taking the top card off the stack, showing it to students, and saying the Tricky Word after a pause. Continue through the stack.
- Say, “Do you think you can go faster than I did?”
- Assign students to small groups. As you show each card, have one group of students read through the stack of cards as quickly as they can.
- If a student says the wrong word for a card, model how to sound out the Tricky Word and then say the word. Ask the student to repeat your answer, and move on to the next card in the stack with the same small group until you go through all of the cards.

- Select the next small group, shuffle the stack of cards, and repeat until all groups have had a turn.
- Say, “Okay, now let’s go faster.” Shuffle the stack of cards and repeat at a faster pace so that each group has had two turns.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Save the index cards to incorporate review of the Tricky Words throughout the unit.

Additional Activities to Review All Tricky Words from This Week

(1) Tricky Words Race

- Create a four-column chart. Fill it out with the Tricky Words you taught this week.
- Divide the class into two groups and have each group line up by the board.
- Explain how the game works. You will call out a Tricky Word. One student from each team will race to find the word on the chart and tap it. The first student to find and tap the word earns a point for the team.
- Repeat until all the words have been found or every student has had a turn.
- Note: Consider playing this game in pairs to provide support for students who are still mastering these Tricky Words.

(2) Call, Flip, Read, Roll

- Gather ten index cards for each student.
- Give each student ten index cards, and have them number the cards 1-10.
- Display all Tricky Words that have been taught so far. Have each student pick ten Tricky Words from the list and write one word on the back of each index card. Their set of cards should now have a word to be read on one side and a number on the other side.
- Place students into pairs. Call out a number at random and have each student take turns finding a card with that number on it in their stack. The student then reads the word aloud. If the word is read correctly, the student may then roll a die and whatever number it lands on is the number of points they receive. The student with the most points is the winner.
- Save the index cards to use the next time students play this game. Students can reuse another student’s set of cards.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- For the syllabication activity, create a chart on the board with the following column headings: One Syllable, Two Syllables, Three Syllables.

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 3 Discussion Questions Observation Record that you prepared in Lesson 1. Remember to ask each student to respond to at least one discussion question over the course of the week. Make notes regarding each student's ability to answer literal, inferential, and evaluative questions and to respond using complete sentences.
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: Paris, Eiffel Tower, croissant, crêpe, the Louvre, Mona Lisa, Palais Garnier, and Tour de France bike race.

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Spanish speakers may need guidance in producing the /h/ sound for the letter 'h'. In Spanish, 'h' is silent. Demonstrate making the /h/ sound, by opening your mouth slightly and letting the breath out of the back of your throat. Have students repeat several times.

Start Lesson: Part 1

Lesson 21: Review: Words with /h/ > 'wh', Part 1

Warm-Up

✦ Primary Focus: Students will identify and say words with /h/ > 'wh'. TEKS 3.2.A.i

REVIEW /H/ > 'WH' (3 MIN.)

- Say, "Let's review the /h/ sound."
- Read the following words as you write them on the board, having students read them aloud after you: hat, hand, hop, and how.
- Ask, "How do we often spell the /h/ sound?" (the letter 'h')
- Say, "We're going to learn about another way to spell the /h/ sound."
- Say the following words as you write them, having students repeat them after you: who, whole, and whom.

Lesson 21: Review: Words with /h/ > 'wh', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

- ✦ Students will read words with /h/ > 'wh'. TEKS 3.2.A.i
- ✦ Students will sort words by syllables. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii

READ WORDS WITH /H/ > 'WH' (3 MIN.)

- Write 'wh' on the board. Say, "Another spelling that can make the /h/ sound is 'wh'."
- Point to the word who.
- Underline the 'wh'.
- Have students read the word aloud with you.
- Repeat the routine with the words whole and whom.

- Direct students to Activity Page 21.1 and review the instructions. Work with students to define any unfamiliar words.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class and read the words with a partner. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

SORT WORDS BY SYLLABLES (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that longer words are made up of smaller word parts called syllables. We can break up longer words into syllables to help us read them.
- Work with students to generate a list of syllable types they have learned about and write the list on the board: closed, open, VCe, vowel team, r-controlled, and final stable.
- Display the chart you prepared in advance.
- Write the word mislabel on the board.
- Say, "When I come across a word that I don't know, I can use what I know about all six different syllable types to help me figure out the word. I'm going to start by finding all of the vowels."
- Underline the vowels. Say, "I see three vowels here. I'm going to start out by trying to divide each syllable right after the vowel so they are open syllables that make the long vowel sound: mi•sla•bel."
- Pronounce the word as if it were /mie/ • /slae/ • /bəl/.
- Say, "I don't think that's right. I've never heard a word like that before. I see two consonants after the second 'i', so I'm going to try putting the second syllable break between the consonants instead: mis•la•bel."
- Pronounce the word correctly, /mis/ • /lae/ • /bəl/.
- Ask, "How many syllables does this word have?" (three)
- Write mis•la•bel in the Three Syllables column of the chart.
- Point to the first syllable. Ask, "What syllable type is this?" (closed)
- Ask, "How do you know?" (It has a vowel that is "closed up" by a consonant.)
- Ask, "How do you say this syllable?" (/mis/)
- Point to the second syllable. Ask, "What syllable type is this?" (open)

Challenge

Have students work in pairs to generate more words to add to a chart similar to the one on the board. Ask students to identify the different syllable types in the words.

- Ask, “How do you know?” (It has a vowel that is not closed up by a consonant.)
- Ask, “How do you say this syllable?” (/lae/)
- Point to the third syllable. Ask, “What syllable type is this?” (final stable)
- Ask, “How do you know?” (It has the spelling pattern consonant + ‘el’ which I know creates a final stable syllable.)
- Ask, “How do you say this syllable?” (/bəl/)
- Point to each syllable as you read the word aloud, and then have students read the word aloud.
- Repeat the routine with the following words: grate•ful, pen•cil, cor•al, fear, and smear.

Check for Understanding

Turn and Talk: Have students decide with a partner what syllable type is heard. (r-controlled) Circulate as students discuss. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner’s thinking with the group.

Lesson 21: Review: Words with /h/ > ‘wh’, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes fore- and pro-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

WORDS WITH FORE- AND PRO- (6 MIN.)

- Write the prefixes fore- and pro- on the board.
- Write the following root words: active, most, claim, told, warn, and front.
- Point to the word active. Say, “I’m going to add pro- to make a new word.”

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

- Remind students that fore- means “before” and pro- means “forward” or “before.”
- Write the word proactive on the board. Say the word and have students read it aloud.
- Work with students to create a definition. (When you are proactive, you do something before it’s needed. For example, you might be proactive about cleaning your room before you are asked to do it.)
- Say, “Some words with these prefixes are not easily decoded or defined. When you see these words, you can use context in the sentences to determine their meaning.”
- Point to the word most. Say, “I want to add fore- to make a new word, and I know how I would use the word most in a sentence. I’m not sure what the word foremost means.”
- Write the following sentence on the board: The foremost concern of the principal is students’ education.
- Say, “I can tell from this sentence that foremost means ‘first’ or ‘most important.’”
- Repeat with the remaining words on the board. (proclaim, foretold, forewarn, forefront)
- Direct students to Activity Page 21.2 and review the instructions. Work with students to define any unfamiliar words.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 21: Review: Words with /h/ > 'wh', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Visit France: A Travel Brochure” orally with appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) and will answer questions about key details in the text. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.4

READ “VISIT FRANCE: A TRAVEL BROCHURE” WITH ACCURACY (10 MIN.)
Activity Page 21.3

Challenge

Ask volunteers to read some or part of the text aloud. After they read, point out any adjustments the student made to read with accuracy.

Support

Before reading “Visit France: A Travel Brochure,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

- Direct students to Activity Page 21.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
 - words: intrateam, ascend, intracountry, proactively, houses (verb)
 - phrases: “first and foremost,” “catch a glimpse,” “nestled in dense greenery”
 - domain-specific language: Louvre, Palais Garnier, Tour de France, croissant, crêpe
- Have students follow along as you read “Visit France: A Travel Brochure.”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., intermediate and elevator).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Wrap-Up

Discussion Questions for “Visit France: A Travel Brochure”

1. Literal. What does the author want the reader to do first in Paris?
 - » The author wants the reader to visit the Eiffel Tower.
2. Literal. What is a croissant?
 - » A croissant is a buttery and flaky crescent-shaped pastry.
3. Literal. What famous painting is at the Louvre museum?
 - » The Mona Lisa is at the Louvre.
4. Literal. What bike race should sports fans check out?
 - » They should check out the Tour de France.
5. Inferential. Why does the author mention many different things to do and see in France?
 - » Sample response: The author wants the reader to visit France.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Ask students yes/no questions using simple phrases to summarize the text: “Is the text about going to France?” (yes) “Does the writer say it is bad to go there?” (no)

Intermediate

Provide students with a specific sentence frame for summarizing: When you go to France, you should see ____ and ____.

Advanced/

Advanced High

Encourage students to expand/or build on other students’ responses and phrases.

ELPS 4.G; ELPS 4.I

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Say, “Give a thumbs-up if you agree that I read this sentence with appropriate expression and a thumbs-down if you disagree.” Read the sentence in a monotone voice: “No one is quite sure if Mona Lisa is beginning to smile or stopping the smile.” (thumbs-down)

Observation: Discussion Questions Observation Record

- Call on a different student to answer each question. Note students’ performance in the Discussion Questions Observation Record.
- Turn and Talk: For the inferential question, have students share their thoughts with one another. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their answer. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner’s thinking with the group.

Lesson 21: Review: Words with /h/ > 'wh', Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /h/ > 'wh'.

 TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL WORDS WITH /H/ > 'WH' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with /h/ as 'wh' that you say aloud.
- Say the word whole. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- | | |
|--------------|-----------|
| 1. whole | 4. whom |
| 2. who | 5. wholly |
| 3. wholesome | 6. whose |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- | |
| 1. Whoever wants to eat should get a plate. |
| 2. The whole school celebrated the win. |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

 TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 21.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 21.3.
- Have them reread “Visit France: A Travel Brochure.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 21.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should
 - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
 - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following words on index cards: weather, Palais Garnier, crepe, Eiffel, Louvre, and croissant.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word crepe and say, “This word is tricky because the first ‘e’ is pronounced /æ/.”

- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /k/ for this letter. We say /r/ for this letter. We say /ae/ for this letter. We say /p/ for this letter. We do not say anything for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /k/ /r/ /ae/ /p/, crepe. Say, “Crepe! It’s a word we might hear at a bakery, like when we say ‘I would like to devour a pancake-like crepe.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say crepe. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics/Decoding

- Create a chart to display with the following column headings: 's', 'ss', 'c', 'sc', 'st', 'ce', and 'se'.

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 3 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
 - Have students take turns reading the entire story.
 - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
 - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the story.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: Paris, Eiffel Tower, croissant, crêpe, the Louvre, Mona Lisa, Palais Garnier, and Tour de France bike race.

Lesson 22: Review: Words with /s/ > 'sc', 'st', 'ce', and 'se', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and say words with /s/ > 'sc', 'st', 'ce', and 'se'. TEKS 3.2.A.i

REVIEW TRICKY SPELLINGS OF /S/: 'SC', 'ST', 'CE', 'SE' (3 MIN.)

- Say, "Let's review the /s/ sound."
- Say the word sun as you write it on the board, having students read it aloud after you.
- Ask, "How do we spell the /s/ sound in sun?" ('s')
- Say the word cent as you write it on the board, having students read it aloud after you.
- Ask, "How do we spell the /s/ sound in cent?" ('c')
- Say the word boss as you write it on the board, having students read it aloud after you.
- Ask, "How do we spell the /s/ sound in boss?" ('ss')
- Say, "We're going to learn about other ways to spell the /s/ sound. These are a little trickier."
- Say the following words as you write them, having students read them aloud after you: scent, whistle, prince, and rinse.

Lesson 22: Review: Words with /s/ > 'sc', 'st', 'ce', and 'se', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

- ✦ Students will read words with /s/ > 'sc', 'st', 'ce', and 'se'. TEKS 3.2.A.i
- ✦ Students will create words using syllables. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

✦ TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

Foundational Literacy Skills

Give students opportunities to identify the /s/ sound. Say the following words aloud and ask students to raise a hand when they hear the /s/ sound: rustle, shrug, sail, wrestle, bush, chance, crepe, sight, dance, chop, piece, ascend, and cross.

READ WORDS WITH /S/ > 'SC', 'ST', 'CE', AND 'SE' (3 MIN.)

- Display the chart you created in advance.
- Point to the 's', 'ss', and 'c' headings. Say, "These are spellings we already know about for /s/."
- Write the words from the Warm-Up under the headings, saying them aloud and underlining the sound spelling: sun, cent, and boss.
- Point to the columns labeled 'sc', 'st', 'ce', and 'se.'
- Say, "These are other sound spellings for /s/. They are a little trickier."
- Say scent as you write it in the 'sc' column. Underline the 'sc'. Have students read the word aloud.
- Repeat the routine with the following words: whistle, prince, rinse, scene, castle, bounce, and dense.
- Explain to students that some of these trickier /s/ spellings just have to be learned and remembered. As they practice with them, it will become easier to know which spelling to use.

CREATE WORDS USING SYLLABLES (3 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 22.1 and review the instructions. As a class, work together to put together a word using syllables from the syllable bank.
- Then have partners work together on the activity page. If they don't complete it in class, they may complete it at home.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Write the word scenery on the board. Say, "In this word 'sc' makes the /s/ sound. If you agree, give a thumbs-up. If you disagree, give a thumbs-down."
(thumbs-up)

Activity Page 22.1

Challenge

Ask students to annotate the syllable types as they work on Activity Page 22.1. Remind them of the syllable types they've learned about: closed, open, VCe, vowel team, r-controlled, and final stable.

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes intra- and inter-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND PREFIXES: INTRA-, INTER- (6 MIN.)

Support

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meaning: intercoastal, intermingle, and interstellar.

- Say, “We are going to learn about two prefixes: intra- and inter-.”
- Say, “The prefix inter- means ‘between.’ It is used to tell about something happening between two or more things.”
- Write international on the board and underline the prefix. Say, “The word international describes things happening between two or more countries. An international effort to help people after a flood is an effort happening between two or more countries.”
- Say, “The prefix intra- means ‘within.’ It is used to tell about something happening within one thing.”
- Write intraschool on the board and underline the prefix. Say, “Intraschool describes something happening within a school. An intraschool effort to clean up the playground is an effort happening within the school.”
- Point out that there are several tricky words that use both intra- and inter-.
- Say the following words and have students repeat them, defining words as needed: intrapersonal, intragroup, intracoastal, interstate, intercom, and interaction.
- Direct students to Activity Page 22.2 and review the instructions. Work with students to define any unfamiliar words.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner’s response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

REREAD “VISIT FRANCE: A TRAVEL BROCHURE” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s story with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the story.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 21.3. Tell students that today they will reread “Visit France: A Travel Brochure” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “Visit France: A Travel Brochure.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.
- After students read the passage, have them work together to
 - underline at least three words with tricky spellings of /s/ as ‘sc’, ‘st’, ‘ce’, or ‘se’, such as France and scenery;
 - circle at least three words that begin with the prefix fore-, pro-, intra-, or inter-, such as intracountry and intertwine; and

✚ TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL WORDS WITH /S/ > 'SC', 'ST', 'CE', AND 'SE' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with /s/ > 'sc', 'st', 'ce', and 'se' that you say aloud.
- Say the word scene. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.

Lesson 22: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 22.1 for each student.
- Review the directions. Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to complete the activity.
- When students are finished writing, ask pairs to share and check each other's work.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Visit France: A Travel Brochure” on Activity Page TR 21.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say crepe and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, krrraep. Write the letters to spell crepe on the board.
- Point to the word crepe and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /ae/ sound is spelled with ‘e.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds.

- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /k/ for this letter. We say /r/ for this letter. We say /ae/ for this letter. We say /p/ for this letter. We don’t say anything for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /k/ /r/ /ae/ /p/, crepe. Say, “Crepe! It’s a word we might use at a bakery.”
- Repeat with the words weather, Palais Garnier, Eiffel, Louvre, and croissant. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.
- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.
- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Create a chart with /sh/ as a main header and three columns labeled 'ss', 's', and 'ch'.

| /sh/ | | |
|------|-----|------|
| 'ss' | 's' | 'ch' |
| | | |

- You may want to have students cut out the cards on Activity Page 23.2 before the lesson.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: quiche, frozen pie crust, bell peppers, grated cheese, toothpick, chaperone, ingredients (needs to include eggs), and whisk.

Lesson 23: Review: Words with /sh/ > 'ss', 's', and 'ch', Part 1

Warm-Up

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Give students opportunities to identify the /sh/ sound. Say the following words aloud and ask students to raise a hand when they hear the /sh/ sound: shot (yes), simple, shuck (yes), stop, shout (yes), sure (yes), sight, machine (yes), tissue (yes).

Primary Focus: Students will identify and say words with /sh/ > 'ss', 's', and 'ch'.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.i

REVIEW TRICKY SPELLINGS: /SH/ > 'SS', 'S', 'CH' (3 MIN.)

- Say, "Let's review the /sh/ sound."
- Say the word "shine" as you write it on the board, having students read it aloud after you.
- Ask, "How do we spell the /sh/ sound in shine?" ('sh')
- Say, "We're going to learn about other ways to spell the /sh/ sound. These are a little trickier."
- Say the following words as you write them, having students read them aloud after you: assure, sugar, and chef.

Lesson 23: Review: Words with /sh/ > 'ss', 's', and 'ch', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

✚ Students will read words with /sh/ > 'ss', 's', and 'ch'. TEKS 3.2.A.i

✚ Students will create words using syllables. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

READ WORDS WITH /SH/ > 'SS', 'S', AND 'CH' (3 MIN.)

- Display the chart you created in advance.
- Say, "These are tricky sound spellings for /sh/."
- Point to the sound spelling headers and say /sh/ as you point to each one.
- Say assure as you write it in the 'ss' column. Underline the 'ss'. Say, "The /sh/ sound in this word is spelled 'ss'." Have students read the word aloud.

Activity Page 23.1

Support

Emphasize that with tricky words, it is important to remember the words. Point out that repetition can be helpful in memorizing particular words. Students may wish to write lists of tricky words.

Challenge

After students have sorted their syllable cards, challenge them to come up with sentences using the words. Have students share their sentences with the class.

- Repeat the routine with the following words: sugar, chef, issue, sure, and chute.
- Explain to students that some of these trickier /sh/ spellings just have to be learned and remembered. As they practice with them, it will become easier to know which spelling to use.
- Direct students to Activity Page 23.1 and review the instructions.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Write the word pressure on the board. Say, "In this word 'ss' makes the /sh/ sound. If you agree, give a thumbs-up. If you disagree, give a thumbs-down." (thumbs-up)

CREATE WORDS USING SYLLABLES (3 MIN.)

- Divide students into small groups or pairs.
- Direct students to the syllable cards on Activity Page 23.2.
- Instruct students to put the cards together to form words. As students work, circulate, clearing up misunderstandings.
- Invite students with successful words to write them on the board.

Lesson 23: Review: Words with /sh/ > 'ss', 's', and 'ch', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes intra- and inter-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

PREFIXES: INTRA-, INTER- (6 MIN.)

- Say, “Remember, we learned about two prefixes: intra- and inter-.”
- Say, “The prefix inter- means ‘between.’ It is used to tell about something happening between two or more things.”
- Say, “The prefix intra- means ‘within.’ It is used to tell about something happening within one thing.”
- Divide the class into pairs.
- Say, “I’m going to tell you a root word and a definition of a new word. You will decide if we should add intra- and inter- to the root word to make the new word.”
- Write the root word group on the board. Say the definition of the new word: “occurring within a single group.”
- Have students discuss which prefix to add to group to form the new correct word.
- Say, “Raise your left hand if you think I should add intra-. Raise your right hand if you think I should add inter-.”
- Add intra- to group to form intragroup. Have students read the word aloud.
- Say, “Our team has an intragroup rule to listen when others are speaking. That means that our team shares this rule.”
- Repeat the routine with the following root words and definitions:
 - state; “between or connecting two or more states”; interstate
 - personal; “occurring within a person”; intrapersonal
- Direct students to Activity Page 23.3 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner’s response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Activity Page 23.3

Beginning

Have a strong reader work with a struggling reader to complete the comprehension questions.

Intermediate

Have a small group read the first paragraph together, taking turns, and work together to complete the comprehension questions.

Advanced/
Advanced High

Have students read independently and then work with a partner to share their responses to the comprehension questions.

ELPS 4.1

Support

Before reading “A Quiche Creation,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

Lesson 23: Review: Words with /sh/ > ‘ss’, ‘s’, and ‘ch’, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “A Quiche Creation” fluently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.4

READ “A QUICHE CREATION” (10 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 23.4.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
 - words: intrapersonal, intervene, intermingled, ensure/ensuring
 - phrases: “parachute into another cooking adventure,” “launch into this delicious mission,” “balance the flavors”
 - domain-specific language: quiche, whisk (noun and verb), degrees, symbol, filling
- Have students follow along as you read “A Quiche Creation.”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., chaperone and guidance).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read or have students read it independently.
- Then have them turn to Activity Page 23.5 and complete the comprehension questions. If they don’t complete the activity page, instruct them to work on it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as igh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students are working, asking them to explain their responses to the comprehension questions.

Lesson 23: Review: Words with /sh/ > 'ss', 's', and 'ch', Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /sh/ > 'ss', 's', and 'ch'.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL WORDS WITH /SH/ > 'SS', 'S', AND 'CH' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with /sh/ > 'ss', 's', and 'ch' that you say aloud.
- Say the word issue. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- | | | |
|-----------|--------------|--------------|
| 1. issue | 4. brochure | 7. machine |
| 2. assure | 5. insurance | 8. sure |
| 3. tissue | 6. chute | 9. chaperone |

- Then tell students that you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- | |
| 1. The chef added more sugar. |
| 2. The parachute landed outside of Chicago. |

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

End Lesson

Lesson 23: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 23.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 23.4.
- Have them reread “A Quiche Creation.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 23.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
 - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
 - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following words on index cards: center, measure, area, and quiche.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”

- Display and point to the word quiche and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘qu’ is pronounced /k/. The ‘i’ is pronounced /ee/. The ‘che’ is pronounced /sh/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /k/ for these letters. We say /ee/ for this letter. We say /sh/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /k/ /ee/ /sh/, quiche. Say, “Quiche! It’s a word we might hear at a restaurant, like when we say ‘Please cut the quiche into slices.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say quiche. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 24.1 to use for the whole class. Cut out the cards before the lesson begins. Place the cards in a bowl or basket for the syllable activity.
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 3 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
 - Have students take turns reading the entire story.
 - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
 - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the story.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: quiche, frozen pie crust, bell peppers, grated cheese, toothpick, chaperone, ingredients (image should include eggs), and whisk.

Lesson 24: Review: Mixed Review, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will review words with r-controlled vowel sounds.

TEKS 3.2.A.i

REVIEW WORDS WITH R-CONTROLLED VOWEL SOUNDS (3 MIN.)

- Say, “We are going to review words with r-controlled vowel sounds.”
- Say, “I’m going to say words. If you hear a word with an r-controlled vowel sound, stand up.”
- Read aloud a selection of words from the chart below. Have students who have stood up sit down before you read the next word.

| Words with r-Controlled Vowel Sounds
(Stand Up) | Words without r-Controlled Vowel
Sounds (Stay Seated) |
|--|--|
| square | squat |
| barge | boast |

| artist | boss |
| hurry | dice |
| resort | crispy |
| church | handle |
| burst | fright |
| horror | stay |
| starlight | candle |
| discourage | piece |
| curfew | trying |

Challenge

Consider having select students write the words on the board as you say them for the class to see.

TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en.

Lesson 24: Review: Mixed Review, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

- ✦ Students will review words with r-controlled vowels. TEKS 3.2.A.i
- ✦ Students will divide words by syllables. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv

READ WORDS WITH R-CONTROLLED VOWELS (3 MIN.)

- Write the following sound spellings on the board: /ar/ > 'ar'; /er/ > 'ur', 'ir', 'er', 'ar', 'or'; /er/ > 'ear', 'our', 'urr'; and /or/ > 'or'.
- Divide the class into four groups, and assign each group one of the sound spellings.
- Have students take out a piece of scratch paper.
- Say, "I'm going to set a timer. When I say 'go,' work as a group to write down as many words as you can that correctly use your r-controlled vowel sound."
- Decide for how long you would like students to generate words. Set the timer, and then have students begin.
- Circulate as students work.
- Have groups share and read their words aloud. Write the words on the board, clearing up misunderstandings as needed.

DIVIDE WORDS BY SYLLABLES (3 MIN.)

- Write the following syllable types on the board: closed, open, VCe, vowel team, r-controlled, and final stable.
- Place the word cards from Activity Page TR 24.1 that you cut out in advance in a basket.
- Draw a card, such as un•rav•el.
- Write the word on the board, marking the syllables.

- ✦ TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts.

Support

Some students may benefit from approaching the board with a partner and making decisions about the syllable types in the word together. Encourage students to ask classmates for help as they work.

- Demonstrate identifying each syllable type in the word, as you mark it on the board. (closed; closed; final stable syllable)
- Read the word aloud.
- As needed, define words or use words in sentences. Remind students that unstressed open or closed syllables may make schwa sounds instead of the long or short vowel sounds students might expect them to make.
- Have students take turns approaching the board to repeat the routine: draw a card, write the word, and identify and mark the syllable types, and then read the word aloud.
- Correct misunderstandings as students work.

Check for Understanding

Turn and Talk: Write the following word on the board: re•pair. Have students work in pairs to identify the syllable types in the word. (open; r-controlled) Circulate as students discuss. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner's thinking with the group.

TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

REVIEW PREFIXES: FORE-, PRO-, INTRA-, INTER- (6 MIN.)

- Say, "Let's review the prefixes we learned about this week: fore-, pro-, intra-, and inter-."
- Write the following sentence on the board: The foreword is at the beginning of a book.

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by encoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

- Read the sentence aloud as a class. Ask a volunteer to approach the board. Have them circle the word with the prefix, mark the prefix, and say the word aloud.
- Ask, “What is another word with the prefix fore-?” (foreground; forearm; forecast)
- Repeat the routine with the following sentences: The project has three parts; We use the internet for research; Is the recycling program an intraschool project?
- Direct students to Activity Page 24.1 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner’s response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will reread “A Quiche Creation” fluently with a partner.

TEKS 3.1.D; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.4

REREAD “A QUICHE CREATION” (10 MIN.)

- Students will read today’s story with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the story.
- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 23.4. Tell students that today they will reread “A Quiche Creation” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “A Quiche Creation.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.
- Tell students that after they finish reading, they should work together to
 - underline words with tricky spellings of /sh/: ‘ss’, ‘s’, and ‘ch’;
 - circle words with the prefix intra- or inter-; and
 - highlight words with r-controlled vowels.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

TEKS 3.1.D Work collaboratively with others by following agreed-upon rules, norms, and protocols; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as igh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Challenge

Have students highlight VCe words in addition to words with r-controlled vowels. (parachute, make, knife, provide, intervene, arise, chaperone, place, bake, chaperone)

Observation: “A Quiche Creation” Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read “A Quiche Creation,” make notes about the student’s reading, such as errors in fluency or prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 24: Review: Mixed Review, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will review spelling and writing words with r-controlled vowels and /ə/ + /l/. TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.ii

ENCODING REVIEW (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with r-controlled vowels and /ə/ + /l/ that you say aloud.
- Say the word disturb. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- | | | |
|------------|--------------|-------------|
| 1. disturb | 4. moral | 7. civil |
| 2. worship | 5. staircase | 8. peaceful |
| 3. nourish | 6. miracle | 9. squirrel |

- Then tell students that you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- | |
| 1. The fireworks spectacle was incredible! |
| 2. Beware of going barefoot on the prairie. |

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (ii) spelling homophones.

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 24.2 for each student.
- Review the directions. Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to complete the activity.
- When students are finished, ask pairs to share and check each other’s work.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “A Quiche Creation” on Activity Page TR 23.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say quiche and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, keeesh. Write the letters to spell quiche on the board.
- Point to the word quiche and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /k/ sound is spelled with ‘qu’, the /ee/ sound is spelled with ‘i’, and the /sh/ sound is spelled with ‘che.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds.
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /k/ for these letters. We say /ee/ for this letter. We say /sh/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /k/ /ee/ /sh/, quiche. Say, “Quiche! It’s a word we might use at a restaurant.”
- Repeat with the words center, measure, and area. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.

- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.
- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics

- Make sure students have red, yellow, blue, green, orange, and purple pencils or crayons for the syllable activity on Activity Page 25.2.

Morphology

- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: arched entrance, parrot, geologist doing fieldwork with meteorites, microscope, art workshop, and galaxies.

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Beginning

Assign only words with r-controlled vowels.

Intermediate

Assign only words with schwa + /l/.

Advanced/ Advanced High

Assign only tricky spellings with /h/, /s/, and /sh/.

ELPS 2.B

Activity Page 25.1

Support

Review with students the definitions of each of the six types of syllables used in the activity.

Activity Page 25.2

Primary Focus

Students will review reading words with r-controlled vowels, schwa /ə/ + /l/, and tricky spellings of /h/, /s/, and /sh/. TEKS 3.2.A.i

Students will review words with closed, open, VCe, vowel team, r-controlled, and final stable syllables. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

WORD SORT (6 MIN.)

- Say, “Today, we are going to review reading words with r-controlled vowels, schwa /ə/ + /l/, and tricky spellings of /h/, /s/, and /sh/.”
- Direct students’ attention to Activity Page 25.1 and review the instructions.
- Then choral read the words aloud with students.
- Assign partners.
- Say, “Work with your partner to sort this list of words into the three columns of the chart.” Briefly review the column headings, allowing students to ask clarifying questions.
- Circulate as students work.
- Students may complete the activity page at home, if needed.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

READ WORDS WITH CLOSED, OPEN, VCE, VOWEL TEAM, R-CONTROLLED, AND FINAL STABLE SYLLABLES (3 MIN.)

- Say, “Let’s review some words with closed, open, VCe, vowel team, r-controlled, and final stable syllables.”
- Direct students to Activity Page 25.2 and review the instructions. Complete the first item together.
- Consider having students work in small groups.
- Circulate as students work, answering questions as needed.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

Challenge

Ask students to identify the three types of schwa /ə/ + /ɪ/ words that they placed in the middle column. ('le,' 'al,' 'el')

- Have students complete the activity page at home, if needed, and make sure students have the supplies they need.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

REVIEW PREFIXES AND SUFFIXES (6 MIN.)

- Say, "We are going to review the prefixes and suffixes we learned about in this unit."
- Direct students to Activity Page 25.3. Review the instructions.
- With students, read aloud the words in both word banks.
- Have students work in pairs to complete the paragraphs.
- Circulate as students work, answering questions as needed. Ask pairs who finish to take turns reading the completed paragraphs aloud.
- Have students complete the activity page at home, if needed.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Activity Page 25.3

Check for Understanding

Think-Pair-Share: Tell students to choose a few words from the activity page and think about their definitions. Then have partners orally define the words they chose in their own words. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share an example of a word and their partner's thinking with the group.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (vi) spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Charlotte’s Art” independently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.5

READ “CHARLOTTE’S ART” INDEPENDENTLY (10 MIN.)

- Tell students that they will be reading “Charlotte’s Art.” Direct students to Activity Page 25.4.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
 - words: intrastate, underestimated, foreseen
 - phrases: “thought-provoking,” “self-assured,” “drew inspiration from,” “sisterhood of learners,” “grow and blossom”
 - domain-specific language: geologist, meteorites
- Read a few lines of the passage, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words: operator and entrance.
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace.
- Tell students that they may read the text either silently or softly to themselves.
- Then have them read the text again and
 - underline three words with
 - /ə/ > ‘a’, ‘e’, ‘i’, or ‘o’ and
 - /ə/ + /l/ > ‘le’, ‘al’, ‘el’, ‘il’, or ‘ul’;
 - circle five words with one of the prefixes tele-, super-, under-, over-, micro-, uni-, or trans-;
 - highlight five words with one of the suffixes -hood, -ment, -en, or -ist.

Activity
Pages 25.4, 25.5

Support

Have students focus on one annotation at a time. For example, first have them read and underline words with schwa as ‘a’ and ‘e’. On the next read, have them circle the words with prefixes, then underline words with suffixes, and so on.

Before reading “Charlotte’s Art,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.5 Self-select text and read independently for a sustained period of time.

Language

Learning How English Works

Beginning

Help students with the challenging grammatical structure in the second paragraph.

Intermediate

Direct students to the sentence “Once, while exploring the park, the artist stumbled upon many piles of small, colorful pebbles.” Explain that in this context stumbled upon means “found something surprising.”

Advanced/
Advanced High

Have students identify three verbs in the first paragraph. (lived, worked, had, owned, was)

ELPS 4.A

Activity Page 25.6

- After students have annotated the passage, have them complete the comprehension questions on Activity Page 25.5 independently. If they don't complete it, instruct them to work on it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will complete the dictation posttest for Unit 3.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

UNIT 3 DICTATION POSTTEST (5 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 25.6. Review the instructions together.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with different sounds-spellings that they learned about in Unit 3.
- Say the word harden. Repeat it. Have students write it on Activity Page 25.6.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- | | | |
|----------------|------------------|------------------|
| 1. harden | 4. declare | 7. intrapersonal |
| 2. foreseeable | 5. microparticle | 8. international |
| 3. proactive | 6. finalist | 9. transport |

- Then tell students that you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell on their activity page.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- | |
| 1. I was grateful that the pupil gave me a tissue. |
| 2. Do not disturb the artist painting a castle. |

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students are working, asking them to explain their annotation decisions.

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 25.1 for each student.
- Direct students back to Activity Page 25.4.
- Have students reread “Charlotte’s Art.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 25.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences. Students should:
 - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
 - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Then, pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Charlotte’s Art” on Activity Page TR 25.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.

- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Gather Tricky Word index cards from Lessons 21 and 23 (weather, Palais Garnier, crepe, Eiffel, Louvre, croissant, whose, center, measure, area, quiche). Write the following new words from Lesson 21 on index cards: beginning and whole.
- Use the cards with the new words. Say, “Today we will review some more Tricky Words together. You can sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Display and point to the word whole and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘wh’ is pronounced /h/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /h/ for these letters. We say /oe/ for this letter. We say /l/ for this letter. We do not say anything for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /h/ /oe/ /l/, whole. Say, “Whole! It’s a word we use all the time, like when we say ‘You can catch a glimpse of the whole city from the Eiffel Tower.’”

- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say whole. What’s the word?” Ask them to sound it out and then read it again. Say, “It is helpful to remember another word that has the /h/ sound spelled ‘wh.’” Write whoever on the board, then blend and read the word aloud with students.
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining word(s), mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Add the Tricky Word cards from Lessons 21 and 23. Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all the new words we learned this week. Let’s play a game. We’re going to go through this stack of cards as fast as we can, reading the word on each card. Read the words carefully, because these are words that you have to sound out in a special way. Let’s see how fast we can go. My turn first.”
- Model taking the top card off the stack, showing it to students, and saying the Tricky Word after a pause. Continue through the stack.
- Say, “Do you think you can go faster than I did?”
- Assign students to small groups. As you show each card, have one group of students read through the stack of cards as quickly as they can.
- If a student says the wrong word for a card, model how to sound out the Tricky Word and then say the word. Ask the student to repeat your answer, and move on to the next card in the stack with the same small group until you go through all of the cards.
- Select the next small group, shuffle the stack of cards, and repeat until all groups have had a turn.
- Say, “Okay, now let’s go faster.” Shuffle the stack of cards and repeat at a faster pace so that each group has had two turns.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Save the index cards to incorporate review of Tricky Words throughout the year.

Additional Activities to Review All Tricky Words from This Week

(1) Tricky Words Race

- Create a four-column chart. Fill it out with the Tricky Words you taught this week.
- Divide the class into two groups and have each group line up by the board.
- Explain how the game works. You will call out a Tricky Word. One student from each team will race to find the word on the chart and tap it. The first student to find and tap the word earns a point for the team.
- Repeat until all the words have been found or every student has had a turn.
- Note: Consider playing this game in pairs to provide support for students who are still mastering these Tricky Words.

(2) Call, Flip, Read, Roll

- Gather ten index cards for each student.
- Give each student ten index cards, and have them number the cards 1-10.
- Display all Tricky Words that have been taught so far. Have each student pick ten Tricky Words from the list and write one word on the back of each index card. Their set of cards should now have a word to be read on one side and a number on the other side.
- Place students into pairs. Call out a number at random and have each student take turns finding a card with that number on it in their stack. The student then reads the word aloud. If the word is read correctly, the student may then roll a die and whatever number it lands on is the number of points they receive. The student with the most points is the winner.
- Save the index cards to use the next time students play this game. Students can reuse another student's set of cards.

Concord Hymn and the “Shot Heard Round the World”

One of the first battles in the American Revolution was the Battle of Lexington and Concord in Massachusetts in 1775. As British soldiers were marching to Concord to take away colonists’ weapons, they were stopped by colonists in Lexington who decided to begin fighting back against British rule.

No one knows who fired the first shot in that battle, but it became known as “the shot heard round the world” because of a famous poem by Ralph Waldo Emerson. Emerson wrote the poem to be sung in 1837 to dedicate a monument for the fallen soldiers of the battle.

Read Emerson’s poem below, then answer the following questions.

Concord Hymn Ralph Waldo Emerson

By the rude bridge that arched the flood,
 Their flag to April’s breeze unfurled,
Here once the embattled farmers stood
 And fired the shot heard round the world.

The foe long since in silence slept;
 Alike the conqueror silent sleeps;

And Time the ruined bridge has swept
Down the dark stream which seaward creeps.

On this green bank, by this soft stream,
We set today a votive stone;
That memory may their deed redeem,
When, like our sires, our sons are gone.

Spirit, that made those heroes dare
To die, and leave their children free,
Bid Time and Nature gently spare
The shaft we raise to them and thee.

Comprehension Questions:

1. What are some examples of alliteration in the poem?

NAME: _____

DATE: _____

2. Emerson calls the first shot fired during this battle “the shot heard round the world.” Do you think everyone in the world actually heard the shot? Why do you think Emerson chose to describe it this way?

3. The word votive describes an object that is used to show respect or devotion to someone. Think about why Emerson wrote this poem. What might the “votive stone” be that he mentions?

Neighborhood Garden

Fernanda Garcia liked to be called Fern. She was a smart and hardworking third-grader. She loved her neighborhood garden. After school, Fern would often dart past the park and church to visit the garden. Her heart would flutter with excitement. The rich colors of the flowers always seemed to brighten her day.

One day, however, Fern noticed something alarming. The garden had been left unattended for weeks. Plus, a recent hailstorm had harmed the garden. The once bright garden had turned dark. The plants and flowers had started to weaken. The perky plants now seemed lifeless. Fern felt a pang of sadness in her heart. She had to embark on a mission to save the neighborhood garden.

Determined, Fern thought of starting a neighborhood movement to save the garden. She hung a large poster on the garden's fence. The statement read, "Help our neighborhood garden survive and thrive! Join me on Thursday, March 5th, for 'Operation Garden Survival.'" Then she nervously waited for Thursday to arrive. She certainly hoped for a good turnout. The likelihood was high, considering everyone in the neighborhood cared about the garden.

Wednesday turned to Thursday, and "Operation Garden Survival" arrived. Fern saw her childhood friends gathered by the garden curb. Seeing Mark, Kurt, and Harper made Fern's mood lighten. "Are you guys ready to help?" she asked. They all nodded in agreement. Kurt even brought his dog, Sir, to help dig. Sir greeted Fern with a sweet bark.

The friends started on the hard work right away. With enjoyment, they took turns watering the plants to moisten the soil. They also removed the weeds and tossed junk in the garbage. Together, they began to restore the garden's former charming beauty.

The next day, Mark, Kurt, Harper, and Fern decided to start a fundraiser, to earn some money to support the garden. The money raised would help buy new equipment and seeds for the garden. More neighbors came together to serve their community and cheer on Fern's movement. Everyone offered help and encouragement. "Operation Garden Survival" was going perfectly.

By the third day, the garden started to show huge signs of improvement. The plants started to brighten and strengthen. Fern could have burst with pride. She felt a sense of achievement and fulfillment because she had accomplished a big goal. The garden was no longer just a garden. It represented community, family, and togetherness. It was now a place of sisterhood and brotherhood. Fern had managed to save the garden and bring her neighborhood closer than ever.

Exploring Different Jobs and Professions

Livelihood can be another word for work. Someone's livelihood is what they do in adulthood to earn money for things they need or want. When it comes to jobs or professions, there's a world overflowing with interesting employment options. There are many jobs out there! The possibilities should not be underestimated. Each job is unique, and finding the right job can be a fun process.

Actors perform in plays, movies, or television shows. Actors practice and rehearse their lines and act out the actions and emotions of the characters they play. Sometimes, they need to act out states of worrimen or excitement on the spot.

Doctors help sick people. They work in hospitals and clinics. They can have long and overextended workdays. They hurriedly scurry from patient to patient while making important judgments on their health. They identify illnesses and recommend treatments.

Scholars learn and run research projects. They work in schools and universities. Scholars can be professors or researchers. They must like reading and writing. They enjoy reading articles in journals about their interests!

Vendors sell things. They sell food, clothes, or other items. They sell things in markets or online. They try not to undervalue or overprice their items.

Tailors fix and alter clothes. They can help tighten or shorten a pair of pants. Tailors work in workshops or stores. They work with sewing machines and need to be good at measuring.

Tutors give lessons to students and help deepen their knowledge. They might help students with their math or grammar homework. Tutors need to be good at explaining things.

Security guards watch over places like malls or offices. They keep places safe from threats like burglars who try to break into them. They need to be able to spot unusual activity and react in a hurry.

Chefs prepare healthy and nourishing meals. They can make tasty sandwiches or flavorful curry dishes. They work in restaurants and neighborhood cafés. Chefs need to be creative and careful. They try to avoid overcooking their food. They also avoid underseasoning their food by using the right amount of salt and spices.

Contractors work on construction sites. They oversee teams of builders, plumbers, electricians, and more. These workers build and fix things. They know how to install light fixtures, fix leaky pipes, or remodel cellars. They might use mortar, a type of glue that holds bricks together. They might use hammers, wrenches, and other tools. They must be good problem solvers to get the job done.

These are just a few of the many professions out there. Each job requires a different set of skills and interests. People are encouraged to take the time to find the right profession for themselves.

A Sweet Story

In both childhood and adulthood, most people like to enjoy a sweet treat from time to time. The likelihood that someone enjoys and savors the taste of candy or frozen yogurt is high. Sugar's popularity should not be underestimated. Through an interesting journey of discovery, sugar is now a major part of our world's history.

It all started with a plant called sugarcane. Sugarcane is one of the most farmed crops on earth.

Many centuries ago, early farmers learned they could harvest this plant to produce sugar. People heard it was delicious, and they wanted more of it. So farmers in India worked to master the art of producing sugar. These early farmers paved the way for us to have the sugar we use today.

As sugar's popularity began to widen, farmers and sugar producers advanced their methods. These new methods involve a flurry of activity happening at the same time. Farmers first cut the sugarcane stalks and make sure to leave the roots underground. Then the farmers send the sugarcane stalks to a factory. Factory workers oversee the next stage. Using special equipment, they flatten the stalks to squeeze out the juice. The juice is boiled until it thickens into a syrup. The factory workers must take care not to undercook or overcook the syrup. When they're done, the syrup cools and hardens into sugar crystals.

With this advancement, sugar became even more popular. It started to spread from India to the rest of the world. Soon sugar was made and sold everywhere. It became a major part of people's livelihoods. Now almost anyone can go to the grocery store and buy a bag of sugar.

Sweet treats made with sugar can be quite tasty. Upon seeing candy, many children's eyes light up with excitement and wonder! While overeating sweets can lead to health problems, having sugar once in a while can provide enjoyment for many people.

Jordan Scores

Jordan is a huge sports fan and a talented athlete. He loves playing wheelchair basketball with his team, the Ultrasonic Underdogs. It makes him feel powerful.

Claire is his best friend. She is a stylish girl with orange-colored hair. She supports Jordan and attends every one of his games. He always hears her cheering him on from the stands.

Jordan was preparing for the biggest game of the season. He spent hours shooting the ball into the air and watching it go through the net. He and the Ultrasonic Underdogs could not afford to be underprepared.

As the game got closer, worry began to overwhelm Jordan. Sometimes the stress made him have nightmares. He knew the Ultrasonic Underdogs were up against an impressive and formidable team. The Northshore Scarecrows were known for their bold plays. But Claire was always there to provide moral support and encouragement. "Never underestimate yourself, Jordan," she said. "Don't think less of yourself. Don't forget how powerful you feel on that court. The Northshore Scarecrows know they are good, but don't let their overconfidence scare you."

Game day quickly arrived. It was a dark and overcast day, but the gym was bright and noisy. Jordan absorbed the energy. He rolled his wheelchair onto the court. He could see Claire in the crowd. Her orange-colored hair made her stand out.

Soon the game was underway. The Northshore Scarecrows were tough, but the Ultrasonic Underdogs were tougher. Jordan and his teammates darted across the court in their wheelchairs. Time after time, they shot and scored!

Just seconds before the final buzzer blared, Jordan shot the ball high in the air and scored the winning point. The Northshore Scarecrows were shocked. Their overconfidence was replaced with defeat and despair. They had surely underestimated Jordan and the Ultrasonic Underdogs. Jordan's team shook hands with the Northshore Scarecrows and congratulated them on a game well played. Meanwhile, the overexcited crowd cheered loudly. Some folks even had small plastic horns that blared. Claire was overjoyed. Her cheer was the loudest in the crowd. The Ultrasonic Underdogs had won! "I love this sport," Jordan thought as he said farewell and went home. "Not much compares to this feeling."

Tele-Ameer the Superhero

At the edge of the Shorewood Forest lived a herd of four deer. They were a cheerful bunch and adored their home. However, nearly a year ago, the foursome's cheer turned to fear. They began to hear loud and erie noises. These noises weren't from other forest creatures. They were coming from a machine that tore down trees. This machine was clearing the land to make space to build a new golf course. It was destroying the deer's home. They felt sheer panic like never before. They needed help!

Ameer lived across the country. He was just your average and usual fourteen-year-old. Except for one thing... He had superpowers. Ameer had the power of teleportation. He could disappear from one place and reappear in another instantly. He also had the power of telepathy. He could talk to people and animals with his mind.

Ameer knew that he could really help others with these powers. So, he volunteered to become a superhero. He wanted his superhero name to be "Tele-Ameer".

Ameer read about the land clearing in the newspaper. He worried about the animals that lived there. He slipped into his superhero suit and teleported to the Shorewood Forest.

When he arrived, Ameer saw what was happening. He used his telepathy to talk to the deer and let them know that he would help save and restore their home.

Ameer wanted to talk to the machine operator, but she didn't notice him. She couldn't hear anything over the machine's noise. Again, Ameer decided to use his telepathy to talk to the machine operator. He figured that this form of communication would surely cut through the noise. "Excuse me," he said in a calm and purely respectful mental voice. The operator was stunned that she could hear his voice so clearly in her mind. "Could you please stop clearing the trees? A herd of deer lives here. They love it here and don't want to find a new home."

With such a polite request, the operator couldn't ignore Ameer's plea. "I'm not sure I can make that decision on my own, but I'll speak with my boss and supervisors," said the operator.

She used her telephone to make the call. After explaining the situation, she hung up the telephone and returned to Ameer. "They agreed to pause clearing the trees for now." The deer were overjoyed. Ameer would keep working to find a permanent solution one day.

The news of Ameer's heroic act spread near and far. Everyone wanted to hear the story of Tele-Ameer. Before long, a television crew arrived at Ameer's front door. They wanted to feature him on their popular show "Television's Bravest Heroes." This show celebrated fearless superheroes and other brave pioneers. Ameer cheerfully accepted. He couldn't wait to appear on the show.

4. What does Ameer do to save the forest?

He convinces the operator to call her boss.

5. What do you think will happen next?

People who see Ameer on television may ask for his help with solving other problems.

Read the "Real-Life Superheroes" once. Then reread it and mark up the text as follows:

- Underline words with 'or', 'our', or 'ore'.
- Draw a box around words with 'are' and 'air'.
- Circle words with affixes under-, over-, tele-, and super-.

Real-Life Superheroes

Superheroes exist in comic books and on television shows. Superheroes use superhuman powers to overcome villains and restore peace and order. Their adventures are entertaining. But the stories are just fictional.

First responders, however, come close to being real-life superheroes except with no superpowers. As real-life superheroes, first responders care for their communities and help to ensure public safety. They show up to help in emergencies before anyone else. And they help people feel more secure by helping them overcome the fear and stress they might feel in these situations.

First responders are important community resources. A couple of these first responders are firefighters and paramedics. People with these careers share one important trait: bravery. It should not be underestimated! First responders often help in many unexpected and unforeseen situations. They rarely have a boring day on the job!

Firefighters fearlessly find the source of a fire and work to control it. They rescue people in dangerous situations too. They undergo a ton of training, which helps them run up flights of stairs and carry heavy equipment. They help outdoors and also inside of homes. They can help in stores, supermarkets, and airports. In fact, firefighters help anywhere they are needed.

Paramedics are also like real-life superheroes in their communities. These superstars care for the health and welfare of others. They appear when someone feels extremely sick or has been seriously hurt. Paramedics help people in medical emergencies by performing life-saving procedures. Paramedics take people to the hospital quickly, but they cannot arrive instantly by teleporting. Instead, they carefully steer through traffic. Their importance cannot be overstated. They collaborate closely with doctors to ensure that people receive the best care.

Clearly, these real-life superheroes don't wear capes. And, of course, they don't fly through the air. They wear service uniforms and never ignore a call for help. They undertake a lot of responsibility to keep people safe. Their contributions should not be overlooked. People don't have to peer into comic books or television shows to hear about their fearless adventures. If people ever find themselves in a true emergency, they can dial 911 on their telephone. A first responder will surely help.

A Trans-Galactic Dash

Magnet University wasn't a normal school. It was a unique school in a faraway galaxy. Aliens, talking animals, and humans all went to learn there. Mr. Sharma was the university's chancellor or leader. As its leader, he wanted to transform the school into the best in the universe.

But the students had trouble getting along because they were all so different from each other. This was an alarming problem. Mr. Sharma didn't approve of the constant disagreements and debates. As a man of great wisdom, he quickly devised a plan. The chancellor decided to hold a fun space race. He hoped it would encourage unity among the students.

In this race, teams would travel from one galaxy to another and would race to complete assigned tasks. Mr. Sharma named this event the "Trans-Galaxy Dash." This formal event would be telecast across the universe. Thousands of television viewers from different galaxies wanted to witness this event.

Many students signed up to race. They were randomly split into teams of seven. Each team would be made up of students from all parts of the universe. They would need to work together as teammates to succeed.

The participants dressed in their race uniforms. They wore metallic space suits with blue buttons and custom helmets. The Magnet University teachers set up a command post with telescopes to supervise the event. They prepared telephone-like devices to transmit, or send, guidance to the teams.

Each team selected a pilot. Then, the Trans-Galaxy Dash began! The teams sped off in their supersonic transport vehicles. It was as if they had been shot into space by a cannon. They quickly completed many tasks. The teams rode unicycles through alien supermarkets. They rounded up several comets. They traveled past exploding stars called supernovas. The race tested each team's ability to think quickly and adapt to changing environments. It tested their ability to respect one another and work together. The teams became united in their common purpose.

After many hours, the trans-galactic adventure ended. The first team to finish earned a first-place ribbon. They also received a basket of special items.

Even the participants who didn't win felt like superstars. Everyone rose above and transcended the race's challenges. They did this by working in unison. The students learned an important lesson. They learned that they could get along despite their differences. The Trans-Galaxy Dash transformed the students' attitudes toward one another. It had also unified them as one big team.

The school celebrated with a grand feast. The students enjoyed rare treats from across the universe. The stardust salad, comet soda, and lunar lemon pops were a huge hit. Magnet University's students could not wait for next year's race to happen. The chancellor was absolutely delighted!

On the Move: How Transportation Unites Our World

Transportation enables people to move from one place to another. It's universal! Whether it's a trip to the store or across the world, transportation makes it all possible. And there are so many incredible modes, or kinds, of transportation.

Walking is the simplest mode of transportation. When people walk, their legs, knees, and ankles work together in unison to take steps forward. Walking is one of the best ways to get through the hustle and bustle of a busy city.

Bicycling is another form of transportation. Bicycles are human-powered vehicles with two wheels. Some have only one wheel. Those unique vehicles are called unicycles! And the ones for little kids with three wheels? Those are tricycles!

Cars are engine-powered vehicles that can take people across town or beyond. There are many different types of cars. There are even cars that some say look like beetles!

Buses and trains are also examples of vehicles. Buses and trains help transport bigger groups of people to their homes, universities, or offices.

They are a part of a city's transit system. A transit system organizes how these and other vehicles move through a city. It's like figuring out a big puzzle.

Boats are vehicles too. Some boats can also be human-powered through the use of a paddle. Other boats, like ferries, have engines that power propellers. Propellers are large, flat blades that move in a circle. These propellers help push a boat through the water.

On very far trips, airplanes are the most sensible choice because they are faster. People often take airplanes to travel from one country to another. This is called transnational or international travel. What about travel from one continent to another? That's called transcontinental travel! Airplanes help unite people all over the world.

Safety is universally important in any form of transportation. Whether the vehicle seems as slow as a turtle or as fast as an eagle, if a seat belt is available, buckle up.

But transportation isn't only about moving people. Goods can be transported too! Goods are things people or companies buy. Large ships, trains, and trucks can transfer goods from one place to another. When someone orders an inflatable unicorn toy online, it gets transported on one of these vehicles!

No matter where people and goods need to go, transportation makes it all possible. It's incredible how transportation has transformed the way people live. Whether on foot, bicycle, or airplane, the world is united through transportation systems.

Maple Talent Show

One day, the pupils of Maple Elementary heard an interesting announcement.

"Our school will hold a talent show! It will occur in a couple of weeks. You'll be able to showcase your unique talents. We'll televise the show so that all families can see it. Please sign up by the cafeteria bulletin board," said Principal Noble.

The news sparked universal interest at Maple Elementary. Several pupils mingled and chatted during their transition between classes.

"I have superior musical talent. I'll play a catchy jingle on my trumpet!" April said.

"Reyna and I will dazzle the crowd with a hip-hop routine! Dancing is our superpower," added Fatima.

"You could ride your unicycle," suggested Reyna.

"I could do that," confirmed Ayden. "I consider myself a natural."

"Ready to sign up?" Reyna asked.

The children silently nodded in agreement.

"This is going to be fun!" They all giggled in unison.

They practiced their talents every day after school over the next couple of weeks. Some teachers stayed after school to supervise them. The sound of April's trumpet rang through the halls. Reyna and Fatima unified their dance moves. They rehearsed their routine from top to bottom about a thousand times. Ayden practiced balancing on his custom unicycle.

On show day, the auditorium was full of excitement.

Backstage, Fatima said, "We're going to be on television just like real superstars! I'm glad the telecast will be transnational. My cousin and uncle in Mexico will be able to watch."

Viewers tuned in on their televisions to watch the show. They were transported from their sofas to the Maple Elementary auditorium.

The little kindergarten class sang the alphabet song. They stressed each vowel with their adorable voices.

Mitchell went second. He was a transfer student from another school. He was able to juggle seven beanbags.

Luca displayed his amazing math wisdom. He solved several math problems at an almost superhuman speed.

Dillon transformed a simple piece of paper with only a pencil. He made stunning doodles of gorillas, parrots, and pelicans.

Special Report: Coral Reefs

Global, December 14, 2023 — Channel 3 News travels underwater to deliver an important message on the critical condition of coral reefs.

A coral reef is an underwater structure. It may look like a group of colorful rocks. But it's actually a living colony of creatures called coral. A healthy coral reef is usually beautiful.

Scientists classify coral reefs as ecosystems. They provide food and shelter for diverse sea life. Mackerel, cuttlefish, and many other sea animals call them home. Gentle sea turtles and stingrays often live on the reef. Hard-shelled mussels usually live there too. Sea mammals sometimes visit. It's possible to see a couple of bottlenose dolphins swimming nearby.

Coral reefs are also home to multiple microorganisms like algae. Individual algae cells can be seen only by using a microscope. Algae provides the coral with its remarkable color.

Coral reefs are found in tropical oceans around the world. Australia's Great Barrier Reef is the most notable. It's colossal! It's so large that it's even visible from a space vessel.

The incredible Florida Reef is in the United States. Global tourists from many countries travel there. They snorkel below the water and marvel at the coral's exceptional beauty.

Globally, coral reefs are in trouble. They face serious obstacles, like pollution and unsuitable sea temperatures. When the water is too warm, the microscopic algae leaves the coral. With no algae, the fragile coral turns white. This process is known as "bleaching." Bleaching can be fatal. Some coral reefs do not survive it.

This news is quite terrible, but the harm is possibly reversible. Several experts are working to unravel the mysteries that will save the coral reefs. This panel of experts includes biologists, ecologists, and microbiologists.

Environmentalists and conservationists are also joining in to help. They want to bring awareness to the reefs' critical condition and counsel people on how to get involved. They encourage individuals to help by reducing pollution.

People use technology in many ways. Some scientists study things we cannot see without tools. They use microscopes to see very small things. Vocalists are singers. They can perform for large crowds. Microphones make their voices louder so the audience can hear them. Some cartoonists draw images by hand. Others use a microcomputer to create their art. Maps are stored in microchips in cell phones and GPS devices. Tourists use this technology to find new places. Sometimes novelists write books that are set in the past. They do research to find out what life was like back then. They might read articles on microfilm at their local library.

Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil

A gerbil is a small but incredible creature. It belongs to the rodent family. Zoologists and animal specialists claim that most of them live for a little over two years. Some may live for three years. Although specialists forecast they will have a short lifespan, a wild gerbil's life cycle is very interesting.

| Stage | Age | Description |
|---------|------------------------------|---|
| Birth | Birth to twenty-one days old | Baby gerbils are called "pups." They are born quite small. A baby gerbil is about the size of a half-inch pebble. They are born unable to see or hear until their eyes and ears open. These micro-sized rodents start their life drinking the milk their mother provides for them. |
| Weaning | One month old | Gerbils start to nibble on solid food. They like seeds and apples. They progress in age and become more active and curious. They are playful creatures and sometimes wrestle with their littermates. They are not quite yet the length of a popsicle. |

|-----------|-------------------------------|---|
| Adulthood | Three months to two years old | Gerbils quickly settle into adulthood. Animal behaviorists claim that by three months old, gerbils proceed to care for themselves. They also reach full size. They can be as long as a pencil or an eating utensil, like a fork or a spoon. They are measured from their nostrils to the end of their tails.

Adult gerbils skillfully create their homes from simple materials like sand and soil. These burrows are like tiny, cozy, stable microcastles. Adult gerbils think ahead and prepare for the future. They proactively find a mate and produce offspring. Adult gerbils protect and are mindful of their micro-sized babies. |
| Old age | Two to three years old | Gerbils reach old age at about two to three years old. Their health begins to weaken. They become less capable of protecting themselves against danger. They struggle to survive the perils of hunger and injuries. Like all living creatures, gerbils are not invincible. They eventually pass away. |

As a pet, a gerbil lives a life that looks a bit different. Zoologists and animal specialists claim they can live up to four years. Many people love having one or more gerbils as pets. Caring for them is fairly easy and joyful. They make peaceful and tranquil companions. Optimists predict that pet gerbils will likely stay popular for the foreseeable future. Either in the wild or as pets, gerbils are fascinating creatures.

"Life Cycle of a Wild Gerbil" Comprehension Questions

1. What is a gerbil?

A gerbil is a small rodent.

2. How long do gerbils usually live?

They can live up to three or four years in captivity.

3. How long does it take for a gerbil to reach full size?

They become adults after three months.

4. Where do gerbils live?

Gerbils live in burrows in sand or soil.

5. Why are gerbils popular pets?

Gerbils are fairly easy to care for, and they are peaceful.

6. Why might gerbils live longer as pets than in the wild?

There are more dangers in the wild and food may not be as easy to find.

Nigel's Magical Pencil

Nigel was a third-grade pupil and skillful artist. Many people marveled at his impressive drawings. He dreamed of becoming a cartoonist in the foreseeable future.

Nigel traveled to visit his uncle. Nigel saw a small pencil box sitting on his living room mantel. The box had no label. So, Nigel opened the box. Inside, he found an interesting and novel-looking pencil. The pencil had a crystal-clear tip and an artful design etched onto it.

Nigel took the pencil to the next room and found a sheet of paper. He placed the paper on an easel and proceeded to draw. He soon realized this was not a normal pencil. This was a magical pencil! Everything he drew came to life.

He drew colorful flower petals in the paper's foreground. They instantly appeared before him.

He sketched a microphone. It emerged in his hand. Nigel sang into it like a talented vocalist. He drew a playful gerbil. It immediately jumped off the page and into the room.

Nigel used the pencil to draw an almost microscopic beetle, a squirrel, and a graceful eagle. He even drew a kennel full of puppies. The once tranquil room quickly became a lively arena filled with Nigel's magical creations. It was an exceptional sight!

Nigel got hungry and drew a bowl of spaghetti. It appeared and looked ready to eat. He didn't even need a microwave to heat it up. He drew tons of caramel treats and turned the room into a plentiful candy store.

However, while trying to create a pet turtle, Nigel mistakenly sketched a sharp-clawed monster. The monster began causing trouble. It destroyed the room with its claws and bothered the other delightful creatures. Nigel did not foresee this disaster. Nigel, although scared, remembered he needed to stay calm and hopeful. He took a deep breath. He came up with a plan to face the danger of this perilous monster.

With a shaky hand, Nigel drew a rope with the powerful pencil. He could use this rope as a lasso. This rope appeared in his hand, and he used it to catch and hold the monster. He quickly erased the sketch, and the monster disappeared. He was glad the chaos did not progress further.

This stressful event made Nigel realize that the pencil was not a simple drawing utensil. The magical pencil had to be used in a careful and responsible way. He returned it to the box. Then, Nigel asked his uncle to protect the pencil and to forewarn others of its magical power.

A Quiche Creation

Welcome, young chefs! Let's parachute into another cooking adventure. Being a chef involves much more than just preparing food. It involves delicate interactions with ingredients, tools, and machines. It also involves self-discovery and intrapersonal growth. When cooking, you learn patience and creativity as you tackle obstacles and issues. And you discover new tastes. So, put on your aprons, and let's launch into this delicious mission.

In today's session, you will learn how to make a vegetable quiche. This is a popular international breakfast dish. Let's begin!

Ingredients and Materials:

- 1 pre-rolled frozen pie crust and 1 pie dish
- Bowl
- Whisk
- 4 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup grated cheese
- 1 cup chopped vegetables, like spinach and bell peppers

- Salt and pepper
- A pinch of sugar (optional)
- Toothpick
- Knife

Instructions:

Step 1: Ensure an adult chaperone is nearby and ready to assist.

An adult chaperone can provide support, guidance, and safety. They can oversee the cooking process and intervene if any issues arise. The adult chaperone should handle the oven.

Step 2: Prepare the ingredients and materials.

Gather and measure all of the ingredients. Ensure that the oven is empty and working. Preheat the oven to 375°F.

Step 3: Prepare the pie crust.

Place the pie crust into a pie dish. Press it into the bottom and sides. Make sure not to apply too much pressure or you might tear the crust.

Step 4: Prepare the filling.

While the oven preheats, prepare the quiche filling. Beat the eggs in a bowl, add the milk, and whisk together. Then, add the cheese, chopped vegetables, salt, and pepper. Whisk again, ensuring that all the ingredients have intermingled. If preferred, add a tiny bit of sugar to balance the flavors.

Step 5: Add the filling.

Fill the pie crust with the vegetable, cheese, and egg mixture. Make sure to spread it evenly.

Step 6: Bake the quiche.

The adult chaperone should carefully place the quiche into the hot oven. Let it bake for 30–35 minutes or until the filling is firm and lightly browned.

Step 7: Check the quiche and let it cool.

The adult chaperone should ensure the quiche is done by inserting a toothpick into the center. If it comes out clean, the quiche is ready. They should carefully remove the quiche from the oven. Let it cool for a few minutes.

Step 8: Serve the quiche.

Cut the quiche into slices and serve to others. Enjoy interacting with your taste testers as you gather feedback.

Step 9: Clean up the kitchen.

After enjoying this mouthwatering international dish, it's time for cleaning duties. Wash the dishes and clean your cooking area.

Congratulations, chefs! You've completed the mission and prepared a delicious quiche. Keep discovering and exploring your cooking talents as you continue your intrapersonal journey of becoming a better chef. And remember to take proper safety measures with any cooking adventure.

"A Quiche Creation" Comprehension Questions

1. What can a young chef learn from cooking?

Charlotte's Art

Charlotte lived in a farm town near a wonderful park. Her older brother, Kurt, worked as a machinery operator at a nearby factory. Their farmhouse had a large arched entrance. They owned a tiny barnyard filled with charming farm animals and treasured pets. Charlotte's favorite was a cheerful parrot named Pearl.

Charlotte was an artist. She loved painting and drew inspiration from her surroundings. Once, while exploring the park, the artist stumbled upon many piles of small, colorful pebbles. These microsized rocks were scattered throughout the park and hidden by the overgrown grass. Pearl, perched on Charlotte's forearm, cawed with excitement as Charlotte picked up a handful of the pebbles.

Charlotte carefully examined the pebbles in her hand. They looked very different from any pebbles she had seen before. They were oddly shaped. Their surfaces were rough and uneven. Yet, the artist felt inspired by the unusual rocks. She decided to paint them red, blue, and yellow. Using Pearl as her model, Charlotte arranged the pebbles to resemble the parrot. She placed the arrangement on a tray outside her farmhouse. She transformed the unique rocks into an appealing, artful display.

One day, an expert geologist named Dr. Blair Irwin stopped by the farmhouse during a fieldwork session. Dr. Irwin noticed the art display and asked to inspect the pebbles. Charlotte gave her approval. Dr. Irwin inspected the pebbles with her microscope and other equipment.

The geologist identified the pebbles as meteorite parts or fallen objects from space. She shared this discovery with Charlotte. The artist was wholeheartedly shocked! She had not foreseen this discovery. Charlotte had not just been painting pebbles. She had been painting meteorites the whole time!

Charlotte called her family and childhood friends on the telephone to tell them about her meteorite art. She also shared pictures. Soon, the word about this meteorite art spread across town. People started coming by to check it out. The townspeople all admired Charlotte's artwork. They encouraged her to make more of it. They proposed that she set up a workshop to create and showcase more of her unique art.

This idea was certainly thought-provoking for the artist. Feeling self-assured, Charlotte and Kurt set up an art workshop near the park. Dr. Irwin also set up a laboratory to study more of the remaining meteorites scattered throughout the park.

Charlotte began learning more from Dr. Irwin. The two formed a sisterhood of learning. They shared their knowledge of the universe, rocks, and art. Charlotte began to intertwine this knowledge into her artwork. She painted more meteorites and arranged them to look like planets and galaxies. Now, Charlotte's creations blended and unified science and art.

The fascinating news of the meteorite art continued to travel fast. It was televised across several intrastate television channels. Little by little, the workshop began to grow and blossom. Tourists, artists, and scientists started pouring into Charlotte's workshop. Pearl cheerfully greeted every visitor.

Charlotte had underestimated her art's popularity. She was overjoyed and felt like a superstar! Kurt was surely proud of Charlotte's hard work and creativity.

Concord Hymn and the "Shot Heard Round the World"

One of the first battles in the American Revolution was the Battle of Lexington and Concord in Massachusetts in 1775. As British soldiers were marching to Concord to take away colonists' weapons, they were stopped by colonists in Lexington who decided to begin fighting back against British rule.

No one knows who fired the first shot in that battle, but it became known as "the shot heard round the world" because of a famous poem by Ralph Waldo Emerson. Emerson wrote the poem to be sung in 1837 to dedicate a monument for the fallen soldiers of the battle.

Read Emerson's poem below, then answer the following questions.

Concord Hymn Ralph Waldo Emerson

By the rude bridge that arched the flood,

Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,

Here once the embattled farmers stood

And fired the shot heard round the world.

The foe long since in silence slept;

Alike the conqueror silent sleeps;

And Time the ruined bridge has swept

Down the dark stream which seaward creeps.

On this green bank, by this soft stream,

We set today a votive stone;

That memory may their deed redeem.

When, like our sires, our sons are gone.

Spirit, that made those heroes dare

To die, and leave their children free,

Bid Time and Nature gently spare

The shaft we raise to them and thee.

Comprehension Questions:

1. What are some examples of alliteration in the poem?

Sample Response: Some examples of alliteration in the poem are

"since in silence slept," "soft stream," and "them and thee."

2. Emerson calls the first shot fired during this battle "the shot heard round the world." Do you think everyone in the world actually heard the shot? Why do you think Emerson chose to describe it this way?

Sample Response: No, everyone in the world did not actually hear the shot. Emerson describes it this way because it was considered the start of the fight for freedom and that fight influenced many people around the world. The battle had a big impact on history.

3. The word votive describes an object that is used to show respect or devotion to someone. Think about why Emerson wrote this poem. What might the "votive stone" be that he mentions?

Sample Response: The "votive stone" might be the monument that was being dedicated to honor and show respect for the soldiers who fought and died in that battle.

Reread "Charlotte's Art." Describe a time when you created something that surprised you. What was exciting about your creation? What did you learn?

Sample response: Once I wrote a story about Martians whose spaceship crashed on Earth and they had to ask the Earthlings for help getting back home. I read about Mars so I could put more details in my story. I was surprised to learn that while Mars is colder than Earth in most places and it doesn't have a breathable atmosphere or a source of food, humans could survive there for a while if they had the right equipment. I ended up putting those details in my story.

| TEKS 3.2.B.vii | spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants | U3: p. 5, U3: p. 10, U3: p. 18, U3: p. 23, U3: p. 28, U3: p. 33, U3: p. 36, U3: p. 52, U3: p. 57, U3: p. 180, U3: p. 184, U3: p. 192, U3: p. 197, U3: p. 204, U3: p. 211, U3: p. 217, U3: p. 222, U3: p. 240, U3: p. 246, U3: p. 298, U3: p. 302 |
| TEKS 3.2.C | alphabetize a series of words to the third letter | |
| TEKS 3.2.D | write complete words, thoughts, and answers legibly in cursive leaving appropriate spaces between words. | |
| (3) Developing and sustaining foundational language skills: listening, speaking, reading, writing, and thinking—vocabulary. The student uses newly acquired vocabulary expressively. The student is expected to: | | |
| TEKS 3.3.A | use print or digital resources to determine meaning, syllabication, and pronunciation | |
| TEKS 3.3.B | use context within and beyond a sentence to determine the meaning of unfamiliar words and multiple-meaning words | |
| TEKS 3.3.C | identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non- , dis- , in- (not, non), pre- , -ness , -y , and -ful | U3: p. 5, U3: p. 10, U3: p. 18, U3: p. 23, U3: p. 28, U3: p. 33, U3: p. 40, U3: p. 45, U3: p. 52, U3: p. 57, U3: p. 65, U3: p. 70, U3: p. 77, U3: p. 83, U3: p. 90, U3: p. 96, U3: p. 102, U3: p. 108, U3: p. 115, U3: p. 120, U3: p. 129, U3: p. 135, U3: p. 142, U3: p. 147, U3: p. 155, U3: p. 161, U3: p. 168, U3: p. 173, U3: p. 180, U3: p. 184, U3: p. 192, U3: p. 197, U3: p. 204, U3: p. 211, U3: p. 217, U3: p. 222, U3: p. 228, U3: p. 233, U3: p. 240, U3: p. 246, U3: p. 253, U3: p. 258, U3: p. 265, U3: p. 270, U3: p. 276, U3: p. 280, U3: p. 286, U3: p. 291, U3: p. 298, U3: p. 302 |
| TEKS 3.3.D | identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text | |
| TEKS 3.4 | use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text | U3: p. 5, U3: p. 12, U3: p. 18, U3: p. 24, U3: p. 28, U3: p. 35, U3: p. 40, U3: p. 47, U3: p. 65, U3: p. 72, U3: p. 77, U3: p. 85, U3: p. 90, U3: p. 98, U3: p. 102, U3: p. 110, U3: p. 129, U3: p. 137, U3: p. 142, U3: p. 150, U3: p. 155, U3: p. 163, U3: p. 168, U3: p. 175, U3: p. 192, U3: p. 199, U3: p. 204, U3: p. 212, U3: p. 217, U3: p. 223, U3: p. 228, U3: p. 235, U3: p. 253, U3: p. 260, U3: p. 265, U3: p. 271, U3: p. 276, U3: p. 282, U3: p. 286, U3: p. 293 |
| (5) Developing and sustaining foundational language skills: listening, speaking, reading, writing, and thinking—self-sustained reading. The student reads grade-appropriate texts independently. The student is expected to self-select text and read independently for a sustained period of time. | | |
| TEKS 3.5 | self-select text and read independently for a sustained period of time | |
| (6) Comprehension skills: listening, speaking, reading, writing, and thinking using multiple texts. The student uses metacognitive skills to both develop and deepen comprehension of increasingly complex texts. The student is expected to: | | |
| TEKS 3.6.A | establish purpose for reading assigned and self-selected texts | |
| TEKS 3.6.B | generate questions about text before, during, and after reading to deepen understanding and gain information | |
| TEKS 3.6.C | make and correct or confirm predictions using text features, characteristics of genre, and structures | |

TEXAS ESSENTIAL KNOWLEDGE AND SKILLS - GRADE 3

| Unit 3 | | Correlation—Teacher’s Guide |
|--|--|------------------------------------|
| TEKS 3.6.D | create mental images to deepen understanding | |
| TEKS 3.6.E | make connections to personal experiences, ideas in other texts, and society | |
| TEKS 3.6.F | make inferences and use evidence to support understanding | |
| TEKS 3.6.G | evaluate details read to determine key ideas | |
| TEKS 3.6.H | synthesize information to create new understanding | |
| TEKS 3.6.I | monitor comprehension and make adjustments such as re-reading, using background knowledge, asking questions, and annotating when understanding breaks down | |
| (7) Response skills: listening, speaking, reading, writing, and thinking using multiple texts. The student responds to an increasingly challenging variety of sources that are read, heard, or viewed. The student is expected to: | | |
| TEKS 3.7.A | describe personal connections to a variety of sources including self-selected texts | |
| TEKS 3.7.B | write a response to a literary or informational text that demonstrates an understanding of a text | |
| TEKS 3.7.C | use text evidence to support an appropriate response | |
| TEKS 3.7.D | retell and paraphrase texts in ways that maintain meaning and logical order | |
| TEKS 3.7.E | interact with sources in meaningful ways such as notetaking, annotating, freewriting, or illustrating | |
| TEKS 3.7.F | respond using newly acquired vocabulary as appropriate | |
| TEKS 3.7.G | discuss specific ideas in the text that are important to the meaning | |
| (8) Multiple genres: listening, speaking, reading, writing, and thinking using multiple texts—literary elements. The student recognizes and analyzes literary elements within and across increasingly complex traditional, contemporary, classical, and diverse literary texts. The student is expected to: | | |
| TEKS 3.8.A | infer the theme of a work, distinguishing theme from topic | |
| TEKS 3.8.B | explain the relationships among the major and minor characters | |
| TEKS 3.8.C | analyze plot elements, including the sequence of events, the conflict, and the resolution | |
| TEKS 3.8.D | explain the influence of the setting on the plot | |
| (9) Multiple genres: listening, speaking, reading, writing, and thinking using multiple texts—genres. The student recognizes and analyzes genre-specific characteristics, structures, and purposes within and across increasingly complex traditional, contemporary, classical, and diverse texts. The student is expected to: | | |
| TEKS 3.9.A | demonstrate knowledge of distinguishing characteristics of well-known children’s literature such as folktales, fables, fairy tales, legends, and myths | |
| TEKS 3.9.B | explain rhyme scheme, sound devices, and structural elements such as stanzas in a variety of poems | |
| TEKS 3.9.C | discuss the elements in drama such as characters, dialogue, setting, and acts | |
| (D) recognize characteristics and structures of informational text, including: | | |
| TEKS 3.9.D.i | the central idea with supporting evidence | |

| TEKS 3.9.D.iii | organizational patterns such as cause and effect and problem and solution | |
| (E) recognize characteristics and structures of argumentative text by: | | |
| TEKS 3.9.E.i | identifying the claim | |
| TEKS 3.9.E.ii | distinguishing facts from opinion | |
| TEKS 3.9.E.iii | identifying the intended audience or reader | |
| TEKS 3.9.F | recognize characteristics of multimodal and digital texts | |
| (10) Author’s purpose and craft: listening, speaking, reading, writing, and thinking using multiple texts. The student uses critical inquiry to analyze the authors’ choices and how they influence and communicate meaning within a variety of texts. The student analyzes and applies author’s craft purposefully in order to develop his or her own products and performances. The student is expected to: | | |
| TEKS 3.10.A | explain the author’s purpose and message within a text | |
| TEKS 3.10.B | explain how the use of text structure contributes to the author’s purpose | |
| TEKS 3.10.C | explain the author’s use of print and graphic features to achieve specific purposes | |
| TEKS 3.10.D | describe how the author’s use of imagery, literal and figurative language such as simile, and sound devices such as onomatopoeia achieves specific purposes | |
| TEKS 3.10.E | identify the use of literary devices, including first- or third-person point of view | |
| TEKS 3.10.F | discuss how the author’s use of language contributes to voice | |
| TEKS 3.10.G | identify and explain the use of hyperbole | |
| (11) Composition: listening, speaking, reading, writing, and thinking using multiple texts—writing process. The student uses the writing process recursively to compose multiple texts that are legible and uses appropriate conventions. The student is expected to: | | |
| TEKS 3.11.A | plan a first draft by selecting a genre for a particular topic, purpose, and audience using a range of strategies such as brainstorming, freewriting, and mapping | |
| (B) develop drafts into a focused, structured, and coherent piece of writing by: | | |
| TEKS 3.11.B.i | organizing with purposeful structure including an introduction and conclusion | |
| TEKS 3.11.B.ii | developing an engaging idea with relevant details | |
| TEKS 3.11.C | revise drafts to improve sentence structure and word choice by adding, deleting, combining, and rearranging ideas for coherence and clarity | |
| (D) edit drafts using standard English conventions, including: | | |
| TEKS 3.11.D | edit drafts using standard English conventions | |
| TEKS 3.11.D.i | complete simple and compound sentences with subject-verb agreement | |
| TEKS 3.11.D.ii | past, present, and future verb tense | |
| TEKS 3.11.D.iii | singular, plural, common, and proper nouns | |

| TEKS 3.11.E | publish written work for appropriate audiences | |
| (12) Composition: listening, speaking, reading, writing, and thinking using multiple texts—genres. The student uses genre characteristics and craft to compose multiple texts that are meaningful. The student is expected to: | | |
| TEKS 3.12.A | compose literary texts, including personal narratives and poetry, using genre characteristics and craft | |
| TEKS 3.12.B | compose informational texts, including brief compositions that convey information about a topic, using a clear central idea and genre characteristics and craft | |
| TEKS 3.12.C | compose argumentative texts, including opinion essays, using genre characteristics and craft | |
| TEKS 3.12.D | compose correspondence such as thank you notes or letters | |
| (13) Inquiry and research: listening, speaking, reading, writing, and thinking using multiple texts. The student engages in both short-term and sustained recursive inquiry processes for a variety of purposes. The student is expected to: | | |
| TEKS 3.13.A | generate questions on a topic for formal and informal inquiry | |
| TEKS 3.13.B | develop and follow a research plan with adult assistance | |
| TEKS 3.13.C | identify and gather relevant information from a variety of sources | |
| TEKS 3.13.D | identify primary and secondary sources | |
| TEKS 3.13.E | demonstrate understanding of information gathered | |
| TEKS 3.13.F | recognize the difference between paraphrasing and plagiarism when using source materials | |
| TEKS 3.13.G | create a works cited page | |
| TEKS 3.13.H | use an appropriate mode of delivery, whether written, oral, or multimodal, to present results | |

ENGLISH LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY STANDARDS - GRADE 3

Unit 3

Correlation—Teacher’s Guide

(1) Cross-curricular second language acquisition/learning strategies. The ELL uses language learning strategies to develop an awareness of his or her own learning processes in all content areas. In order for the ELL to meet grade-level learning expectations across the foundation and enrichment curriculum, all instruction delivered in English must be linguistically accommodated (communicated, sequenced, and scaffolded) commensurate with the student’s level of English language proficiency. The student is expected to:

| | | |
|----------|--|---|
| ELPS 1.A | use prior knowledge and experiences to understand meanings in English | |
| ELPS 1.B | monitor oral and written language production and employ self-corrective techniques or other resources | U3: p. 231 |
| ELPS 1.C | use strategic learning techniques such as concept mapping, drawing, memorizing, comparing, contrasting, and reviewing to acquire basic and grade-level vocabulary | U3: p. 23, U3: p. 33, U3: p. 44, U3: p. 291 |
| ELPS 1.D | speak using learning strategies such as requesting assistance, employing non-verbal cues, and using synonyms and circumlocution (conveying ideas by defining or describing when exact English words are not known) | |
| ELPS 1.E | internalize new basic and academic language by using and reusing it in meaningful ways in speaking and writing activities that build concept and language attainment | U3: p. 58 |
| ELPS 1.F | use accessible language and learn new and essential language in the process | U3: p. 11, U3: p. 120 |
| ELPS 1.G | demonstrate an increasing ability to distinguish between formal and informal English and an increasing knowledge of when to use each one commensurate with grade-level learning expectations | |
| ELPS 1.H | develop and expand repertoire of learning strategies such as reasoning inductively or deductively, looking for patterns in language, and analyzing sayings and expressions commensurate with grade-level learning expectations | |

|----------|---|--|
| ELPS 2.A | distinguish sounds and intonation patterns of English with increasing ease | U3: p. 68, U3: p. 93, U3: p. 105, U3: p. 145, U3: p. 208, U3: p. 220, U3: p. 243 |
| ELPS 2.B | recognize elements of the English sound system in newly acquired vocabulary such as long and short vowels, silent letters, and consonant clusters | U3: p. 68, U3: p. 159, U3: p. 195, U3: p. 243, U3: p. 301 |
| ELPS 2.C | learn new language structures, expressions, and basic and academic vocabulary heard during classroom instruction and interactions | U3: p. 68, U3: p. 81, U3: p. 243 |
| ELPS 2.D | monitor understanding of spoken language during classroom instruction and interactions and seek clarification as needed | |

ENGLISH LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY STANDARDS - GRADE 3

| Unit 3 | | Correlation—Teacher’s Guide |
|--|--|---|
| ELPS 2.E | use visual, contextual, and linguistic support to enhance and confirm understanding of increasingly complex and elaborated spoken language | |
| ELPS 2.F | listen to and derive meaning from a variety of media such as audio tape, video, DVD, and CD ROM to build and reinforce concept and language attainment | |
| ELPS 2.G | understand the general meaning, main points, and important details of spoken language ranging from situations in which topics, language, and contexts are familiar to unfamiliar | |
| ELPS 2.H | understand implicit ideas and information in increasingly complex spoken language commensurate with grade-level learning expectations | |
| ELPS 2.I | demonstrate listening comprehension of increasingly complex spoken English by following directions, retelling or summarizing spoken messages, responding to questions and requests, collaborating with peers, and taking notes commensurate with content and grade-level needs | |
| (3) Cross-curricular second language acquisition/speaking. The ELL speaks in a variety of modes for a variety of purposes with an awareness of different language registers (formal/informal) using vocabulary with increasing fluency and accuracy in language arts and all content areas. ELLs may be at the beginning, intermediate, advanced, or advanced high stage of English language acquisition in speaking. In order for the ELL to meet grade-level learning expectations across the foundation and enrichment curriculum, all instruction delivered in English must be linguistically accommodated (communicated, sequenced, and scaffolded) commensurate with the student’s level of English language proficiency. The student is expected to: | | |
| ELPS 3.A | practice producing sounds of newly acquired vocabulary such as long and short vowels, silent letters, and consonant clusters to pronounce English words in a manner that is increasingly comprehensible | U3: p. 68, U3: p. 134, U3: p. 136, U3: p. 177, U3: p. 220, U3: p. 243 |
| ELPS 3.B | expand and internalize initial English vocabulary by learning and using high-frequency English words necessary for identifying and describing people, places, and objects, by retelling simple stories and basic information represented or supported by pictures, and by learning and using routine language needed for classroom communication | U3: p. 184 |
| ELPS 3.C | speak using a variety of grammatical structures, sentence lengths, sentence types, and connecting words with increasing accuracy and ease as more English is acquired | |
| ELPS 3.D | speak using grade-level content area vocabulary in context to internalize new English words and build academic language proficiency | |
| ELPS 3.E | share information in cooperative learning interactions | |
| ELPS 3.F | ask and give information ranging from using a very limited bank of high-frequency, high-need, concrete vocabulary, including key words and expressions needed for basic communication in academic and social contexts, to using abstract and content-based vocabulary during extended speaking assignments | |

| Unit 3 | | Correlation—Teacher’s Guide |
|--|--|--|
| ELPS 3.G | express opinions, ideas, and feelings ranging from communicating single words and short phrases to participating in extended discussions on a variety of social and grade-appropriate academic topics | |
| ELPS 3.H | narrate, describe, and explain with increasing specificity and detail as more English is acquired | |
| ELPS 3.I | adapt spoken language appropriately for formal and informal purposes | |
| ELPS 3.J | respond orally to information presented in a wide variety of print, electronic, audio, and visual media to build and reinforce concept and language attainment | |
| (4) Cross-curricular second language acquisition/reading. The ELL reads a variety of texts for a variety of purposes with an increasing level of comprehension in all content areas. ELLs may be at the beginning, intermediate, advanced, or advanced high stage of English language acquisition in reading. In order for the ELL to meet grade-level learning expectations across the foundation and enrichment curriculum, all instruction delivered in English must be linguistically accommodated (communicated, sequenced, and scaffolded) commensurate with the student’s level of English language proficiency. For Kindergarten and grade 1, certain of these student expectations apply to text read aloud for students not yet at the stage of decoding written text. The student is expected to: | | |
| ELPS 4.A | learn relationships between sounds and letters of the English language and decode (sound out) words using a combination of skills such as recognizing sound-letter relationships and identifying cognates, affixes, roots, and base words | U3: p. 24, U3: p. 47, U3: p. 60, U3: p. 85, U3: p. 110, U3: p. 122, U3: p. 174, U3: p. 213, U3: p. 236, U3: p. 271, U3: p. 293, U3: p. 304 |
| ELPS 4.C | develop basic sight vocabulary, derive meaning of environmental print, and comprehend English vocabulary and language structures used routinely in written classroom materials | |
| ELPS 4.D | use prereading supports such as graphic organizers, illustrations, and pretaught topic-related vocabulary and other prereading activities to enhance comprehension of written text | |
| ELPS 4.E | read linguistically accommodated content area material with a decreasing need for linguistic accommodations as more English is learned | |
| ELPS 4.F | use visual and contextual support and support from peers and teachers to read grade-appropriate content area text, enhance and confirm understanding, and develop vocabulary, grasp of language structures, and background knowledge needed to comprehend increasingly challenging language | |
| ELPS 4.G | demonstrate comprehension of increasingly complex English by participating in shared reading, retelling or summarizing material, responding to questions, and taking notes commensurate with content area and grade level needs | U3: p. 13, U3: p. 72, U3: p. 138, U3: p. 150, U3: p. 163, U3: p. 187, U3: p. 200, U3: p. 248, U3: p. 261 |

The ELL writes in a variety of forms with increasing accuracy to effectively address a specific purpose and audience in all content areas. ELLs may be at the beginning, intermediate, advanced, or advanced high stage of English language acquisition in writing. In order for the ELL to meet grade-level learning expectations across foundation and enrichment curriculum, all instruction delivered in English must be linguistically accommodated (communicated, sequenced, and scaffolded) commensurate with the student's level of English language proficiency. For Kindergarten and grade 1, certain of these student expectations do not apply until the student has reached the stage of generating original written text using a standard writing system. The student is expected to: | | |

Introduction

UNIT 4 CONTENT

In Unit 4, students will review: (1) a number of spellings from Grade 2 with an emphasis on words with /ə/, alternative sound-spellings, contractions, possessives, homophones, and homographs; (2) words with common vowel-and-consonant syllabication patterns; and (3) words with common prefixes, suffixes, and roots.

VOWEL SPELLINGS

In Unit 4, students continue to review the /ə/ sound and other tricky vowel spellings. They practice reading and writing different spellings of the /shən/ and /shəl/ sounds as well as tricky spellings of the /ə/ and /oo/ sounds.

The 'tion', 'sion', 'cian', 'tian', 'tial', and 'cial' spellings:

- /shən/ > 'tion' (action), 'sion' (mission), 'tian' (Dalmatian), 'cian' (magician)
- /zhən/ > 'sion' (vision)
- /shəl/ > 'tial' (initial), 'cial' (special)

Additional tricky spellings:

- /ə/ > 'o_e' (love)
- /oo/ > 'o_e' (move)

The vowel sound-spelling list for Unit 4 deepens students' understanding that the same sound can be made by a variety of spellings. In Unit 3, students reviewed that the /ə/ sound can be made by any vowel. This knowledge is strengthened in Unit 4 as students identify, read, and write words with various spellings that make the same /ə/ sound.

Unit 4 also furthers students' knowledge of tricky spellings. When a spelling can represent more than one sound, it is a tricky spelling. In Unit 2, students learned that the split digraph 'o_e' can make the long /oe/ vowel sound (cone). In Unit 4, students learn that this spelling can also make the /ə/ sound (glove) and the /oo/ sound (improve). Tricky spellings often cause problems for students when they are reading. When they come upon an unfamiliar printed word with the split digraph 'o_e', they may need to try pronouncing it as a long /oe/ vowel sound, the /ə/ sound, and the /oo/ sound to correctly identify the word.

CONSONANT SPELLINGS

Unit 4 focuses on some complexities in the English writing system: the existence of words that are made by combining two words as well as words that share the same spelling or pronunciation as other words. Unit 4 reviews:

- contractions (can't, I'll);
- possessives (my dog's, both classes', the group's);
- homophones (hair/hare, write/right); and
- homographs (wind, dove).

In Unit 4, students will apply their knowledge of consonant sound-spellings from previous units as they tackle how to identify, read, and spell contractions and possessives. For example, they will draw upon their knowledge that the tricky spelling 's' can stand for /s/ as in cat's or /z/ as in dog's. Likewise, they will use their knowledge of words that end in /v/ to form contractions such as I've and would've.

Students will also apply their knowledge of consonant sound-spellings and vowel sound-spellings as they practice identifying, reading, and spelling homophones and homographs. For instance, knowing that the /h/ sound can be made by both 'h' and 'wh' will help students review the homophone pair whole and hole. Likewise, knowing that the vowel 'i' can make the short /i/ vowel sound as well as the long /ie/ vowel sound will help them review both pronunciations of the homograph live as /l/ /i/ /v/ and /l/ /ie/ /v/.

For more information on the program's approach to how phonics is taught with the basic and advanced code, please visit the program's digital components site.

SYLLABICATION

In Unit 4, students will review vowel-and-consonant syllabication patterns in two-syllable and multisyllabic words. The following patterns will be reviewed:

- VC/CV (fic•tion)
- CV/VC (cre•ate)
- V/CV (hu•mor)
- VC/V (plan•et)
- VCC/CV (hand•book)
- VC/CCV (com•plex)

Students will also practice using vowel-and-consonant patterns to divide words into syllables, both as a class and in independent work. Students will be given opportunities to first identify the vowels and consonants in words before applying their knowledge of syllabication patterns to divide the words into syllables.

For more information on the program’s approach to using chunking to decode multisyllabic words, please visit the program’s digital components site and look for Appendix C in the Teacher Resources.

MORPHOLOGY

Unit 4 focuses on the prefixes mid-, post-, semi-, anti-, and multi-; the suffixes -tion, -sion, -scope, -able, -ible, and -ly; and the roots spect, meter/metr, port, mot/mov, form, phon/phone, dict, graph, and scrib/script. Students will review how the affixes change the meaning and/or part of speech of the root word. They will practice reading the words and using them in sentences. Students will identify spelling changes such as dropping a final ‘e’, changing ‘y’ to ‘i’, or doubling a final consonant before adding a suffix.

WRITING

Encoding

Students practice spelling and writing words and sentences with all of the target sound-spellings, morphemes, and syllable types covered in Unit 4. Dictation words include schwa sound-spellings; contractions, possessives, homophones, and homographs. In addition, students practice spelling multisyllabic words with the prefixes mid-, post-, semi-, anti, and multi-; the suffixes -tion, -sion, -scope, -able, -ible, and -ly; and the roots spect, meter/metr, port, mot/mov, form, phon/phone, dict, graph, and scrib/script.

Reading Comprehension Questions and Writing Extension

All twelve reading passages include comprehension questions. Students get alternating opportunities to respond to these orally or as a written exercise in their Activity Books. Each reading passage also includes an optional writing prompt that allows students to write for 10 minutes.

These are great opportunities for students to practice their cursive writing, and for teachers to check students’ letter formation, letter and word spacing, line quality, slant, and letter connections. In all instances that involve student writing, be sure that students write their responses legibly in cursive with complete words, thoughts, and answers, leaving appropriate spaces between words. Provide modeling when necessary.

HIGH FREQUENCY IRREGULAR WORDS (TRICKY WORDS)

The digital components site includes a list of high-frequency irregular words used in the Unit 4 passages. The list also indicates each word’s correlation to other research-based lists (e.g., Dolch, Fry, and Zeno). Each Tricky Words lesson in the Additional Support section includes four to seven words from this list. Additional words from the Unit 4 Tricky Words list can be included or swapped out with the words in the lesson, if time allows and if students need practice with different words.

ASSESSMENT

Dictation Pretest and Posttest

Unit 4 has an encoding pretest and posttest. Both assessments use the same words so you can monitor students' mastery of the sound-spellings addressed in the unit.

Formative Assessments and Additional Support

Throughout this unit, formative assessments are clearly marked for monitoring individual student performance and progress in key skills. Quick "Check for Understanding" sections to evaluate classroom performance as a whole are also designated in various lessons.

Careful attention to this information, collected on a daily basis, will enable you to quickly determine which students may benefit from reteaching and/or more practice in particular skills using the Additional Support activities found at the end of each lesson.

REVIEW

Words with /shən/ > 'tion'

PRIMARY FOCUS OF LESSON

Warm-Up

- Students will identify and blend words with /shən/ > 'tion'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Phonics—Decoding

- Students will identify and read words with /shən/ > 'tion'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii
- Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the VC/CV pattern.
- TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v

Morphology

- Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the suffix -tion.
- TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

Reading

- Students will read “Volcanic Eruptions” orally with appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) and will answer questions about key details in the text.
- TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.4

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Reading

- Prepare the Unit 4 Discussion Questions Observation Record found in the Teacher Resources for use with students as they read aloud. Over the course of each week, be sure to ask each student to respond to at least one discussion question. Make notes regarding each student's ability to answer questions about characters, setting, and main event and to respond using complete sentences.
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: volcanic eruption, earth's crust, magma, lava, and vapor.

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Beginning

Review that there are regional differences in pronunciation of the /ə/ sound and that the /ə/ sound is called a “schwa.”

Ask students to identify words in their home language or English that people pronounce in different ways.

Intermediate

Have students complete sentence frames about the /ə/ sound. For example:
There are different ways to say the /ə/ sound. It depends on the _____ or _____. (word; where you are from).

Advanced/
Advanced High

Ask students to say something they recall about the schwa sound. For example, students may say that there are regional differences in how the schwa sound is pronounced. For example, sometimes it sounds more like /u/ and other times, it might sound more like /i/.

ELPS 3.A

Lesson 1: Review: Words with /shən/ > ‘tion’, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with /shən/ > ‘tion’.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW WORDS WITH /SHƏN/ > ‘TION’ (3 MIN.)

- Say, “Let’s review the /sh/ sound.”
- Have students say the /sh/ sound.
- Say the following words, having students repeat each: shine, assure, sugar, and chef.
- Point out that the words all have the /sh/ sound.
- Say, “Let’s also review the tricky schwa vowel sound.”
- Have students say the /ə/ sound.
- Say, “Remember schwa often sounds like /u/, but any of the vowels can make the schwa sound.”
- Write the following words, underlining the vowel that makes the /ə/ sound: around, broken, comma, and item. Read the words aloud, and have students repeat each word after you.
- Say, “Listen to the following words: nation, lotion, fiction. They all end with the /sh/ + /ə/ + /n/ sounds.” Have students repeat each word after you.
- Say /shən/ and have students repeat it.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs, r-controlled syllables, and final stable syllables.

Lesson 1: Review: Words with /shən/ > 'tion', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will identify and read words with /shən/ > 'tion'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the VC/CV pattern.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v

READ WORDS WITH /SHƏN/ > 'TION' (3 MIN.)

- Say, “Remember, we can often break up words into smaller parts so that they’re easier to read.”
- Write nation on the board.
- Underline ‘tion’. Remind students that it is pronounced /shən/.
- Point to the first syllable and ask students what type of syllable it is. Then ask them to read it. (open; /nae/)
- Have students read the word aloud as you point to each syllable. (/nae/ /shən/, nation)
- Write lotion on the board. Underline ‘tion’ and ask students to pronounce it. (/shən/)
- Point to the first syllable and ask students what type of syllable it is. Then ask them to read it. (open; /loe/)
- Have students read the word aloud as you point to each syllable. (/loe/ /shən/, lotion)
- Repeat the routine with the following words: fiction, function, potion, and section.

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH THE VC/CV PATTERN (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they can look for patterns to divide words into syllables as they read and spell words.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables, and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

- Say, “When we encounter multisyllabic words, knowing how to break longer words into smaller parts can help us read and understand the words.”
- Say, “When two consonants stand between two vowels, the word is usually divided between the two consonants. This pattern is called VC/CV, or vowel + consonant / consonant + vowel.”
- Write fiction on the board again.
- Say, “I see a syllable pattern in this word.”
- Circle the vowels. Underline the consonants.
- Write VC/CV under the word and mark with a slash where to divide the word into its syllables. Say, “This word has a VC/CV pattern, so we divide the syllables between the consonants.”
- Demonstrate dividing syllables: fic•tion. Read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Point out that ‘tion’ is also a final stable syllable. Remind students that they learned that a final stable syllable is one that is unstressed and uses a predictable sound spelling. Remind students that they have learned about the final stable syllables with /ə/ + /l/, and that they will continue to learn about final stable syllables with the /shən/ sound in Unit 4.
- Repeat the routine with the following words: function, section, pencil, action, tennis, and suction.
- Define the words as needed.
- Direct students to Activity Page 1.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Activity Page 1.1

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down Write the following word: op•tion. Have students give a thumbs-up if the word is divided correctly and a thumbs-down if it is not. (thumbs-up)

Lesson 1: Review: Words with /shən/ > 'tion', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the suffix -tion. TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND SUFFIXES: -TION (6 MIN.)

- Write the suffix -tion. Say, "Remember, when a suffix is added to a root word, it can change the meaning of the word and part of speech."
- Say, "When the suffix -tion is added to the end of a verb, it changes the word to a noun. The suffix -tion forms a noun and describes an action, state, or condition."
- Write the word rotate. Explain that one meaning for the word rotate is to move around a center point, usually in a circular motion.
- Tell students that rotate is a verb.
- Say, "Let's add the suffix -tion and change the word to a noun."
- Demonstrate dropping the 'e' and adding the suffix -tion to form rotation.
- Say, "Rotation means 'the act of rotating.'" Read the word aloud with students.
- Use the word in a sentence. Say, "I moved the handle all the way around in a single rotation."
- Direct students to Activity Page 1.2 and review the instructions. Complete the first item as a class.
- Then have students work on the activity page with a partner. Circulate as students work, addressing misunderstandings.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Support

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meaning: formation, evolution, disruption, and fascination.

Support

Review that a suffix is word ending. Write words with suffixes students are familiar with, such as neighborhood and artist, and have them underline the suffix. (-hood; -ist)

TEKS 3.2.A.vi Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B.vii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Challenge

Ask volunteers to read some or part of the text aloud. After they read, point out any adjustments students made to read with accuracy.

Lesson 1: Review: Words with /shən/ > 'tion', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Volcanic Eruptions” orally with appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.4

READ “VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS” WITH ACCURACY (10 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 1.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
 - words: evolution, disruption, influence (have an effect on), condensation, eruptions
 - domain-specific language: land formations, water vapor, underground rock slabs, plates, pressure buildup
- Remind students that a synonym is a word that has a meaning that is the same as or similar to the meaning of another word. Explain that students can use synonyms to help them increase their understanding of the words in a text. For example, point out the following sentence: A volcano is a hill or mountain with a crater, or hole, at the top. Tell students that crater and hole are synonyms. Understanding the meaning of hole can help them understand the meaning of crater.
- Have students follow along as you read “Volcanic Eruptions.”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read the first three or four paragraphs of the passage again, this time without awareness of phrasing and with a flat, expressionless voice. For example, “These rock slabs fit together like puzzle pieces. These slabs are called plates.”

Support

Before reading “Volcanic Eruptions,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs, r-controlled syllables, and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Ask students yes/no questions using simple phrases to summarize the text: Is a volcano a mountain with a crater? Is the crater caused by an eruption? Did volcanoes help create the earth's oceans?

Intermediate

Provide students with a specific sentence frame for summarizing and use temporal words: After a volcano erupts, _____ comes out of the crater.

Advanced/ Advanced High

Encourage students to expand and/or build on other students' responses and learned phrases.

ELPS 4.G; ELPS 4.I

- Ask students to explain how your voice was different and to identify which reading was the most enjoyable to listen to.
- Confirm that your reading didn't sound conversational, you didn't use appropriate phrasing of words, and your reading didn't have the right rhythm.
- Say, "To read fluently, we have to read accurately and with expressive voices that sound the way the characters would talk. Listen as I reread these sentences: "These rock slabs fit together like puzzle pieces. These slabs are called plates."
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., magma, atmosphere, and fascination).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read. Encourage them to read with appropriate expression. Explain that they will be practicing reading with appropriate expression throughout the week.

Wrap-Up

Discussion Questions for "Volcanic Eruptions"

1. Literal. What is a volcano?
 - » A volcano is a hill or mountain with a crater, or hole, at the top.
2. Literal. What happens when lava cools?
 - » When lava cools, it becomes rock.
3. Literal. How do volcanic eruptions change the earth?
 - » Volcanic eruptions change the shape of the land and create new islands.
4. Evaluative. Why did the author include information about oceans in a passage about volcanoes?
 - » Volcanoes helped with the formation of the earth's oceans, and the oceans cover three-quarters of the earth.
5. Literal. What synonym in the passage helps you understand the meaning of eruption?
 - » explosion

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Say, “Give a thumbs-up if you think I read this sentence with appropriate expression, and give a thumbs-down if you think I didn’t read it with appropriate expression: ‘These collisions cause a disruption to the earth’s crust and can form a volcano.’” [Read the sentence in a monotone voice.] (thumbs-down)

Observation: Discussion Questions Observation Record

- Call on a different student to answer each question. Note students’ performance in the Discussion Questions Observation Record.
- Turn and Talk: For the evaluative question, have students share their thoughts with one another. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their answer. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner’s thinking with the group.

Lesson 1: Review: Words with /shən/ > ‘tion’, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will take the dictation pretest for Unit 4.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vii

UNIT 4 DICTATION PRETEST (5 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 1.4. Review the instructions together.
- Tell students that they will spell words with different sound spellings that they will learn about in Unit 4.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants.

Activity Page 1.4

- Remind them to use what they know about syllable division patterns as they spell the words.
- Say the word transportation. Repeat it. Have students write it on Activity Page 1.4.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- | | | |
|-------------------|-----------------|------------------|
| 1. transportation | 4. dictation | 7. indescribable |
| 2. persuasion | 5. multilingual | 8. descriptively |
| 3. telephone | 6. bibliography | 9. semiyearly |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell on their activity page.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- | |
| 1. She'd like to hear every option. |
| 2. The man's Dalmatian loves the dog park. |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly. You may accept Dalmatian spelled with an initial capital or lowercase letter.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 1.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 1.3.

- Have them reread “Volcanic Eruptions.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 1.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
 - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
 - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following words on index cards: oceans, islands, and Hawaiian.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word oceans and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘cean’ is pronounced /shən/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /oe/ for this letter. We say /shən/ for these letters. We say /z/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /oe/ /shən/ /z/, oceans. Say, “Oceans! It’s a word we hear all the time, like when we say ‘Today, oceans cover nearly three-quarters of the earth.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say oceans. What’s the word?”

- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Reading

- Prepare one copy of the blank Unit 4 Anecdotal Reading Record for every student in your class. Label each record with a student's name. Place all these records in alphabetical order on a new clipboard with a pen so they are ready for use when students read aloud.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
 - Have students take turns reading the entire text.
 - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
 - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the text.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: volcanic eruption, earth's crust, magma, lava, and vapor.

Lesson 2: Review: Words with /shən/ > 'tion', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with /shən/ > 'tion'.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW WORDS WITH /SHƏN/ > 'TION' (3 MIN.)

- Write the spelling 'tion' on the board. Say, "Remember, we learned about this spelling. It has the /sh/ + /ə/ + /n/ sounds. It is pronounced /shən/."
- Say lotion in a segmented and blended fashion: /loē/ /shən/, lotion. Have students repeat it.
- Say the following words in a segmented and blended fashion and have students repeat each: /næ/ /shən/ nation; /fik/ /shən/ fiction; /fʌnk/ /shən/ function; /poe/ /shən/ potion; /sek/ /shən/ section.

Lesson 2: Review: Words with /shən/ > 'tion', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

✚ Students will identify and read words with /shən/ > 'tion'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the VC/CV pattern.

- Point to the first syllable and ask students what type of syllable it is. Then ask them to read it. (open; /stæ/)
- Have students read the word aloud as you point to each syllable. (/stæ/ /shən/, station)
- Write attention on the board. Underline the spelling 'tion' and ask students to pronounce it. (/shən/)
- Ask, "Where does the first syllable end?" (between the two t's)
- Mark with a slash where the first syllable ends. Show the VC/CV pattern that was taught in Lesson 1.
- Point to the first syllable and ask students what type of syllable it is. Then ask them to read it. (closed; /at/)
- Point to the second syllable and ask students what type of syllable it is. Then ask them to read it. (closed; /ten/)
- Have students read the word aloud as you point to each syllable. (/at/ /ten/ /shən/)
- Say, "That doesn't sound right. Remember that in multisyllabic words, some syllables are stressed and others are unstressed. In unstressed open syllables, vowels make the /ə/ sound. Let me adjust the vowel sound to the schwa in the first syllable and try again."
- Read the word again, pronouncing the first syllable /ət/. Then have students read the word aloud.
- Repeat the routine with the following words: addition, audition, and condition.
- Define the words as needed.
- Direct students to Activity Page 2.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Activity Page 2.1

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH THE VC/CV PATTERN (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they can look for patterns to divide words into syllables as they read and spell words.

- Say, “Remember, when two consonants stand between two vowels, the word is usually divided between the two consonants. This pattern is called VC/CV, or vowel + consonant / consonant + vowel.”
- Write friction on the board.
- Say, “I see a syllable pattern in this word.”
- Circle the vowels. Underline the consonants.
- Mark VC/CV under the word. Say, “This word has a VC/CV pattern, so we divide the syllables between the consonants.”
- Demonstrate dividing syllables: fric•tion. Read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Write the following words on the board: dinner, offend, publish, and practice.
- Have volunteers take turns approaching the board to mark the vowels and then the consonants. Tell students to divide each word into its syllables. Then have students read the word aloud.

Challenge

Have students scan text in the classroom, such as posters, book titles, or charts, for words with the VC/CV pattern. Have them list and divide the words.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down Write the following word: cus•tom. Ask students to give a thumbs-up if the word is divided correctly and a thumbs-down if it is not. (thumbs-up)

Lesson 2: Review: Words with /shən/ > ‘tion’, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the suffix -tion. TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND SUFFIXES: -TION (6 MIN.)

- Say, “Remember, when a suffix is added to a root word, it can change the meaning of the word and part of speech.”

TEKS 3.2.A.vi Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B.vii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Support

If students struggle with completing the sentences on the activity page, direct them to cover the -tion suffix with their hands to see if they know the meaning of the root word. If they cannot identify a root word, encourage them to quietly read aloud each sentence twice, with each word option. Have them listen for which word sounds right to their ears.

Language

Learning How English Works

Beginning

Use images and gestures to aid students' understanding of the -tion words on the activity page.

Intermediate

Ask yes or no questions to aid students' understanding of the -tion words on the activity page.

For example: Does a volcano erupt? Do you go to a doctor if you think you have an infection?

Advanced/

Advanced High

Encourage each student to expand and/or build on other students' responses; for example, by adding their own knowledge.

ELPS 4.A

Activity Page 2.2

- Say, "When the suffix -tion is added to the end of a verb, it changes the word to a noun. The suffix -tion forms a noun and describes an action, state, or condition."
- Write the word act. Tell students that act is a verb, a word that shows action.
- Say, "Let's add the suffix -tion and change the word to a noun. The root word ends in 't' and the suffix begins in 't'. So, let's drop the final 't' of the root word and add the suffix."
- Demonstrate adding the suffix -tion to form action.
- Ask a volunteer to use action in a sentence. (Her quick action saved the boy's life.)
- Repeat the routine with the following words: add/addition; adopt/adoption; erupt/eruption; infect/infection; invent/invention. As necessary, help students define words.
- Direct students to Activity Page 2.2 and review the instructions.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

REREAD “VOLCANIC ERUPTIONS” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s text with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the text.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 1.3. Tell students that today they will reread “Volcanic Eruptions” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “Volcanic Eruptions.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Remind students what they learned about identifying synonyms in context, pointing out that a synonym is a word with a meaning that is the same as or similar to the meaning of another word.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.

TEKS 3.1.D Work collaboratively with others by following agreed-upon rules, norms, and protocols; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs, r-controlled syllables, and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Challenge

Have students identify words with skills they learned about in Unit 3 in the text, such as words with the -ment suffix or the over- prefix, and mark them in the text.

ELPS 4.A

- After students read the passage, have them work together to
 - underline words with 'tion';
 - highlight two-syllable words with the VC/CV syllable pattern; and
 - write two words from the text that are synonyms.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Observation: "Volcanic Eruptions" Anecdotal Reading Record

Lesson 2: Review: Words with /shən/ > 'tion', Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /shən/ > 'tion'.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vii

SPELL WORDS WITH /SHƏN/ > 'TION' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with /shən/ > 'tion' that you say aloud.
- Remind them to use what they know about syllable division patterns as they spell the words.
- Say the word suction. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCC; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants.

- Repeat with the remaining words.

- | | | |
|--------------|-------------|-------------|
| 1. suction | 4. option | 7. edition |
| 2. portion | 5. caution | 8. solution |
| 3. condition | 6. equation | 9. vacation |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- | |
|--|
| 1. This old book about the space station on the moon is fiction. |
| 2. What section of the book did you want to mention? |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students are working or collect their dictation journals to review and monitor their spelling progress.

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Write the following words on the board. Have students approach the board and mark words with the VC/CV pattern. Then have students read the word aloud.

| | | | |
|--------------------|------------------|--------------------|--------------------|
| 1. accept | 6. rabbit | 11. velvet | 16. caption |
| 2. distance | 7. tennis | 12. victim | 17. swift |
| 3. house | 8. fairy | 13. enough | 18. dinner |
| 4. brand | 9. hiccup | 14. publish | 19. mitten |
| 5. practice | 10. state | 15. comfort | 20. test |

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Volcanic Eruptions” on Activity Page TR 1.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say oceans and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, oeshənz. Write the letters to spell oceans on the board.
- Point to the word oceans and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /shən/ sound is spelled ‘cean.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “We say /oe/ for this letter. We say /shən/ for these letters. We say /z/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /oe/ /shən/ /z/, oceans. Say, “Oceans! It’s a word we use all the time.”
- Repeat with the words islands and Hawaiian. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.
- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.
- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

Lesson 3: Review: Words with 'sion', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with /shən/ > 'sion'.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW WORDS WITH 'SION' (3 MIN.)

- Write 'tion' on the board.
- Say, "Remember, we learned about this spelling. It has the /sh/ + /ə/ + /n/ sounds. It is pronounced /shən/."
- Read the following words aloud and have students repeat them: station, option, addition, adoption, attention, audition, and condition.
- Say, "Now, listen to the following words: mission, session, version."
- Write mission on the board. Underline 'sion'.
- Tell students that 'sion' can also be pronounced /shən/.
- Say mission, and have students read it aloud after you.
- Repeat with session.
- Say version and have students read it aloud after you. Write the word on the board. Say, "Version is also spelled with 'sion', but the sound of the spelling is /zhən/ and not /shən/."
- Point out that in some cases, when a vowel or an 'r' comes before 'sion', the spelling makes the /zhən/ sound, as in version and vision, instead of the /shən/ sound as in expansion.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs, r-controlled syllables, and final stable syllables.

Lesson 3: Review: Words with 'sion', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

✚ Students will identify and read words with 'sion'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the VC/CV pattern.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v

READ WORDS WITH 'SION' (3 MIN.)

- Emphasize that /shən/ can be spelled 'tion' or 'sion'.
- Write session on the board.
- Underline 'sion'. Remind students that 'sion' can be pronounced /shən/ or /zhən/.
- Read session syllable by syllable. Then read it as a whole word. Have students read it aloud, emphasizing the /shən/ pronunciation.
- Repeat the routine with the following words: vision, division, and expansion. Use a slash to mark each syllable first. Then read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Point out that vision and division have the /zhən/ sound. As students continue to practice reading words with 'sion' they will learn when to use the /shən/ or the /zhən/ pronunciations.
- Define the words as needed.
- Direct students to Activity Page 3.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Activity Page 3.1

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

CONSTRUCT AND READ WORDS WITH THE VC/CV PATTERN (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they can look for patterns to divide syllables as they read and spell words.
- Say, “Remember, when two consonants stand between two vowels, the word is usually divided between the two consonants. This pattern is called VC/CV, or vowel + consonant / consonant + vowel.”
- Write version again.
- Say, “I see a syllable pattern in this word.”
- Circle the vowels. Underline the consonants.
- Mark VC/CV under the word. Say, “This word has a VC/CV pattern, so we divide the syllables between the consonants.”
- Demonstrate dividing syllables with a slash: ver•sion. Read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Write the following words: tension, blanket, bobcat, and cactus.
- Have volunteers take turns approaching the board to mark the vowels and then the consonants. Have students divide the word into syllables, and then have students read the word aloud.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down Write the following word: den•tist. Ask students to give a thumbs-up if the word is divided correctly or a thumbs-down if it is not. (thumbs-up)

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the suffix -sion. TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

TEKS 3.2.A.vi Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B.vii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meanings: corrosion, admission, extension, omission.

ROOT WORDS AND SUFFIXES: -SION (6 MIN.)

- Say, “Remember, when a suffix is added to a root word, it can change the meaning of the word and its part of speech.”
- Say, “When the suffix -sion is added to the end of a verb, it changes the word to a noun. The suffix -sion forms a noun and describes an action, state, or condition.”
- Write the word confess.
- Say, “The word confess is a verb that means ‘to admit something.’”
- Say, “Let’s add the suffix -sion and change the word confess to a noun.”
- Write the following: ‘d’, ‘de’, ‘l’, ‘r’, ‘s’, and ‘t’.
- Say, “If a root word ends in ‘d’, ‘de’, ‘l’, ‘r’, ‘s’, or ‘t’, we drop the ending before adding the suffix. The root word confess ends in ‘s’, so we drop the ‘s’ before we add the suffix -sion.”
- Demonstrate adding the suffix -sion to form confession. Read the word aloud with students.
- Say, “Confession means ‘the act of admitting something’ or ‘something that is admitted.’”
- Use confession in a sentence: Mara made a confession that she ate all the cookies.
- Write the word conclude.
- Say, “Conclude is a verb that means ‘to bring to an end.’”
- Say, “Let’s add the suffix -sion and change the word to a noun.”
- Say, “The root word ends in ‘de’, so we will drop the ‘de’ before adding the suffix.”
- Demonstrate adding the suffix -sion to form conclusion. Read the word aloud with students.
- Say, “Conclusion can mean ‘an outcome,’ ‘the ending,’ or ‘a judgment.’”
- Use conclusion in a sentence: In the conclusion of the book, the characters finally find the treasure.

- Direct students to Activity Page 3.2 and review the instructions. Complete the first item as a class. Define words as needed. Tell students that the list of root word endings on the board might help them as they change the spelling before adding the suffix.

READ “SOCCER HISTORY CLUB” (10 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 3.3.
- Define unfamiliar words and phrases for students. You may want to include the following:
 - words: inseparable, envision, fusion, brainstorm, passions
 - phrases: “historical accounts,” “shared vision,” “bond began to weaken”
- Remind students that an antonym is a word whose meaning is the opposite to the meaning of another word. Explain that students can use antonyms to help them increase their understanding of the text. For example, point out that in the text that similar and different are antonyms. Understanding the meaning of similar can help them understand the meaning of different.
- Have students follow along as you read “Soccer History Club.”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., academy, precision, superior).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read or have students read it independently.

Have students read independently and then work with a partner to share their responses to the comprehension questions.

ELPS 4.1

Lesson 3: Review: Words with 'sion', Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with 'sion'.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vii

SPELL WORDS WITH 'SION' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with 'sion' that you say aloud. Point out that sometimes words with this spelling make the /shən/ or the /zhən/ sound.
- Remind them to use what they know about syllable division patterns as they spell the words.
- Say the word confession. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- | | | |
|---------------|--------------|----------------|
| 1. confession | 4. session | 7. expansion |
| 2. version | 5. decision | 8. impression |
| 3. erosion | 6. obsession | 9. progression |

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants.

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

1. In the conclusion of the book, the space mission fails.
2. The group made a decision to meet at the station.

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students are working or collect their dictation journals to review and monitor their spelling progress.

Lesson 3: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 3.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 3.3.
- Have them reread “Soccer History Club.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 3.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.

- Students should:
 - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
 - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following word on an index card: figure. You may create cards for additional Tricky Words in this unit or gather cards from previous units to include in this review.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word figure and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘ure’ is pronounced /yər/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /f/ for this letter. We say /i/ for this letter. We say /g/ for this letter. We say /yər/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /f/ /i/ /g/ /yər/, figure. Say, “Figure! It’s a word we hear all the time, like when we say ‘Maybe we can figure out how to combine our separate passions.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say figure. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.

- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 4 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
 - Have students take turns reading the entire story.
 - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
 - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the story.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: midfield (soccer), tension, bleacher, and biography.

Lesson 4: Review: Words with 'sion', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with 'sion'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW WORDS WITH 'SION' (3 MIN.)

- Write 'sion' on the board. Say, "Remember, we learned about this spelling. It has the /sh/ + /ə/ + /n/ sounds or the /zh/ + /ə/ + /n/ sounds. It can be pronounced /shən/ or /zhən/."
- Say the following words and have students repeat them: mission, session, version, vision, division, expansion.
- Write each word on the board. Circle the 'sion'.
- Remind students that 'sion' is pronounced /shən/ or /zhən/.
- Point to each word again and say it aloud, having students read it aloud after you. Ask students which sounds they hear in each word: /shən/ or /zhən/.

Lesson 4: Review: Words with 'sion', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Primary Focus: Students will identify and read words with 'sion'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the VC/CV pattern.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v

READ WORDS WITH 'SION' (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that /shən/ can be spelled 'tion' or 'sion'.
- Write revision on the board.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables, and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts;
TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

- Underline 'sion'. Point out that in this case it is pronounced /zhən/.
- Use a slash to mark each syllable. Read revision syllable by syllable. Then read it as a whole word. Have students read it aloud, emphasizing the /zhən/ pronunciation.
- Repeat the routine with the following words: fusion, passion, tension, corrosion, illusion, and omission.
- Define words as needed.

Check for Understanding

Say, "I'm going to say some words. If you hear the /shən/ sound, raise your right hand. If you hear the /zhən/ sound, raise your left hand." Read the following words: expression (right), vision (left), mission (right), decision (left), expansion (right), and illusion (left).

CONSTRUCT AND READ WORDS WITH THE VC/CV PATTERN (3 MIN.)

- Say, "Remember, when two consonants stand between two vowels, the word is usually divided between the two consonants. This pattern is called VC/CV."
- Direct students to Activity Page 4.1 and review the instructions. Complete the first item together.
- Write the word on the board with the syllables marked with a slash. For example: mis•sion. Point out the VC/CV pattern.
- Point to each syllable as you say the word aloud, and then have students read the word aloud.
- Circulate as students work with a partner on the activity page.
- If needed, have students complete the activity page at home.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Challenge

Challenge partners to come up with a sentence for each word they create on the activity page.

Beginning

Ask yes or no questions to reinforce words with the prefix mid-. For example: Does a midmorning walk happen in the beginning of the morning? (no) Does it happen in the middle of the morning? (yes)

Intermediate

Have volunteers complete this sentence frame: A midmorning walk happens in the _____ of the morning. (middle)

Advanced/

Advanced High

Have students answer a question to practice using words with the prefix mid-. For example: What do you often do in the midmorning? In the midmorning, I am at recess.

ELPS 1.C

Lesson 4: Review: Words with 'sion', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes mid- and post-.

TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND PREFIXES: MID-, POST- (6 MIN.)

- Say, "Remember, a prefix is a word part added to the beginning of a root word to change the meaning of the word."
- Say, "Let's focus on the prefix mid-." Write the prefix mid- on the board.
- Write morning on the board under the prefix. Read the word aloud with your students. Then add and underline the prefix mid-.
- Say, "The prefix mid- often means 'middle,' so midmorning means 'middle of the morning.'"
- Use the word in a sentence: I usually take a midmorning walk.
- Have students read the word aloud.
- Point out that the spelling of morning did not change when you added the prefix.
- Write the prefix post- on the board.
- Write game on the board under the prefix. Read the word aloud with your students. Then add and underline the prefix post-.
- Say, "The prefix post- often means 'after or following,' so postgame means 'after the game.'"
- Use the word in a sentence: Are you going to the postgame party?
- Have students read the word aloud.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (vi) spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

- Point out to students that several words with post- are actually related to the mail, such as postage, postmark, postal, and do not refer to something that is “after or following.”
- Direct students to Activity Page 4.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner’s response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

REREAD "SOCCER HISTORY CLUB" (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today's story with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the story.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 3.3. Tell students that today they will reread "Soccer History Club" with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about "Soccer History Club."
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Remind students that an antonym is a word whose meaning is opposite to the meaning of another word. Explain that students can use antonyms to help them increase their understanding of the text.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.

- Tell students that after they finish reading, they should work together to
 - underline words with ‘sion’,
 - circle words with the prefixes mid- and post-,
 - highlight words with the VC/CV syllable pattern, and
 - write two words from the text that are antonyms.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Observation: “Soccer History Club” Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read “Soccer History Club,” make notes about the student’s reading, such as errors in fluency or prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 4: Review: Words with ‘sion’, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with ‘sion’.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vii

SPELL WORDS WITH ‘SION’ (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with ‘sion’ that you say aloud. Point out that words with this spelling can make either the /shən/ or the /zhən/ sound.
- Remind them to use what they know about syllable division patterns as they spell the words.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants.

- Say the word invasion. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- | | | |
|-------------|-------------|---------------|
| 1. invasion | 4. division | 7. passion |
| 2. occasion | 5. fusion | 8. conclusion |
| 3. revision | 6. tension | 9. impression |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- | |
|---|
| 1. Have you made a decision about which session you liked the most? |
| 2. I wrote a long and short version of the conclusion to the story. |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students are working or collect their dictation journals to review and monitor their spelling progress.

Lesson 4: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 4.1 for each student.
- Review the directions as a class.
- When students are finished, ask pairs to check each other's work and take turns reading the words aloud.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about "Soccer History Club" on Activity Page TR 3.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say figure and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, fiiigyørrr. Write the letters to spell figure on the board.
- Point to the word figure and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /yər/ sound is spelled ‘ure.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “We say /f/ for this letter. We say /i/ for this letter. We say /g/ for this letter. We say /yər/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /f/ /i/ /g/ /yər/, figure. Say, “Figure! It’s a word we use all the time.”
- Repeat with any additional Tricky Words you reviewed in Lesson 3. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.
- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.
- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

- Have students cut word cards on Activity Page 5.1.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: sports page (newspaper), Carli Lloyd (2015 photo in uniform if possible), spectators, World Cup (women's trophy), interview (sports), midfield (soccer field).

Lesson 5: Mixed Review, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will review identifying and blending words with 'tion' and 'sion'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW WORDS WITH 'TION' AND 'SION' (3 MIN.)

- Draw a two-column chart like the one below.
- Pointing to each heading, say, "Remember, we learned about two spellings: 'tion' and 'sion.' They can both be pronounced /shən/, and 'sion' can also be pronounced /zhən/."
- Say mention. Have students repeat the word.
- Write the word in the correct column. Underline 'tion'.
- Repeat with the words below. Students will continue to add to this chart throughout the lesson.

| Words with 'tion' | Words with 'sion' |
|-------------------|-------------------|
| mention | decision |
| fraction | version |
| lotion | obsession |

Lesson 5: Mixed Review, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will review identifying and reading words with 'tion' and 'sion'.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will review dividing and reading multisyllabic words with the VC/CV pattern. TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs, r-controlled syllables, and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

READ WORDS WITH 'TION' AND 'SION' (3 MIN.)

- Say, "Let's continue to review words with 'tion' and 'sion'!"
- Show the chart from the Warm-Up.
- Write invention in the correct column. Ask a volunteer to underline the 'tion' or 'sion' spelling.
- Have students work together to break up the word into syllables.
- Then have the class read the word aloud together.
- Repeat with the following words: addition, solution, admission, confession, audition, invasion, and persuasion.

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH THE VC/CV PATTERN (3 MIN.)

- Say, "Remember, when two consonants stand between two vowels, the word is usually divided between the two consonants. This pattern is called VC/CV."
- Write the word tension on the board.
- Circle the vowels. Underline the consonants.
- Mark VC/CV under the word. Say, "This word has a VC/CV pattern, so we divide the syllables between the consonants."
- Use a slash to demonstrate dividing syllables: ten•sion. Read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Direct students to Activity Page 5.1 and review the instructions.
- Ask, "If I were to cut uphill into syllables, where should I do it?" (after the 'p')
- Circulate as students work with a partner on the activity page.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Say, "I'm going to say some words. If you hear the /shən/ sound, raise your hand." Read the following words: edition (yes), smash (no), impression (yes), progression (yes), obsess (no), mission (yes).

Challenge

Have students come up with their own 'tion' and 'sion' words to add to the chart.

Activity Page 5.1

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Beginning

Ask yes or no questions to reinforce words with the prefix post-.

For example: Does a postconcert event happen before the concert? (no)
Does it happen after the concert? (yes)

Intermediate

Have volunteers complete this sentence frame: A postconcert event happens _____ the concert. (after)

Advanced/
Advanced High

Have students answer a question to practice using words with the prefix post-. For example:
What might you do at a postconcert event? I might discuss what I liked about the concert.

ELPS 1.C

Lesson 5: Mixed Review, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will review using words with prefixes and suffixes.

TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

REVIEW ROOT WORDS AND AFFIXES: MID-, POST- (6 MIN.)

- Say, "Remember, the prefix mid- often means 'middle.'"
- Write day on the board. Then add the prefix mid-.
- Say, "The word midday means 'middle of the day.'"
- Ask a volunteer to use the word in a sentence: for example, The midday sun is very hot.
- Have students read the word aloud.
- Say, "Remember, the prefix post- often means 'after or following.'"
- Write concert on the board. Then add the prefix post-.
- Say, "The word postconcert means 'after the concert.'"
- Ask a volunteer to use the word in a sentence: At a postconcert event, we met the musicians.
- Have students read the word aloud.
- Direct students to Activity Page 5.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner's response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (vi) spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Lesson 5: Mixed Review, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Postgame Report” independently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.5

READ “POSTGAME REPORT” INDEPENDENTLY (10 MIN.)

- Tell students that they will be reading “Postgame Report” independently. Direct students to Activity Page 5.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
 - words: intense, dedication, recognition, displayed, humbly
 - phrases: “insights and reflections,” “her mission was clear,” “eruption of joyful clapping”
 - domain-specific language: midfielder, postseason, post-match, World Cup
- Remind students that a synonym is a word whose meaning is the same as or similar to the meaning of another word. An antonym is a word whose meaning is the opposite of the meaning of another word. Explain that students can use synonyms and antonyms to help them increase their understanding of the text. For example, point out that the underlined antonyms in the text show how focused Lloyd was. The stadium atmosphere felt tense with nervous energy. Even under such tension, Carli showed her calm and focused attitude.
- Read a few lines of the passage, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., emotional, especially, performance).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs, r-controlled syllables, and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.5 Self-select text and read independently for a sustained period of time.

Activity Pages 5.3, 5.4

Support

Have students focus on one annotation at a time. For example, first have them read and underline words with ‘tion’ or ‘sion’. During the next reading, have them circle words with mid- or post-, and so on.

Before reading “Postgame Report,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Assist students in creating columns on their own paper for each category (e.g., words with 'tion' and 'sion'). Provide them with or help them identify one example word from the passage for each category.

Then have them find one additional example on their own or with a partner by focusing on one paragraph at a time.

Intermediate

Have students work with a partner to annotate the text.

Advanced/ Advanced High

After students have worked independently to annotate the text, ask them to share their work with a partner.

ELPS 4.A

- Remind students that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression.
- Tell students that they may read the text either silently or softly to themselves.
- Then have them read the text again and
 - underline words with 'tion' and 'sion',
 - circle words with the prefixes mid- and post-,
 - highlight at least ten words with the VC/CV syllable pattern, and
 - write two words from the text that are synonyms and two words that are antonyms.
- After students have annotated the passage, have them complete the comprehension questions on Activity Page 5.4 independently.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students are working, asking them to explain their annotation decisions.

Lesson 5: Mixed Review, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will review spelling and writing words with 'tion' and 'sion'

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vii

ENCODING REVIEW (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants.

- Tell students that they will be spelling some words with 'mid' and 'post' and some words with 'tion' and 'sion' that you say aloud. Point out that words with this spelling can make either the /shən/ or the /zhən/ sound.
- Remind them to use what they know about syllable division patterns as they spell the words.
- Say the word eruption. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- | | | |
|--------------|-----------------|---------------|
| 1. eruption | 4. postelection | 7. admission |
| 2. expansion | 5. adoption | 8. posttest |
| 3. midyear | 6. inversion | 9. midsection |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- | |
|--|
| 1. In math, we do addition and division. |
| 2. What solution will fix the erosion on the hill? |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Dictation Journals: Phonics/Encoding Dictation

Collect students' dictation journals to review and monitor student progress.

Lesson 5: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 5.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 5.3.
- Have them reread “Postgame Report.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 5.1.
- Tell students they will write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
 - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
 - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Then, pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Postgame Report” on Activity Page TR 5.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Gather Tricky Word index cards from Lesson 1 and Lesson 3 (oceans, islands, Hawaiian, figure) and any other Tricky Words that you reviewed in the lessons. Write the following new words on an index card: obvious and atmosphere.
- Use the cards with the new words. Say, “Today we will review some more Tricky Words together. You can sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Display and point to the word obvious and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘i’ is pronounced /ee/, and the ‘ous’ is pronounced /əs/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /o/ for this letter. We say /b/ for this letter. We say /v/ for this letter. We say /ee/ for this letter. We say /əs/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /o/ /b/ /v/ /ee/ /əs/, obvious. Say, “Obvious! It’s a word we use all the time, like when we say ‘Her training and intense passion were obvious with every move she made.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say obvious. What’s the word?” Ask them to sound it out and then read it again. Say, “It is helpful to remember another word that has the /əs/ sound spelled ‘ous.’” Write curious on the board, then blend and read the word aloud with students.
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining word(s), mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.

- Add the Tricky Word cards from Lesson 1 and Lesson 3. Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all the new words we learned this week. Let’s play a game. We’re going to go through this stack of cards as fast as we can, reading the word on each card. Read the words carefully, because these are words that you have to sound out in a special way. Let’s see how fast we can go. My turn first.”
- Model taking the top card off the stack, showing it to students, and saying the Tricky Word after a pause. Continue through the stack.
- Say, “Do you think you can go faster than I did?”
- Assign students to small groups. As you show each card, have one group of students read through the stack of cards as quickly as they can.
- If a student says the wrong word for a card, model how to sound out the Tricky Word and then say the word. Ask the student to repeat your answer, and move on to the next card in the stack with the same small group until you go through all of the cards.
- Select the next small group, shuffle the stack of cards, and repeat until all groups have had a turn.
- Say, “Okay, now let’s go faster.” Shuffle the stack of cards and repeat at a faster pace so that each group has had two turns.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Save the index cards to incorporate review of the Tricky Words throughout the unit.

Additional Activities to Review All Tricky Words from This Week

(1) Tricky Words Race

- Create a four-column chart. Fill it out with the Tricky Words you taught this week.
- Divide the class into two groups and have each group line up by the board.
- Explain how the game works. You will call out a Tricky Word. One student from each team will race to find the word on the chart and tap it. The first student to find and tap the word earns a point for the team.
- Repeat until all the words have been found or every student has had a turn.

Note: Consider playing this game in pairs to provide support for students who are still mastering these Tricky Words.

(2) Call, Flip, Read, Roll

- Gather ten index cards for each student.
- Give each student ten index cards, and have them number the cards 1-10.
- Display all Tricky Words that have been taught so far. Have each student pick ten Tricky Words from the list and write one word on the back of each index card. Their set of cards should now have a word to be read on one side and a number on the other side.
- Place students into pairs. Call out a number at random and have each student take turns finding a card with that number on it in their stack. The student then reads the word aloud. If the word is read correctly, the student may then roll a die and whatever number it lands on is the number of points they receive. The student with the most points is the winner.
- Save the index cards to use the next time students play this game. Students can reuse another student's set of cards.

ENRICHMENT PASSAGE

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 5.2 for each student.
- Tell students they will be reading a short passage with some of the sound spellings and syllable types they have recently learned.
- Direct students to the passage “The Declaration of Independence.” Tell students that they may read the passage either silently or softly to themselves.
- Then have them read the passage again and
 - underline three words with -tion such as question
 - and select and divide three VCCV words into their syllables, such as in-de-pen-dence.
- After students have annotated the passage, have them complete the comprehension questions independently. If they do not complete the activity page in class, instruct them to work on it at home.
- If time allows, review student responses and engage students in a discussion when the opportunity arises. Encourage students to build on each other's responses with the following sentence starters:
 - I agree with _____ because. . .
 - I have an additional perspective about. . .
 - That is a great point because. . .
 - Another example is. . .

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 4 Discussion Questions Observation Record that you prepared in Lesson 1. Remember to ask each student to respond to at least one discussion question over the course of the week. Make notes regarding each student's ability to answer literal, inferential, and evaluative questions and to respond using complete sentences.
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: pediatrician, Dalmatian dog, stethoscope, barometer, thermometer, and spectacles.

Lesson 6: Review: Words with /shən/ > 'tian', 'cian', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with /shən/ > 'tian', 'cian'.✚ TEKS 3.2.A.ii*REVIEW WORDS WITH /SHƏN/ > 'TIAN', 'CIAN' (3 MIN.)

- Say, "Today we will review another way to combine the /sh/ sound with the schwa sound."
- Say /shən/, and have students repeat.
- Remind students that any vowel can make the /ə/ sound in an unstressed syllable and that /sh/ can be made by several spellings, such as 'sh', 'ss', 's', and 'ch'. The sound is also part of the sound-spellings 'tion' and 'sion'.
- Say Martian, emphasizing /shən/ in the final syllable. Have students repeat.
- If needed, explain that Martian is an adjective used to describe a feature of the planet Mars; for example, the Martian atmosphere.
- Write Martian on the board, and underline the spelling 'tian'.
- Say magician, emphasizing /shən/ in the final syllable. Have students repeat.
- Write magician on the board, and underline the spelling 'cian'.
- Leave the words Martian and magician on the board to use in the next activity.

Lesson 6: Review: Words with /shən/ > 'tian', 'cian', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus✚ Students will identify and read words with /shən/ > 'tian', 'cian'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the V/CV and VC/V patterns.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.v

✚ TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts;

TEKS 3.2.B.v Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

Foundational SkillsFoundational Literacy Skills

Make sure students feel the same articulation when they say words that end 'tian' and 'cian'. Have them repeat the words Martian and magician again, paying special attention to how their mouths feel as they say the end sound of each word. Talk about what their mouths are doing and how it feels. Have students look in a mirror to see that their mouth looks the same as they say the word endings, even though the word endings have different spellings. Students can also look at each other's mouths as they say the sounds. Talk about why their mouths make the same motion when saying each word ending with a different spelling.

ELPS 2.A; ELPS 2.B;ELPS 2.C; ELPS 3.A

Support

Define any unfamiliar words from the lesson and activity page for students. For example, Grecian is an adjective used to describe anything related to the country Greece. Egyptian can be both a noun, meaning a person from Egypt, or an adjective used to describe anything related to that country. Dalmatian is a breed of dog from the Dalmatia region of the country of Croatia.

Martian, Grecian, Egyptian, and Dalmatian are capitalized because they describe things related to a specific planet, country, or region.

Challenge

Write the words beautician and technician on the board, and provide definitions. Challenge students to use each in a sentence.

Activity Page 6.1

READ WORDS WITH /SHƏN/ > 'TIAN', 'CIAN' (3 MIN.)

- Say, “Both Martian and magician end with /shən/.”
- Point to the underlined word endings. Say, “‘tian’ and ‘cian’ are tricky spellings that are pronounced /shən/.”
- Point to Martian and say the word again.
- Say, “In this word, the spelling ‘tian’ makes the sounds /shən/.”
- Write the words Egyptian and Dalmatian on the board, and underline the ‘tian’ endings.
- Use a slash to mark each syllable in the words.
- Point to each word as you read it aloud: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word. Have students read each word aloud with you.
- Point to magician and say the word again.
- Say, “In this word, the spelling ‘cian’ makes the sounds /shən/.”
- Write the words Grecian and musician on the board, and underline the ‘cian’ endings.
- Use a slash to mark each syllable in the words.
- Point to each word as you read it aloud: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word. Have students read each word aloud with you.
- Direct students to Activity Page 6.1 and review the instructions.
- Have students read the words individually. Then read the words as a class, ensuring that students have correctly divided the words and identified syllables containing the /shən/ sound.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH V/CV AND VC/V PATTERNS (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that vowels can make long and short vowel sounds.
- Review the short vowel sounds /a/, /e/, /i/, /o/, and /u/. Then review the long vowel sounds /ae/, /ee/, /ie/, /oe/, and /ue/.

Support

Explain to students that in both the VC/V pattern and the V/CV pattern, V stands for vowel and C stands for consonant.

- Write silent on the board.
- Say, “We know that every syllable has a vowel sound. Let’s find and circle the vowels and underline the consonants. We’ve learned how to divide words that have the CV/VC pattern. I don’t see this pattern here; I see a different pattern. I see the VCV, or vowel + consonant + vowel, pattern.”
- Write VCV under the word.
- Say, “I need to figure out whether to divide this word after or before the consonant ‘l.’”
- Say, “Let me try to divide the word after the consonant.” Put a slash after the ‘l’ to divide the word into the syllables: sil•ent.
- Say, “Both the first and second syllables are closed, so the vowel sound is short.” As you read the word silent, pronounce the first syllable with the /i/ sound: /sil/ /ent/.
- Say, “That does not sound right to me. Let me try to divide the word before the consonant.” Put a slash before the ‘l’ to divide the word into the syllables: si•lent.
- Say, “Now, the first syllable is open, so the vowel sound is long.” As you read the word silent, pronounce the first syllable with the /ie/ sound: /sie/ /lent/.
- Say, “That sounds much better. /sie/ /lent/: silent! This is the V/CV pattern.”
- Write camel on the board.
- Say, “Remember, every syllable has a vowel sound. Let’s find and circle the vowels and underline the consonants.”
- Write VCV under the word.
- Say, “We see the VCV, or vowel + consonant + vowel, pattern. We want to know whether we should divide this word after or before the consonant ‘m.’”
- Say, “Let’s try to divide the word after the consonant.” Put a slash after the ‘m’ to divide the word into the syllables: cam•el.
- Say, “Both the first and second syllables are closed, so the vowel sound is short.” Let’s read each syllable together, and then read the whole word. Read the word camel with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then as a whole word. /cam/ /el/: camel. This is the VC/V pattern.”

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Write and read aloud the word flavor. Ask students to give a thumbs-up if they agree or a thumbs-down if they disagree that the word flavor should be broken into syllables after the long /ae/ sound, making a V/CV pattern. (thumbs-up)

Lesson 6: Review: Words with /shən/ > 'tian', 'cian', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use the suffix -scope and the root words spect and meter/metr. TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND AFFIXES: -SCOPE, SPECT, METER/METR (6 MIN.)

- Write microscope on the board.
- Say, "The word microscope has two parts: micro- and -scope."
- Remind students that a prefix is a word part that is added to the beginning of a word to change its meaning and that a suffix is a word part added to the end of a word to change its meaning.
- Say, "We already reviewed that the prefix micro- means 'small.' Today, we will look at the suffix that comes at the end of microscope, -scope."
- Explain that the suffix -scope means "an instrument to observe."
- Say, "Let's put these word parts together. If micro- means 'small' and -scope means 'an instrument to observe,' then microscope means 'an instrument to observe small things.' Micro- refers to what the instrument does (observes small things) and not what it is (a small instrument)."
- Explain that sometimes words can be made by attaching a prefix directly to a suffix, but often prefixes and suffixes are added to roots. A root is a word part from which other words are created.

TEKS 3.2.A.vi Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B.vii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

- Write spect and meter on the board.
- Tell students that spect and meter are roots. Spect means “to see, watch, or observe.” Meter means “related to measuring.”
- Explain that we add prefixes or suffixes to roots to form words. Note that sometimes the spelling of the root meter changes to metr when adding a suffix, like in the word geometry.
- Write inspector on the board. Circle the root spect, and underline the prefix in- and the suffix -or.
- Say, “The word inspector has three parts: in-, spect, and -or.” Have students repeat each word part.
- Say, “Let’s put these word parts together. The prefix in- means ‘within’ or ‘inside.’ The root spect means ‘to see, watch, or observe.’ The suffix -or means ‘a person who does something.’ So inspector means ‘a person who looks into things.’”
- Write pedometer on the board. Circle the root meter, and underline the prefix ped-
- Say, “The word pedometer has two parts: ped- and meter.” Have students repeat each word part. Note that the leftover ‘o’ does not contribute to the word’s meaning.
- Say, “Let’s put these word parts together. The prefix ped- means ‘foot,’ and the root meter means ‘related to measuring.’ So pedometer means ‘a device for measuring a person’s footsteps.’”
- Direct students to Activity Page 6.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students work in pairs to complete the activity page in class.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Support

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meaning: retrospect, prospect, perimeter. Model for students how to look up words in the dictionary when the root word is not a standalone word in English. For example, you can look up retrospect and point out that the word retro means “back” so knowing that the root spect means “to see” helps you define retrospect as “looking back” or “thinking about the past.”

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Dr. Dalmatian” orally with appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) and will answer questions about key details in the text. TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.4

READ “DR. DALMATIAN” WITH ACCURACY (10 MIN.)

Activity Page 6.3

Support

Before reading “Dr. Dalmatian,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

- Direct students to Activity Page 6.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
 - words: specializes, spectacular, potential/potentially, assured, substantial
 - phrases: “essential role,” “positive perspective,” “spectrum of emotions”
 - domain-specific language: stethoscope, barometer, technician, chest X-ray, charting, symptoms, reactions
- Tell students that an idiom is a kind of expression that has a meaning different from the literal meaning of its words. For example, if you are “in good hands,” it means that you are being well cared for. Prompt students to look for idioms as you read the passage and think about their impact on the story, and provide support for their meanings. (felt under the weather, cut corners, in good hands, called it a day, hit the sack)
- Have students follow along as you read “Dr. Dalmatian.”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read the first three or four paragraphs of the passage again, this time without awareness of phrasing and with a flat, expressionless voice.
- Ask students to explain how your voice was different and to identify which reading was the most enjoyable to listen to.

TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Review questions and ask them in a yes/no format rather than an open-ended format.

Intermediate

Allow students to work with a partner to answer the discussion questions.

Advanced/ Advanced High

Provide minimal support as students work independently to answer the discussion questions.

ELPS 4.G

- Confirm that your reading didn't sound conversational, you didn't use appropriate phrasing of words, and your reading didn't have the right rhythm.
- Say, "To read fluently, we have to read accurately and with expressive voices that sound the way the characters would talk. Listen as I reread the sentence: 'Almost like a magician, Dr. Dalmatian had a spectacular way of making his patients feel better.'"
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., initials, pediatrician, appointment).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read. Encourage them to read with appropriate expression. Explain that they will be practicing reading with appropriate expression throughout the week.

Wrap-Up

Discussion Questions for "Dr. Dalmatian"

1. Why does Dr. Dalmatian have his silly nickname?
 - » He wears a fuzzy white coat with black spots and has three Dalmatian dogs.
2. What does Dr. Dalmatian do with his bone-shaped thermometer?
 - » He uses it to take temperatures.
3. What idea does the author express about Sebastian with the idiom "felt under the weather"?
 - » Sebastian felt sick.
4. What is wrong with Sebastian?
 - » He has a bad cold.
5. Do you think Sebastian's parents still felt worried after they left Dr. Dalmatian's office? Why or why not?
 - » They probably felt less worried because Sebastian only has a cold and because Dr. Dalmatian took good care of him.

Check for Understanding

Think-Pair-Share: Give students time to think about the answers to the discussion questions. Then have students share their responses to the questions with a partner. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their answers. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner's thinking with the group.

Observation: Discussion Questions Observation Record

Call on a different student to answer each question. Note students' performance in the Discussion Questions Observation Record.

Lesson 6: Review: Words with /shən/ > 'tian', 'cian', Part 2 Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /shən/ > 'tian', 'cian'.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vii

SPELL WORDS WITH 'TIAN' AND 'CIAN' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with 'tian' and 'cian' that you say aloud.
- Remind them to use what they know about syllable division patterns as they spell the words.
- Say the word Martian. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants.

- | | | |
|-------------|------------------|-----------------|
| 1. Martian | 4. Egyptian | 7. physician |
| 2. Grecian | 5. mathematician | 8. politician |
| 3. musician | 6. electrician | 9. pediatrician |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- | |
|---|
| 1. The magician put on a show. |
| 2. I have a pet Dalmatian named Millie. |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept Dalmatian spelled with an initial capital or lowercase letter.

You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 6: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 6.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 6.3.
- Have them reread "Dr. Dalmatian."
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 6.1.

- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following words on index cards: exhausted and routine. Create or gather additional Tricky Word cards to include in this review.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word routine and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘ou’ is pronounced /oo/ and the ‘i’ is pronounced /ee/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /r/ for this letter. We say /oo/ for these letters. We say /t/ for this letter. We say /ee/ for this letter. We say /n/ for this letter. We do not say anything for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /r/ /oo/ /t/ /ee/ /n/, routine. Say, “Routine! It’s a word we hear all the time, like when we say ‘This was an important step in Dr. Dalmatian’s routine.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say routine. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.

- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 4 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
  - Have students take turns reading the entire story.
  - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
  - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the story.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: pediatrician, Dalmatian dog, stethoscope, barometer, thermometer, and spectacles.

Lesson 7: Review: Words with /shəl/ &gt; 'tial', 'cial', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with /shəl/ > 'tial', 'cial'.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW /SHƏL/ > 'TIAL', 'CIAL' (3 MIN.)

- Say, “Today we will review another way to combine the /sh/ sound with the schwa sound.”
- Say /sh/ sound and the /ə/ (schwa) sound, and have students repeat.
- Remind students that any vowel can make the /ə/ sound in an unstressed syllable and that /sh/ can be made by several spellings, such as ‘sh’, ‘ss’, ‘s’, and ‘ch’. The sound is also part of the sound-spellings ‘tion’, ‘sion’, ‘tian’, and ‘cian’.
- Say partial, emphasizing the /sh/ and /ə/ in the final syllable. Have students repeat.
- Write partial on the board, and underline the spelling ‘tial’.
- Say social, emphasizing the /sh/ and /ə/ in the final syllable. Have students repeat.
- Write social on the board, and underline the spelling ‘cial’.
- Leave the words partial and social on the board to use in the next activity.

Support

Clarify for students that the /sh/ sound is made by the letters ‘ti’ in partial and by ‘ci’ in social.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Write and read aloud the word partial. Tell students that partial is an adjective that means “only in part or incomplete.” Ask students to give a thumbs-up if they agree or a thumbs-down if they disagree that the word partial ends in the same sound as the words martial and social. (thumbs-up)

TEKS 3.2.A.ii Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Have students compare and contrast their articulation when they say words that end in 'tial' and 'tian'. Ask them to say the words Martian and magician, focusing on how their mouths feel as they say the end of each word. Talk about what is the same (the /sh/ and /ə/ sounds) and what is different (the final consonant sound).

Have students look in a mirror to see how the movements they make with their mouths while saying each word are similar and different. Students can also look at each other's mouths as they say the words. Talk about why their mouths make these motions when saying each word ending with a different spelling.

Lesson 7: Review: Words with /shəl/ > 'tial', 'cial', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will identify and read words with /shəl/ > 'tial', 'cial'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the V/CV and VC/V patterns.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.v

READ WORDS WITH /SHƏL/ > 'TIAL', 'CIAL' (3 MIN.)

- Say, "We have reviewed several tricky spellings that can make the /shən/ sounds."
- Write the words nation, mission, Martian, and magician on the board and underline the /shən/ endings: 'tion', 'sion', 'tian', and 'cian'. Read each word aloud with students.
- Explain that 'tial' and 'cial' are other tricky spellings that can also make the /shə/ sounds, but followed by /l/ instead of by /n/.
- Point to partial. Say, "In this word, the spelling 'tial' makes the sounds /shəl/."
- Use a slash to mark each syllable in the word.
- Read the word aloud: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word. Have students read the word aloud with you.
- Write the words initial and essential on the board, and underline the 'tial' endings.
- Use a slash to mark each syllable in the words.
- Point to each word as you read it aloud: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word. Have students read each word aloud with you.
- Point to social. Say, "In this word, the spelling 'cial' makes the sounds /shəl/."
- Use a slash to mark each syllable in the word.
- Read the word aloud: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word. Have students read each word aloud with you.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.2.B.v Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

- Write the words special and official on the board, and underline the 'tial' endings.
- Use a slash to mark each syllable in the words.
- Point to each word as you read it aloud: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word. Have students read each word aloud with you.

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH V/CV AND VC/V PATTERNS (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they can look for patterns to divide words into syllables as they read and spell words.
- Write V/CV and VC/V on the board.
- Point to V/CV. Say, "When we divide before the consonant, the first syllable is open and the vowel has a long sound. This is a V/CV pattern."
- Point to VC/V. Say, "When we divide after the consonant, the first syllable is closed and the vowel has a short sound. This is a VC/V pattern."
- Direct students to Activity Page 7.1 and review the instructions.
- Model the first word for students. Write the word legal on the board.
- Say, "I need to figure out whether to divide this word after or before the consonant 'g'."
- Say, "Let me try to divide the word after the consonant." Put a slash after the 'g' to divide the word into the syllables: leg•al.
- Say, "Both the first and second syllables are closed, so the vowel sound is short." As you read the word legal, pronounce the first syllable with the /e/ sound: /leg/ /al/.
- Say, "That does not sound right to me. Let me try to divide the word before the consonant." Put a slash before the 'g' to divide the word into the syllables: le•gal.
- Say, "Now, the first syllable is open, so the vowel sound is long." As you read the word legal, pronounce the first syllable with the /ee/ sound: /lee/ /gal/.
- Say, "That sounds much better, but still sounds a bit off. Remember that in unstressed syllables, the vowel can change to the schwa sound. Let me try to read the word again with the schwa. /lee/ /gəl/: legal! Legal follows the V/CV pattern, so we will color this box red."
- Instruct students to color the box red.

Activity Page 7.1

Support

Review how to differentiate short vowel sounds /a/, /e/, /i/, /o/, and /u/ from long vowel sounds /ae/, /ee/, /ie/, /oe/, and /ue/.

- Complete the activity page as a class. Have student volunteers first identify how to divide each word into syllables and read each word aloud to check and identify which pattern each word follows. Offer corrections as needed.

Lesson 7: Review: Words with /shəl/ > 'tial', 'cial' Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use the suffix -scope and the root words spect and meter/metr. TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND AFFIXES: -SCOPE, SPECT, METER/METR (6 MIN.)

Support

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meaning: stethos (“chest”); retro (“past, behind, back”); and therm (“heat”).

Challenge

Write the word altimeter. Tell students that this word has two word parts: alti- and meter. Explain that the prefix alti- means “high.” Have students use this information along with their knowledge of the root meter to determine what an altimeter measures (how high something is) and what kind of vehicle might have one (aircraft, spacecraft, etc.).

- Write the word parts -scope, spect, and meter/metr on board.
- Tell students that spect and meter/metr are word roots and -scope is a suffix.
- Remind students that a root is a word part from which other words are created, and a suffix is a word part added to the end of a root to change its meaning or part of speech.
- Write the word stethoscope on the board, and have a volunteer read it aloud. Offer corrections in pronunciation as needed.
- Ask, “Which word part do you recognize in the word stethoscope?” (-scope)
- Say, “The suffix -scope means ‘an instrument to observe.’ A stethoscope is an instrument doctors use to observe heartbeats or other sounds in the body.”
- Write the word retrospect on the board, and have a volunteer read it aloud. Offer corrections in pronunciation as needed.
- Ask, “Which word part do you recognize in the word retrospect?” (spect)
- Say, “The root spect means ‘to see, watch, or observe.’ Retrospect means ‘a look back on past events.’”

TEKS 3.2.A.vi Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B.vii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

- Write the word metronome on the board, and have a volunteer read it aloud. Offer corrections in pronunciation as needed.
- Ask, “Which word part do you recognize in the word metronome?” (metr)
- Point out that the root meter is spelled metr in this word.
- Say, “The root meter/metr means ‘related to measuring.’ A metronome is a device that clicks on a regular beat to help musicians keep time while playing or singing.”
- Direct students to Activity Page 7.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner’s response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 7: Review: Words with /shəl/ &gt; 'tial', 'cial', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will reread “Dr. Dalmatian” fluently with a partner.

TEKS 3.1.D; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.4

REREAD “DR. DALMATIAN” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s text with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the text.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 6.3. Tell students that today they will reread “Dr. Dalmatian” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “Dr. Dalmatian.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Remind students that an idiom is a kind of expression that has a meaning different from the literal meaning of its words.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.

TEKS 3.1.D Work collaboratively with others by following agreed-upon rules, norms, and protocols; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Activity Page 6.3

ENGLISH
LANGUAGE
LEARNERS

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Work with student pairs to identify a few two-syllable words with a VC/V pattern.

Intermediate

Have students share their annotations with another student.

Advanced/
Advanced High

Encourage students to read aloud the words they annotate to a partner.

ELPS 4.A

- After students read the passage, have them work together to
  - underline words with /shəl/ > 'tial', 'cial';
  - circle words with -scope, spect, meter/metr;
  - highlight words with -tian and -cian; and
  - write one idiom and its meaning.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Observation: "Dr. Dalmatian" Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read "Dr. Dalmatian," make notes about the student's reading, such as errors in fluency or prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 7: Review: Words with /shəl/ > 'tial', 'cial', Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /shəl/ > 'tial', 'cial'.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vii

SPELL WORDS WITH 'TIAL', 'CIAL' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with 'tial' and 'cial' that you say aloud.
- Remind them to use what they know about syllable division patterns as they spell the words.
- Say the word initial. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants.

Support

The double letters in essential and official may prove particularly difficult for students to spell. Prioritize the correct spelling of 'tial' and 'cial' in these words and help students to correct mistakes in their spellings of the rest of the word.

- Repeat with the remaining words.

- |            |               |              |
|------------|---------------|--------------|
| 1. initial | 4. potential  | 7. essential |
| 2. partial | 5. beneficial | 8. official  |
| 3. facial  | 6. artificial | 9. special   |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- |                               |
|-------------------------------|
| 1. Dogs are social animals.   |
| 2. That commercial was funny. |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

End Lesson

Lesson 7: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 7.1 for each student.
- Review the directions. Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to complete the activity.
- When students are finished writing, ask pairs to share their responses with a partner and check each other's work.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Dr. Dalmatian” on Activity Page TR 6.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say routine and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, rrrooteen. Write the letters to spell routine on the board.
- Point to the word routine and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /oo/ sound is spelled ‘ou’ and the /ee/ sound is spelled ‘i.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “We say /r/ for this letter. We say /oo/ for these letters. We say /t/ for this letter. We say /ee/ for this letter. We say /n/ for this letter. We do not say anything for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /r/ /oo/ /t/ /ee/ /n/, routine. Say, “Routine! It’s a word we use all the time.”

- Repeat with the word exhausted and any additional words you reviewed. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.
- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.
- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

Write the following chart on the board to use during the Warm-Up.

| Sound-Spelling | /ə/ Example       |
|----------------|-------------------|
| 'a'            | ab o t     |
| 'e'            | bel o ng   |
| 'i'            | bas i      |
| 'o'            | reas o n   |
| 'el'           | bag e l    |
| 'al'           | pet a l    |
| 'le'           | puzz l e   |
| 'il'           | penc i l   |
| 'ul'           | mind fu l  |
| 'tion'         | nati o n   |
| 'sion'         | missi o n  |
| 'cian'         | musici a n |
| 'tian'         | Marti a n  |
| 'tial'         | parti a l  |
| 'cial'         | speci a l  |

- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the word in the Reading activity: bacteria (several kinds) and antibodies.

Lesson 8: Review: Words with /ə/ &gt; 'o_e', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with /ə/ > 'o_e'.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW WORDS WITH /ə/ > 'O_E' (3 MIN.)

- Say, "We have already reviewed many sound-spellings with the schwa sound."
- Display the chart below that you created in Advance Preparation. Review the sound-spellings with /ə/ that students have already learned by pointing out each sound-spelling and example word, reading the words aloud, and having students repeat the words after you.

| Sound-Spelling | /ə/ Example       |
|----------------|-------------------|
| 'a'            | ab o t     |
| 'e'            | bel o ng   |
| 'i'            | bas i l    |

- Say, "Today we will review another sound-spelling with schwa."
- Say love, emphasizing the /ə/ sound in the middle of the word. Have students repeat.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

- Write love on the board, and underline the spelling 'o_e'.
- Leave the word love on the board to use in the next activity.

Check for Understanding

Turn and Talk: Assign partners. Have one partner say and write a word other than love with the /ə/ sound. Have the other partner identify and circle the sound-spelling within the word that makes the /ə/ sound. Students should then reverse roles. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Ask students to share the words and sound-spellings with the class.

Lesson 8: Review: Words with /ə/ > 'o_e', Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

- Students will identify and read words with /ə/ > 'o_e'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii
- Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the V/CV and VC/V patterns.
- TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.v

READ WORDS WITH /ə/ > 'O_E' (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that any vowel can make the /ə/ sound in an unstressed syllable.
- Explain that 'o_e' can also make the /ə/ sound.
- Point to love and say the word again.
- Say, "This word is pronounced /l/ /ə/ /v/ because the spelling 'o_e' makes the /ə/ sound."
- Say, "We're already learned that the spelling 'o_e' can also make the /oe/ sound. When we see words with the 'o_e' spelling, we can say them aloud to figure out which sound the spelling makes."

- TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts;
- TEKS 3.2.B.v Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

Challenge

Write the word dove. First ask students to say the word with the /ə/ sound for the 'o_e' spelling. Then have them say the word again using the /oe/ sound for the 'o_e' spelling. Ask, "Which is the correct way to say this word: with the schwa sound or with the /oe/ sound? Or are both correct?" (both) Explain that dove has multiple meanings and pronunciations. Challenge students to define both meanings. (a kind of bird, the past tense of dive)

---

Support

---

Clarify that the 'o_e' spelling can make the /ə/ sound anywhere within a word, not just at the end.

Provide students with the following examples: money, oven, and shovel.

- Write the word cone on the board. First say the word with the /ə/ sound and then say it again with the /oe/ sound.
- Say, "Which is the correct way to say this word: with the /ə/ sound or with the /oe/ sound?" (the /oe/ sound) Read the word aloud with students.
- Write done on the board. First say the word with the /ə/ sound and then say it again with the /oe/ sound.
- Say, "Which is the correct way to say this word: with the /ə/ sound or with the /oe/ sound?" (the /ə/ sound) Read the word aloud with students.
- Direct students to Activity Page 8.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH V/CV AND VC/V PATTERNS (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they can look for patterns to divide words into syllables as they read and spell words.
- Write V/CV and VC/V on the board.
- Point to V/CV. Say, "When we divide before the consonant, the first syllable is open and the vowel has a long sound. This is a V/CV pattern."
- Point to VC/V. Say, "When we divide after the consonant, the first syllable is closed and the vowel has a short sound. This is a VC/V pattern."
- Write the words magic, novel, open, clover, and frozen on the board.
- Ask student volunteers use a slash to divide the words and read them aloud. (mag•ic, nov•el, o•pen, clo•ver, fro•zen). Remind students that they may have to adjust the vowel sound to the schwa in unstressed syllables.

Lesson 8: Review: Words with /ə/ > 'o_e', Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes semi- and anti-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND PREFIXES: SEMI-, ANTI- (6 MIN.)

- Write semi- and anti- on the board, and read them aloud.
- Explain that semi- and anti- are prefixes. They can be added to the beginning of a word to change or add to its meaning.
- Point to semi-. Explain that the 'i' in semi- has a long 'e' sound. Tell students that semi- means "half, or partly." Write the definition on the board next to the prefix. Have students repeat the prefix and its definition.
- Point to anti-. Explain that the 'i' in anti- has a short 'i' sound before a consonant but a long 'e' sound before a vowel. Tell students that anti- means "against; opposite." Write the definition on the board next to the prefix. Have students repeat the definition of the prefix and both of its possible pronunciations.
- Divide students into four groups. Assign one of the following words to each group: semifinal, semisweet, antilock, and antitheft.
- Have groups discuss what their word might mean. Then ask them to share their ideas with the class. Confirm or correct each meaning.
- Direct students to Activity Page 8.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner's response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Support

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meaning: formal ("relating to or following a rule or custom").

Language

Learning How English Works

Beginning

Review the meaning of the prefix semi- with a demonstration. Draw a colon and a semicolon on the board. Say, "A semicolon is a punctuation mark that has the same top half as a colon."

Intermediate

Ask students to act out a word with the prefix semi- or the prefix anti-. For example, a student may ask classmates to stand together in a semicircle at the front of the room.

Advanced/ Advanced High

Have students say a sentence using a word with prefix semi- or the prefix anti-.

Activity Page 8.2

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Lesson 8: Review: Words with /ə/ &gt; 'o_e', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Bacteria Fighters!” fluently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.4

READ “BACTERIA FIGHTERS!” (10 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 8.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: semiannual, beneficial, semi-effective, prescribe, hygiene
  - phrases: “gut bacteria,” “natural defenses,” “unwelcome guests”
  - domain-specific language: bacteria, digestion, bacterial infections, strep throat, antidotes
- Remind students that an idiom is a kind of expression that has a meaning different from the literal meaning of its words. For example, “The homework is a piece of cake” means “The homework is easy.” Prompt students to look for idioms as you read the passage and think about their impact on the text, and provide support for their meanings. (out of sorts, at bay, once in a blue moon, struck gold, stay fit as fiddles)
- Have students follow along as you read “Bacteria Fighters!”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., organisms, antibodies, and frequent).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read or have students read it independently.

TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Activity Pages 8.3, 8.4

Support

Remind students to scan or reread the passage to look for key details as they complete the comprehension questions.

Before reading “Bacteria Fighters!” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

- Then have them turn to Activity Page 8.4 and complete the comprehension questions. If they don't complete the activity page, instruct them to work on it at home.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Have a strong reader work with a struggling reader to complete the comprehension questions.

Intermediate

Have a small group read the first paragraph together, taking turns, and work together to complete the comprehension questions.

Advanced/ Advanced High

Have students read independently and then work with a partner to share their responses to the comprehension questions.

ELPS 4.1

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students are working, asking them to explain their responses to the comprehension questions.

Lesson 8: Review: Words with /ə/ > 'o_e', Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /ə/ > 'o_e'.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v

SPELL WORDS WITH /ə/ > 'O_E' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with /ə/ > 'o_e' that you say aloud.
- Remind them to use what they know about syllable division patterns as they spell the words.
- Say the word none. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

|          |          |          |
|----------|----------|----------|
| 1. none  | 4. cover | 7. money |
| 2. love  | 5. glove | 8. above |
| 3. dozen | 6. done  | 9. shove |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

1. This honey was made by local bees.
2. Beth used a shovel to plant foxglove flowers in her garden.

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 8: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 8.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 8.3.
- Have them reread “Bacteria Fighters!”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 8.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following word on an index card: hygiene. Create or gather cards for additional Tricky Words to review in this lesson.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word hygiene and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘y’ is pronounced /ie/ and the ‘ie’ is pronounced /ee/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /h/ for this letter. We say /ie/ for this letter. We say /j/ for this letter. We say /ee/ for these letters. We say /n/ for this letter. We do not say anything for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /h/ /ie/ /j/ /ee/ /n/, hygiene. Say, “Hygiene! It’s a word we hear all the time, like when we say ‘Good hygiene habits include frequent hand washing.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say hygiene. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.

- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Morphology

- Prepare the following chart in advance.

| Root   | Definition                                                                                                                          | New Word |

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 4 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
  - Have students take turns reading the entire text.
  - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
  - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the text.
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: bacteria (several kinds) and antibodies.

Lesson 9: Review: Words with /oo/ &gt; 'o_e', Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend words with /oo/ > 'o_e'.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW WORDS WITH /OO/ > 'O_E' (3 MIN.)

- Say, "We already reviewed one way to make the /oo/ sound."
- Write moon on the board, and read it aloud.
- Say, "In words like moon, the /oo/ sound is made by the spelling 'oo'. Today we will review another spelling that can make the /oo/ sound."
- Say move, emphasizing the /oo/ sound in the middle of the word.
- Write move on the board, and underline the spelling 'o_e'.
- Leave the word move on the board to use in the next activity.

Lesson 9: Review: Words with /oo/ &gt; 'o_e' Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

✚ Students will identify and read words with /oo/ > 'o_e'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will construct and read multisyllabic words with the V/CV and VC/V

✚ patterns. TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.v

READ WORDS WITH /OO/ > 'O_E' (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they have already reviewed the /oo/ sound.
- Say, "Sometimes the spelling 'oo' makes the /oo/ sound."
- Write the words moon and soon on the board. Have students read them aloud.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.2.B.v Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

Support

Provide additional practice to reinforce that the spelling of words that end with 'o_e' can change when adding a suffix. Write the words remove and prove. Read each aloud and have students repeat. Then work with students to form the words removal and proven.

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

To provide students an additional opportunity to practice distinguishing /oo/ from /ə/ and /oe/, write and read aloud the following words: remove, above, bone, come, disprove, and vote. Have students identify which words have the /oo/ sound (remove, disprove), which have the /ə/ sound (above, come), and which have the /oe/ sound (bone, vote).

ELPS 2.A; ELPS 2.B

- Remind students that they have already reviewed the spelling 'o_e'.
- Say, "Sometimes the spelling 'o_e' makes the /oe/ sound."
- Write the words cove and stove on the board. Underline the 'o_e' spellings in each word.
- Point to each word, read it aloud, and have students read it aloud.
- Say, "The spelling 'o_e' can also make the /ə/ sound."
- Write the words shove and love on the board. Underline the 'o_e' spellings in each word.
- Point to each word, read it aloud, and have students read it aloud.
- Say, "The spelling 'o_e' can also make the /oo/ sound."
- Point to move from the Warm-Up and say the word again.
- Say, "This word is pronounced /m/ /oo/ /v/ because the spelling 'o_e' makes the /oo/ sound."
- Write the words remove, approve, and improvement on the board. Underline the 'o_e' spellings in each word.
- Point to each word, read it aloud, and have students read it aloud.
- Point out that the word improvement is made from the root improve and the suffix -ment.
- Explain that when adding a suffix to a word that ends in 'o_e', the final 'e' is sometimes removed before adding the suffix.
- Point to approve again. Model how to remove the final 'e' and add the suffix -al to make approval.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Write and read aloud the word prove. Ask students to give a thumbs-up if they agree or a thumbs-down if they disagree that the word prove has the /oo/ sound. (thumbs-up)

CONSTRUCT AND READ WORDS WITH V/CV AND VC/V PATTERNS (3 MIN.)

Activity Page 9.1

Challenge

Challenge partners or small groups to use as many words from the activity page as they can to create a paragraph or short story.

- Direct students to Activity Page 9.1 and review the instructions.
- Explain that you will be creating words with a V/CV pattern in Part 1 of the activity page. Remind students that when with the V/CV pattern, we divide before the consonant. The first syllable is open and the vowel has a long sound.
- Model how to complete the first item in Part 1. Read the first syllable hu- aloud. Explain to students that you are going to construct words by adding ending syllables from the word bank.
- Ask, “Which ending created a real word? Which word did it create? (man, human) Read the completed word.
- Complete the rest of Part 1 of the activity page as a class.
- Explain that you will be creating words with a VC/V pattern in Part 2 of the activity page. Remind students that when with the VC/V pattern, we divide after the consonant. The first syllable is closed and the vowel has a short sound.
- Model how to complete the first item of Part 2. Read the first syllable lin- aloud. Explain to students that you are going to construct words by adding ending syllables from the word bank.
- Ask, “Which ending created a real word? Which word did it create? (-en, linen) Read the completed word.
- Complete the rest of Part 2 of the activity page as a class.

Lesson 9: Review: Words with /oo/ > ‘o_e’, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the prefixes semi- and anti-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

ROOT WORDS AND PREFIXES: SEMI-, ANTI- (6 MIN.)

- Write semi- and anti- on the board.
- Explain that semi- and anti- are prefixes. They can be added to the beginning of a word to change or add to its meaning.
- Remind students that semi- means “half, or partly” and anti- means “against, or opposite.”
- Display the following chart you prepared in advance. Discuss the roots and definitions with students. You will fill in the new word column with students:

| Root   | Definition                                                                                                                          | New Word              |
|--------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------|
| annual | happening twice a year                                                                                                              | ( semiannual ) |
| social | against being with other people                                                                                                     | ( antisocial ) |
| rural  | somewhat far from a city                                                                                                            | ( semirural )  |
| virus  | used to protect against becoming infected with an illness; or used to protect a computer from a code that will disrupt its function | ( antivirus )  |

- Explain that you are going to read each root and definition aloud. Students will decide which prefix, semi- or anti-, should be added to the root to make a word that matches the definition.
- Read annual aloud. Tell students that annual means “once a year.”
- Read the definition “happening twice a year” aloud. Ask, “Which prefix should we add to annual to create a word that means ‘happening twice a year’?” (semi-)
- Write the word semiannual next to the definition on the board. Read the word aloud, and then have students read the word aloud.
- Repeat with the remaining roots and definitions, providing definitions of the roots as needed.
- Direct students to Activity Page 9.2, review the instructions, and complete the first item as a class.
- Have students pick one root from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how adding a new affix would change the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner’s response.

Support

Remind students that the ‘i’ in anti- is pronounced with a short ‘i’ sound when it appears before a consonant, and it has a long ‘e’ sound before a vowel.

Activity Page 9.2

- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 9: Review: Words with /oo/ &gt; 'o_e', Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will reread “Bacteria Fighters!” fluently with a partner.

TEKS 3.1.D; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.4

REREAD “BACTERIA FIGHTERS!” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s text with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the text.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 8.3. Tell students that today they will reread “Bacteria Fighters!” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “Bacteria Fighters.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Remind students that an idiom is a kind of expression that has a meaning different from the literal meaning of its words.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.
- Tell students that after they finish reading, they should work together to
  - underline words with /oo/ > 'o_e'.

TEKS 3.1.D Work collaboratively with others by following agreed-upon rules, norms, and protocols; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Support

Have students first look for words with the prefix semi-, and then have them look for words with the prefix anti-.

Activity Page 8.3

ENGLISH
LANGUAGE
LEARNERS

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Work with student pairs to identify a few words with /oo/ > 'ove'.

Intermediate

Have students share their annotations with another student.

Advanced/ Advanced High

Encourage students to read aloud the words they annotate to a partner.

ELPS 4.A

- circle words with the prefixes semi- or anti-,
  - highlight multisyllabic words with V/CV patterns, and
  - write one idiom and its meaning.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
  - Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Note: As you go over student responses, check for students who circled words with /ə/ > 'o_e' and /oe/ > 'o_e'. Have them reread the word to ensure correct pronunciation, and point out that even though those words may have 'o_e' spelling, they do not make the /oo/ sound.

Check for Understanding

Think-Pair-Share: Give students one minute to look at their annotations and think about some of their choices. Have pairs of partners explain their annotations to each other. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share some of their annotations with the group.

Observation: “Bacteria Fighters!” Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read “Bacteria Fighters!” make notes about the student's reading, such as errors in fluency or prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 9: Review: Words with /oo/ > 'o_e', Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words with /oo/ > 'o_e'.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

SPELL WORDS WITH /OO/ > 'O_E' (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with /oo/ > 'o_e' that you say aloud.
- Remind them to use what they know about syllable division patterns as they spell the words.
- Say the word move. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- |            |               |                |
|------------|---------------|----------------|
| 1. move    | 4. disprove   | 7. removal     |
| 2. prove   | 5. proven     | 8. approval    |
| 3. approve | 6. disapprove | 9. improvement |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- |                                      |
|--------------------------------------|
| 1. Please remove your shoes.         |
| 2. I want to improve my math skills. |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 9: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 9.1 for each student.
- Review the directions. Answer any questions that students have, and then ask students to complete the activity. Assist students as needed to ensure they can recognize each word.
- When students are finished, ask pairs to share and check each other's work.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Bacteria Fighters” on Activity Page TR 8.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say hygiene and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, hiejeen. Write the letters to spell hygiene on the board.
- Point to the word hygiene and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /ie/ sound is spelled ‘y’ and the /ee/ sound is spelled ‘ie.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “We say /h/ for this letter. We say /ie/ for this letter. We say /j/ for this letter. We say /ee/ for this letter. We say /n/ for this letter. We do not say anything for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /h/ /ie/ /j/ /ee/ /n/, hygiene. Say, “Hygiene! It’s a word we use all the time.”
- Repeat with any additional words you reviewed. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.
- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.
- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Warm-Up

- Create a set of three index cards labeled /oo/, /ə/, and /oe/ for each student.

Phonics—Decoding

- Before the lesson, display signs or cards in each corner of the classroom with the following categories:
  - /shən/ > 'tian', 'cian'
  - /shəl/ > 'tial', 'cial'
  - /ə/ > 'o_e'
  - /oo/ > 'o_e'
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: metronome, multimeter, commercial buildings (pair of office buildings), curling iron, files (for fingernails), manicure (woman having her nails done), stethoscope, and protractor.

Lesson 10: Mixed Review, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will review blending words with /ə/ > 'o_e', /oo/ > 'o_e', and /oe/ > 'o_e'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

REVIEW /ə/ > 'O_E', /OO/ 'O_E', AND /OE/ > 'O_E' (3 MIN.)

- Distribute the sets of index cards you prepared in advance to each student. Explain that you will say a series of words, and students will raise the appropriate card when they hear the sound that the spelling 'o_e' makes.
- Say move, emphasizing the /oo/ sound at the end of the word.
- Tell students to raise the index card that matches the sound the 'o_e' spelling in move makes: /oo/, /ə/, or /oe/. (/oo/)
- Repeat with the following words: love (/ə/), home (/oe/), above (/ə/), bone (/oe/), shove (/ə/), improve (/oo/).

Lesson 10: Mixed Review, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will review reading words with /shən/ > 'tian', 'cian'; /shəl/ > 'tial', 'cial'; /ə/ > 'o_e'; and /oo/ > 'o_e'. TEKS 3.2.A.ii

Students will review dividing and reading multisyllabic words with the VC/V and V/CV patterns. TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.v

READ WORDS WITH /SHƏN/ > 'TIAN', 'CIAN'; /SHƏL/ > 'TIAL', 'CIAL'; /Ə/ > 'O_E'; AND /OO/ > 'O_E' (3 MIN.)

- Direct students' attention to the signs or cards in the corners of the classroom that you prepared in advance. Remind students that these are the sounds and spellings we have been reviewing this week. Read each card or sign as you point to each one.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.2.B.v Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

Foundational Literacy Skills

When you distribute the sound index cards to students, also provide an oral and written example word for each, such as prove: /oo/, glove: /ə/, and cove: /oe/. Encourage students to use the example words as a reference as they identify sounds during the Warm-Up activity.

ELPS 2.A; ELPS 2.B;

ELPS 2.E

Challenge

Extend the activity by challenging student volunteers to suggest additional words for their classmates to identify.

Support

Review the rules for using long and short vowel sounds to divide words into syllables. Words have a V/CV pattern if the first vowel has a long sound and we divide after the following consonant: bro•ken. Words have a VC/V pattern if the first vowel has a short sound and we divide after the following consonant: hab•it.

Activity Page 10.1

- Say, “I am going to write some words. We will read a word together. Then you will walk calmly to the corner of the classroom that matches the word.”
- Write the word social on the board, and read it aloud. Have students read the word aloud.
- Ask, “What sound-spelling do you see in the word social?” (/shəl/ > ‘cial’)
- Have students move to the corner of the classroom labeled /shəl/ > ‘cial’.
- Repeat with the following words: approve, Egyptian, improvement, money, initial, electrician, and govern.

READ WORDS WITH THE VC/V AND V/CV PATTERNS (3 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 10.1 and review the instructions.
- Have student pairs work together to complete the activity page in class.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Check for Understanding

Turn and Talk: Ask pairs to share and compare their completed activity page with another pair. Have them self-correct their work as needed. Tell students to signal when both pairs have shared and compared.

Lesson 10: Mixed Review, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will review identifying the meaning of and using prefixes and root words.

TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (vi) spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

ROOT WORDS AND AFFIXES: –SCOPE, SPECT, METER/METR, SEMI–, ANTI– (6 MIN.)

- Divide students into five groups. Assign each group one of the following roots/affixes: –scope, spect, meter/metr, semi–, and anti–.
- Have each group come up with a written or oral sentence using a word that features their assigned root or affix.
- Ask one member from each group to share their sentence with the class. Record students' sentences on the board, providing corrections as needed. Ensure that the sentence demonstrates an understanding of the meaning of the word. Provide support as needed.
- Direct students to Activity Page 10.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner's response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Support

Before reading “Tools of the Trade,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

Activity Pages
10.3, 10.4

Challenge

Have students use a different color to highlight multisyllabic words with the V/CV pattern.

Part 2

Lesson 10: Mixed Review, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Tools of the Trade” independently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.5

READ “TOOLS OF THE TRADE” INDEPENDENTLY (10 MIN.)

- Tell students they will be reading “Tools of the Trade” independently. Direct students to Activity Page 10.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: residential, precision, accuracy, digital, inspections
  - phrases: “facial treatment,” “arrange their melody into a masterpiece,” “commercial buildings”
  - domain-specific language: metronome, nonconductive gloves, antibiotics, anti-frizz treatment, virtual learning
- Remind students that an idiom is an expression that has a meaning different from the literal meaning of its words. For example, “hold your horses” means “wait” or “slow down.” Prompt students to look for idioms as you read the passage and think about their impact on the text, and provide support for their meanings. (game changers, get the rundown, like a million bucks, a whole heap)
- Read a few lines of the passage, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., electricity, geometry, spectacular).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace.
- Remind students that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.5 Self-select text and read independently for a sustained period of time.

- Tell students that they may read the text either silently or softly to themselves.
- Then have them read the text again and
  - underline words with with /shən/ > 'tian', 'cian' or /shəl/ > 'tial', 'cial';
  - put a box around words with /ə/ > 'o_e' or /oo/ > 'o_e';
  - circle words with the roots and affixes -scope, spect, meter/metr, semi-, anti-;
  - highlight multisyllabic words with the VC/V pattern; and
  - write one idiom and its meaning.
- After students have annotated the passage, have them complete the comprehension questions on Activity Page 10.4 independently. If they don't complete it, instruct them to work on it at home.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Form small groups and have students focus on one annotation at a time. For example, first have them read and underline words with /shən/ > 'tian', 'cian' or /shəl/ > 'tial', 'cial'. For the next reading, have them put a box around words with /ə/ > 'o_e' or /oo/ > 'o_e', and so on.

Intermediate

Have students work with a partner to annotate the text.

Advanced/

Advanced High

Have students work independently to annotate the text and then share their work with a partner.

ELPS 4.A

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students are working, asking them to explain their annotation decisions.

Lesson 10: Mixed Review, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will review spelling and writing words with /ə/ and /oo/.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v

ENCODING REVIEW (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words with prefixes and suffixes and some words with /ə/ and /oo/ that you say aloud.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

- Remind them to use what they know about syllable division patterns as they spell the words.
- Say the word magician. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- |                 |               |                |
|-----------------|---------------|----------------|
| 1. magician     | 4. inspection | 7. thermometer |
| 2. government   | 5. Martian    | 8. disapproval |
| 3. semiofficial | 6. telescope  | 9. antisocial  |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- |                                  |
|----------------------------------|
| 1. We put a cover on the pool.   |
| 2. The musician plays the drums. |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Dictation Journals: Phonics/Encoding Dictation

Collect students' dictation journals to review and monitor student progress.

Lesson 10: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 10.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 10.3.
- Have them reread “Tools of the Trade.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 10.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Then, pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Tools of the Trade” on Activity Page TR 10.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Gather Tricky Word index cards from Lesson 6 and Lesson 8 (exhausted, routine, hygiene) and the additional Tricky Words that you reviewed in the lessons. Write the following new words on an index card: million, iron, crucial and physicians.
- Use the cards with the new words. Say, "Today we will review some more Tricky Words together. You can sound out these words, just like you've been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect."
- Display and point to the word crucial and say, "This word is tricky because the 'u' is pronounced /oo/, and the 'cial' is pronounced /shəl/."
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, "Let's sound out this word. My turn first."
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, "In this word, we blend and say /k/ /r/ for these letters. We say /oo/ for this letter. We say /shəl/ for these letters." Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /c/ /r/ /oo/ /shəl/, crucial. Say, "Crucial! It's a word we use all the time, like when we say 'Electricians use important and crucial safety gear.'"
- Say, "Now it's your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word." Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, "We say crucial. What's the word?" Ask them to sound it out and then read it again. Say, "It is helpful to remember another word that has the /shəl/ sound spelled 'cial.'" Write special on the board, then blend and read the word aloud with students.
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining word(s), mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Add the Tricky Word cards from Lesson 6 and Lesson 8. Say, "Now we're going to practice reading all the new words we learned this week. Let's play a game. We're going to go through this stack of cards as fast as we can, reading the word on each card. Read the words carefully, because these are words that you have to sound out in a special way. Let's see how fast we can go. My turn first."

- Model taking the top card off the stack, showing it to students, and saying the Tricky Word after a pause. Continue through the stack.
- Say, "Do you think you can go faster than I did?"
- Assign students to small groups. As you show each card, have one group of students read through the stack of cards as quickly as they can.
- If a student says the wrong word for a card, model how to sound out the Tricky Word and then say the word. Ask the student to repeat your answer, and move on to the next card in the stack with the same small group until you go through all of the cards.
- Select the next small group, shuffle the stack of cards, and repeat until all groups have had a turn.
- Say, "Okay, now let's go faster." Shuffle the stack of cards and repeat at a faster pace so that each group has had two turns.
- Say, "Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you've been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect."
- Save the index cards to incorporate review of the Tricky Words throughout the unit.

Additional Activities to Review All Tricky Words from This Week

(1) Tricky Words Race

- Create a four-column chart. Fill it out with the Tricky Words you taught this week.
- Divide the class into two groups and have each group line up by the board.
- Explain how the game works. You will call out a Tricky Word. One student from each team will race to find the word on the chart and tap it. The first student to find and tap the word earns a point for the team.
- Repeat until all the words have been found or every student has had a turn.

Note: Consider playing this game in pairs to provide support for students who are still mastering these Tricky Words.

(2) Call, Flip, Read, Roll

- Gather ten index cards for each student.
- Give each student ten index cards, and have them number the cards 1–10.
- Display all Tricky Words that have been taught so far. Have each student pick ten Tricky Words from the list and write one word on the back of each index card. Their set of cards should now have a word to be read on one side and a number on the other side.
- Place students into pairs. Call out a number at random and have each student take turns finding a card with that number on it in their stack. The student then reads the word aloud. If the word is read correctly, the student may then roll a die and whatever number it lands on is the number of points they receive. The student with the most points is the winner.
- Save the index cards to use the next time students play this game. Students can reuse another student’s set of cards.

ENRICHMENT PASSAGE

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 10.2 for each student.
- Tell students they will be reading a short passage with some of the sound spellings and syllable types they have recently learned.
- Direct students to the passage “Father and Son in the White House.” Tell students that they may read the passage either silently or softly to themselves.
- Then have them read the passage again and
  - select and divide two VCCV words into their syllables, such as con-~~ne~~-tion
  - and select and divide two V/CV words into its syllables, such as be-~~ca~~me.
- After students have annotated the passage, have them complete the comprehension questions independently. If they do not complete the activity page in class, instruct them to work on it at home.
- If time allows, review student responses and engage students in a discussion when the opportunity arises. Encourage students to build on each other’s responses with the following sentence starters:
  - I agree with _____ because. . .
  - I have an additional perspective about. . .
  - That is a great point because. . .
  - Another example is. . .

use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful; TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.3.B Use context within and beyond a sentence to determine the meaning of unfamiliar words and multiple-meaning words; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text; TEKS 3.2.B.i Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Morphology

Create the chart below to use during the activity. The chart will be used in Lesson 12 as well.

| Root Word      | Meaning | Example(s) | Sentence(s) |
|----------------|---------|------------|-------------|
| port    |         |            |             |
| mot/mov |         |            |             |

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 4 Discussion Questions Observation Record that you prepared in Lesson 1. Remember to ask each student to respond to at least one discussion question over the course of the week. Make notes regarding each student's ability to answer literal, inferential, and evaluative questions and to respond using complete sentences.
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: flyer (event publicity), platform (stage), formula (math), paper boat, commotion (cheering), and beamed (face).

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Beginning

Remind students that contractions are words that are made by shortening and combining two words. Ask, “Can you think of a contraction in your home language?”

Intermediate

Remind students that contractions are words that are made by shortening and combining two words. Ask, “Can you think of a contraction in your home language? What words does it combine?”

Advanced/

Advanced High

Remind students that contractions are words that are made by shortening and combining two words. Ask, “Can you think of contractions in your home language? What words do they combine? Explain if it is or is not similar to a contraction in English.”

ELPS 1.A; ELPS 2.C

Lesson 11: Review: Contractions with Would and Had, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend contractions with the words would and had. TEKS 3.2.A.iii

REVIEW CONTRACTIONS WITH WOULD AND HAD (3 MIN.)

- Say, “In this lesson, we are going to practice using contractions. Contractions are words that are made by shortening and combining two words. The word he’d is an example of a contraction.”
- Separate the pronoun and the contraction: /hee/ + /d/. Then say them together: he’d. Have students repeat the separated and blended word.
- Say, “He’d is a combination of the words he would or he had.”
- Say, “Instead of saying the sentence, ‘He would go,’ we can use he’d to shorten the sentence to ‘He’d go.’ Instead of saying the sentence, ‘He had gone,’ we can use he’d to shorten the sentence to ‘He’d gone.’”
- Say, “When we read the word he’d, we can use clues in the rest of the sentence to decide whether the contraction replaces he would or he had.”
- Say, “We can make contractions with different pronouns and the verbs would and had.”
- Have students pronounce the following contractions: I’d, you’d, we’d, she’d, they’d, and it’d.

Lesson 11: Review: Contractions with Would and Had, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will read contractions with would and had. TEKS 3.2.A.iii; TEKS 3.2.B.iii

Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the CV/VC pattern.

TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.v

TEKS 3.2.A.iii Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviations; TEKS 3.2.B.iii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling compound words, contractions, and abbreviations; TEKS 3.2.A.iv Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.2.B.v Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

READ CONTRACTIONS WITH WOULD AND HAD (3 MIN.)

- Write the phrases she would and she had on the board.
- Underline would and had. Say, “If we want to make a contraction out of these words, we’ll have to change the spelling. To form a contraction, we add an apostrophe to the pronoun and shorten the words had or would.”
- Model adding an apostrophe to she and crossing out the letters to shorten would: She’~~would~~.
- Model adding an apostrophe to she and crossing out the letters to shorten had: She’~~had~~.
- Say, “She would and she had can become she’d.”
- Write she’d on the board. Have students read the word aloud. Ask a volunteer to use the word in a sentence.
- Repeat the routine with the contractions I’d, you’d, we’d, they’d, and it’d, writing the pronoun and the verbs would and had, writing the contraction, and having students read the contraction aloud.
- Write the following sentences on the board:
  - I’d take the bus to school if I were you.
  - I’d taken the bus to school that day.
- Say, “When I read these sentences, it is not immediately clear whether the contraction shortens would or had. To find out, I can place would and had back into the sentence to see if it makes sense.”
- Read the first sentence. Have students repeat it. Ask, “If the sentence read I had take the bus to school if I were you, would that make sense?” (no)
- Ask, “If the sentence read I would take the bus to school if I were you, would that make sense?” (yes)
- Repeat the routine with the second sentence.

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH THE CV/VC PATTERN (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they can look for patterns to divide syllables.
- Write the word meow on the board. Circle the vowels.

Support

Provide students with tools for recognizing when a contraction is a shortening of would or had. Remind them that would often appears in sentences with the word if. For example: I’d go to the play if I did not have homework. Meanwhile, had often appears next to a verb. For example: I’d walked for a mile before I remembered my backpack.

Activity Page 11.1

- Say, “I am going to try dividing this word after the first vowel, ‘e’, which would make an open syllable. Open syllables often make a long vowel sound. That would mean this word is pronounced /mee/ • /ou/. I recognize that word, so I think I divided it correctly.”
- Write CV/VC under the word. Say, “This word has a CV/VC pattern, so we divide the syllables between the vowels.”
- Demonstrate dividing the syllables with a slash: me•ow. Point out the syllable type (open; vowel combination). Read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Repeat the routine with the following: di•et, li•ar, sci•ence, and po•et•ry.
- Direct students to Activity Page 11.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Check for Understanding

Have students raise one, two, three, or four fingers to indicate the number of syllables in these words: gradual, evaluate, trial, and ruin.

Lesson 11: Review: Contractions with Would and Had, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use the root words port and mot/mov. TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS: PORT, MOT/MOV (6 MIN.)

- Display the chart below that you created in Advance Preparation with the roots port and mot/mov in the first column.

TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

| Root Word      | Meaning | Example(s) | Sentence(s) |
|----------------|---------|------------|-------------|
| port    |         |            |             |
| mot/mov |         |            |             |

- Remind students that a root is a word part from which other words are created.
- Say, “The root port means ‘to carry.’” Write the definition in the second column.

| Root Word      | Meaning  | Example(s) | Sentence(s) |
|----------------|----------|------------|-------------|
| port    | to carry |            |             |
| mot/mov |          |            |             |

- Write the word transport in the third column. Have students read it aloud.

| Root Word      | Meaning  | Example(s) | Sentence(s) |
|----------------|----------|------------|-------------|
| port    | to carry | transport  |             |
| mot/mov |          |            |             |

- Say, “This word has two parts: trans and port.”
- Say, “We have learned that the prefix trans- means ‘across’ or ‘beyond.’ The root port means ‘to carry.’ Therefore, we can tell that the word transport means ‘to carry from one place to another.’”
- Write the following sentence in the fourth column and underline the word transports: The boat transports people from one island to another. Have students read it aloud.

| Root Word      | Meaning  | Example(s) | Sentence(s)                                                   |
|----------------|----------|------------|---------------------------------------------------------------|
| port    | to carry | transport  | The boat transports people from one island to another. |
| mot/mov |          |            |                                                               |

Support

Some words that use these roots are not easily decodable even if students understand the meaning of the root. Examples include emotion, remove, remote, and report. Remind students that a dictionary can help them define unfamiliar words.

- Say, “The roots mot and mov are similar. Both mean ‘to move.’” Write the definition in the second column.

| Root Word      | Meaning  | Example(s) | Sentence(s)                                                   |
|----------------|----------|------------|---------------------------------------------------------------|
| port    | to carry | transport  | The boat transports people from one island to another. |
| mot/mov | to move  |            |                                                               |

- Write the word motor in the third column. Have students read it aloud.

| Root Word      | Meaning  | Example(s) | Sentence(s)                                                   |
|----------------|----------|------------|---------------------------------------------------------------|
| port    | to carry | transport  | The boat transports people from one island to another. |
| mot/mov | to move  | motor      |                                                               |

- Say, “Motor has two parts: mot and -or.”
- Say, “The root mot means ‘to move.’ We have learned that the suffix -or means ‘a person or thing that does something.’ Therefore, we can tell that a motor is something that causes something to move.”
- Write the following sentence in the fourth column and underline the word motor: The car is fast because it has a powerful motor. Have students read it aloud.

| Root Word      | Meaning  | Example(s) | Sentence(s)                                                   |
|----------------|----------|------------|---------------------------------------------------------------|
| port    | to carry | transport  | The boat transports people from one island to another. |
| mot/mov | to move  | motor      | The car is fast because it has a powerful motor .      |

- Write the word movement under the word motor.
- Say, “Movement has two parts: mov and -ment. Notice that in this case the root is spelled with an ‘e.’”
- Say, “The root mov means ‘to move.’ We have learned that the suffix -ment means ‘the action or the state of doing something.’ Therefore, we can tell that movement means ‘the action or state of moving.’”

- Write the following sentence in the fourth column and underline the word movements: Athletes practice running, jumping, and other movements. Have students read it aloud.

| Root Word      | Meaning  | Example(s) | Sentence(s)                                                      |
|----------------|----------|------------|------------------------------------------------------------------|
| port    | to carry | transport  | The boat transports people from one island to another.    |
| mot/mov | to move  | motor      | The car is fast because it has a powerful motor .         |
|                |          | movement   | Athletes practice running, jumping, and other movements . |

- Direct students to Activity Page 11.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the affix changed the meaning of the root word. Then, have students share their partner's response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Activity Page 11.2

Lesson 11: Review: Contractions with Would and Had, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Violet’s Poems” orally with appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) and will answer questions about key details in the text. TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.iii; TEKS 3.3.B; TEKS 3.4

READ “VIOLET’S POEMS” WITH ACCURACY (10 MIN.)

Activity Page 11.3

Support

Before reading “Violet’s Poems,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

- Direct students to Activity Page 11.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: promote, teleport, portable, free-form, genuine
  - phrases: “formula of joy,” “beamed with pride,” “triumphant as a champion”
  - domain-specific language: art form
- Tell students that they can use context clues to find the meanings of unfamiliar words. Model using context clues to determine the meaning of the word flyer in the sentence: “One day a flyer caught Violet’s attention.” Draw their attention to the beginning of the next sentence.
- Point out to students that there is a poem within the story. Remind students that poems often include rhyming words, figurative language, and phrases that help readers visualize events, characters, and feelings.
- Have students follow along as you read “Violet’s Poems.”
- Read the story once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately and at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read the first three or four paragraphs of the passage again, this time without awareness of phrasing and with a flat, expressionless voice. For example, “Violet was a poet. She’d spend hours writing poems in her diary.”
- Ask students to explain how your voice was different and to identify which reading was the most enjoyable to listen to.

TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.2.A.iii Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviations; TEKS 3.3.B Use context within and beyond a sentence to determine the meaning of unfamiliar words and multiple-meaning words; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Ask students yes/no questions using simple phrases to summarize the story: Does Violet write poems? (yes) Does she read her poem only to Noelle? (no)

Intermediate

Provide students with a specific sentence frame for summarizing and use temporal words: Violet reads her poem to an _____. (audience) After reading the poem out loud, Violet feels more _____. (confident)

Advanced/ Advanced High

Encourage students to expand or build on other students' responses.

ELPS 4.G; ELPS 4.I

- Confirm that your reading did not sound conversational, you did not use appropriate phrasing of words, and your reading did not have the right rhythm.
- Say, "To read fluently, we have to read accurately and with expressive voices that sound the way the characters would talk. Listen as I reread the sentence: "Violet was a poet. She'd spend hours writing poems in her diary."
- Read a few lines of the story again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., intimidating, courageous, and commotion) so you read accurately. Point out that rereading unfamiliar words is one way students can monitor their comprehension, or make sure they understand what they read.
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the story once more with the whole class as a choral read.

Wrap-Up

Discussion Questions for "Violet's Poems"

1. Literal. What does Noelle suggest that Violet do?
  - » Noelle suggests that Violet share her poems at a poetry showcase.
2. Literal. What phrase provides a context clue to the meaning of the word showcase?
  - » Possible response: The phrase "read their poems to an audience" provides a context clue.
3. Literal. How does Violet feel when she is on the platform?
  - » Violet feels nervous and wishes she could teleport away.
4. Inferential. What is the message of Violet's poem?
  - » Answers will vary. Sample response: The poem provides the message that creating art makes the world a more exciting place.
5. Literal. How does reading a poem at the showcase change Violet?
  - » Violet becomes more confident about her poetry.

Observation: Discussion Questions Observation Record

- Call on a different student to answer each question. Note students' performance in the Discussion Questions Observation Record.
- Turn and Talk: For the inferential question, have students share their thoughts with one another. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their answer. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner's thinking with the group.

Lesson 11: Review: Contractions with Would and Had, Part 2 Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words that are contractions.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iii

SPELL CONTRACTIONS WITH WOULD AND HAD (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling contractions with would or had that you say aloud.
- Say the word I'd. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- |           |          |
|-----------|----------|
| 1. I'd    | 5. she'd |
| 2. we'd   | 6. he'd  |
| 3. they'd | 7. it'd  |
| 4. you'd  |          |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iii) Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling compound words, contractions, and abbreviations.

- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

Note: Tell students that the sentences include names. They should listen to the names and try their best to spell them.

1. Lien and Hong An said they'd start reading the book tonight.
2. Hanif wanted to know who'd already eaten lunch today.

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students complete the encoding activity. Monitor students' comprehension and provide assistance when necessary.

End Lesson

Lesson 11: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 11.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 11.3.
- Have them reread "Violet's Poems."
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 11.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.

- Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

---

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following word on an index card: courageous. Create or gather some additional Tricky Word cards to review in this lesson.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word courageous and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘ou’ is pronounced /ə/. The ‘ae’ is pronounced /æ/, and the ‘geous’ is pronounced /jəs/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /k/ for this letter. We say /ə/ for these letters. We say /r/ for this letter. We say /æ/ for these letters. We say /jəs/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /k/ /ə/ /r/ /æ/ /jəs/, courageous. Say, “Courageous! It’s a word we hear all the time, like when we say ‘Violet would have to let go of her fears and be courageous.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say courageous. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining review words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.

- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Warm-Up

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their pronunciation of certain sounds as they decode words, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Letter Sounds document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site

Morphology

Get the chart from Lesson 11 and add another row to use during the activity.

| Root Word      | Meaning | Example(s) | Sentence(s) |
|----------------|---------|------------|-------------|
| port    |         |            |             |
| mot/mov |         |            |             |
| form    |         |            |             |

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 4 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
  - Have students take turns reading the entire story.
  - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
  - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the story.
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: flyer (event publicity), platform (stage), formula (math), paper boat, commotion (cheering), and beamed (face).

Lesson 12: Review: Contractions with Will and Are, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend contractions with the words will and are. TEKS 3.2.A.iii

REVIEW CONTRACTIONS WITH WILL AND ARE (3 MIN.)

- Say, “In this lesson, we are going to practice using contractions. Contractions are words that are made by shortening and combining two words. The word we’ll is an example of a contraction.”
- Separate the sounds of the pronoun and the contraction: /wee/ + /I/. Then say them together: we’ll. Have students repeat the separated and blended word.
- Say, “We’ll is a combination of the words we will.”
- Say, “Instead of saying the sentence, ‘We will see,’ we can use we’ll to shorten the sentence to ‘We’ll see.’”
- Have students pronounce the following contractions: I’ll, you’ll, he’ll, she’ll, it’ll, and they’ll.
- Say, “If we want to form a contraction of the words we are, we can use the contraction we’re.”
- Tell students that we’re is usually pronounced /w/ /ə/ /r/ or /w/ /i/ /r/. Say the blended word: we’re. Have students repeat the separated and blended word.
- Say, “Instead of saying the sentence, ‘We are cold,’ we can use we’re to shorten the sentence to ‘We’re cold.’”
- Have students pronounce the following contractions: they’re, you’re.

Support

Explain that language variety (regional inflection) plays an important role in how contractions are pronounced. For example, we’ll may be pronounced /w/ /i/ /l/ in certain regions of the United States. Likewise, you’re may be pronounced /y/ /er/, /y/ /or/, and /y/ /ue/ /r/.

TEKS 3.2.A.iii Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviations.

Lesson 12: Review: Contractions with Will and Are, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will read contractions with will and are. TEKS 3.2.A.iii; TEKS 3.2.B.iii

Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the CV/VC pattern.

TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.v

READ CONTRACTIONS WITH WILL AND ARE (3 MIN.)

- Write the phrases you will and you are on the board.
- Underline will and are. Say, “If we want to make a contraction out of these words, we’ll have to change the spelling.”
- Model adding an apostrophe to you and crossing out the letters to shorten will: You’ will.
- Say, “To form the contraction you’ll, we add an apostrophe to the pronoun and shorten the word will. You will can become you’ll.”
- Write you’ll on the board. Have students read the word aloud. Ask a volunteer to use the word in a sentence.
- Model adding an apostrophe to you and crossing out the letter ‘a’ to shorten are: You’ are.
- Say, “To form the contraction you’re, we add an apostrophe to the pronoun and shorten the word are. You are can become you’re.”
- Write you’re on the board. Have students read the word aloud. Ask a volunteer to use the word in a sentence.
- Repeat the routine with the contractions I’ll, he’ll/she’ll, it’ll, they’ll, what’ll who’ll, they’re, what’re, and we’re.
- Direct students to Activity Page 12.1 and review the instructions.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

TEKS 3.2.A.iii Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviations; TEKS 3.2.B.iii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling compound words, contractions, and abbreviations; TEKS 3.2.A.iv Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.2.B.v Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down Write these contractions on the board and have students confirm whether they are correct: I'll (thumbs-up), I're (thumbs-down), it're (thumbs-down), it'll (thumbs-up).

Support

Explain that some CV/VC words have more than two consecutive vowels. If a vowel is part of a digraph, such as 'qu,' the word is still considered CV/VC. Demonstrate this pattern with the word quiet, which divides between the vowels that are not a part of the 'qu' digraph: qui•et.

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH THE CV/VC PATTERN (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they can look for patterns to divide words into syllables as they read and spell words.
- Write the word create.
- Circle the vowels. Underline the consonants.
- Say, "I see two vowels together in this word. I know that sometimes the vowels 'ea' can work together to make one sound, like /ee/ or /e/. I'll try to read this word that way first."
- Pronounce the word /k/ /r/ /ee/ /t/.
- Say, "That doesn't sound right. I'm going to try dividing the word after the first 'e' which would mean it is an open syllable. I know that open syllables often make a long vowel sound. That would mean the second syllable has a pattern I recognize: 'a_e' which often makes the long /ae/ sound."
- Pronounce the word /k/ /r/ /ee/ • /ae/ /t/, /kree/ /aet/.
- Say, "Create is a word I have heard before."
- Write CV/VC under the word. Say, "This word has a CV/VC pattern, so we divide the syllables between the vowels."
- Demonstrate dividing the syllables with a slash: cre•ate. Read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Write the following words: trial, triumph, fluid, realize.
- Have volunteers take turns approaching the board to mark the vowels and then the consonants. Then have students divide the word into syllables. Have them identify each syllable type to help them decode syllable by syllable first, and then the whole word.

Lesson 12: Review: Contractions with Will and Are, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use the root words port, mot/mov, and form. TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS: FORM (6 MIN.)

- Add to the chart below created in Lesson 11. Write the root form in the first column, in the last row.

| Root Word      | Meaning  | Example(s) | Sentence(s)                                                      |
|----------------|----------|------------|------------------------------------------------------------------|
| port    | to carry | transport  | The boat transports people from one island to another.    |
| mot/mov | to move  | motor      | The car is fast because it has a powerful motor .         |
|                |          | movement   | Athletes practice running, jumping, and other movements . |
| form    |          |            |                                                                  |

- Say, “The root form has two meanings. It can mean ‘the shape of’ or ‘resembling something.’” Write the definitions in the second column.

| Root Word      | Meaning                              | Example(s) | Sentence(s)                                                      |
|----------------|--------------------------------------|------------|------------------------------------------------------------------|
| port    | to carry                             | transport  | The boat transports people from one island to another.    |
| mot/mov | to move                              | motor      | The car is fast because it has a powerful motor .         |
|                |                                      | movement   | Athletes practice running, jumping, and other movements . |
| form    | the shape of or resembling something |            |                                                                  |

- Write the word uniform in the third column. Have students read it aloud.

TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Challenge

Based on your knowledge of the root form and the meaning of transformation, what do you think the word formation means? (“the act or process of giving something its shape”)

Challenge

In this lesson, students learned about the meaning of uniform as an adjective. Ask, “What does uniform mean as a noun?” (a type of dress worn by members of a group, such as students or athletes)

Language

Learning How English Works

Review the meaning of prefixes and suffixes. Say, “The word part trans- is a prefix. Do prefixes appear at the start or at the end of words?” (start) “The word part -tion is a suffix.

Do suffixes appear at the start or at the end of words?” (end)

- Say, “We have learned that the prefix uni- means ‘single’ or ‘one.’ The root form in this case means ‘the shape of.’ Therefore, we can tell that when things are uniform, they are the same shape, size, or condition.”
- Write the following sentence in the fourth and underline the word uniform:
The desks are uniform in size, so all students have the same amount of space.
Have students read it aloud.

- Write the word transformation in the third column of the chart. Read the word and then have students read it aloud.

| Root Word   | Meaning  | Example(s) | Sentence(s)                                                   |

| form    | the shape of or resembling something | uniform transformation | The desks are uniform in size, so all students have the same amount of space. |

- Say, “Some words with these roots can be hard to break apart and understand. It can be useful to read the sentence in which a word appears to gather clues about its meaning. We call this context clues.”
- Write the following sentence in the fourth column and underline the word transformation: The transformation of water into ice is called freezing. Have students read it aloud.

| Root Word      | Meaning                              | Example(s)             | Sentence(s)                                                                          |

- Say, “By reading this sentence, we can tell that transformation describes a type of change. I know that the prefix trans- means ‘across’ or ‘beyond,’ the root form can mean ‘the shape of,’ and the suffix -tion describes an action, state, or condition.”
- Say, “By combining the context of the sentence with its word parts, I can guess that transformation means ‘the action of completely changing shape.’”
- Direct students to Activity Page 12.2 and review the instructions.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 12: Review: Contractions with Will and Are, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will reread “Violet’s Poems” fluently with a partner.

TEKS 3.1.D; TEKS 3.2.A.iii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.4

REREAD “VIOLET’S POEMS” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s story with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the story.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 11.3. Tell students that today they will reread “Violet’s Poems” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “Violet’s Poems.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Remind students that they can use context clues to find the meanings of unfamiliar words.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- After students read the passage, have them work together to
  - underline three contractions;
  - circle three words with port, mot/mov, and form;

TEKS 3.1.D Work collaboratively with others by following agreed-upon rules, norms, and protocols; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (iii) decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviations; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Activity Page 11.3

Challenge

Have students write a brief summary of the text. Remind them that a summary should only include the main points.

- highlight three words with the CV/VC syllable pattern; and
- write one unfamiliar word that you can define with context clues.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Check for Understanding

Question-Pair-Share: Have partners think of questions about the text to ask each other. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their answer. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner’s question and the answer with the group.

Observation: “Violet’s Poems” Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read “Violet’s Poems,” make notes about the student’s reading, such as errors in fluency or prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 12: Review: Contractions with Will and Are, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words that are contractions.

✚ TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iii

SPELL CONTRACTIONS WITH WILL AND ARE (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling contractions with will and are that you say aloud.

✚ TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iii) spelling compound words, contractions, and abbreviations.

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Beginning

Have students complete the contraction to finish this sentence frame: The students are learning.
They' _____ learning. (re)

Intermediate

Have students complete the contractions to finish this sentence frame: The students are learning.
They' _____ sure that they' _____ pass the test. (re; ll)

Advanced/

Advanced High

Work with students to define a word from the dictation to use in their sentences.

ELPS 3.A

- Say the word you'll. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

Note: The contractions we're and we'll have different regional pronunciations. You may want to read the words several times, adjusting the pronunciation to include the long, short, and schwa vowel sounds. You may want to present each contraction in a sentence.

- |           |            |           |
|-----------|------------|-----------|
| 1. you'll | 4. they'll | 7. we'll  |
| 2. he'll  | 5. they're | 8. we're  |
| 3. you're | 6. what'll | 9. who'll |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- |                                                                    |
|--------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. We'll see if it'll rain later today before we plant the garden. |
| 2. They're not going there until Monday.                           |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 12: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 12.1 for each student.
- Have them mark correct and incorrect divisions of words into syllables.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Violet’s Poems” on Activity Page TR 11.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say courageous and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, kəreɪjəs. Write the letters to spell courageous on the board.
- Point to the word courageous and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /ə/ sound is spelled ‘ou’. The /eɪ/ sound is spelled ‘a’, and the /jəs/ sound is spelled ‘geous.’”

- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “We say /k/ for this letter. We say /ə/ for this letter. We say /r/ for this letter. We say /æ/ for this letter. We say /jəs/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /k/ /ə/ /r/ /æ/ /jəs/, courageous. Say, “Courageous! It’s a word we use all the time.”
- Repeat with any additional words you reviewed. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.
- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.
- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Morphology

- Gather pictures to represent words that use the root phon/phone that may be unfamiliar to students: saxophone, megaphone, and symphony.

Reading

- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: Aretha Franklin, minister (church), lyrics, Rock & Roll Hall of Fame, inauguration, and saxophones.

Lesson 13: Review: Contractions with Have, Has, and Not, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend contractions with the words have, has, and not. TEKS 3.2.A.iii

REVIEW CONTRACTIONS WITH HAVE, HAS, AND NOT (3 MIN.)

- Say, “In this lesson, we are going to continue to practice using contractions. Contractions are words that are made by shortening and combining two words. The word I’ve is an example of a contraction.”
- Separate the word from the contraction in I’ve: /ie/ /v/. Then say them together: I’ve. Have students repeat the separated and blended word.
- Say, “I’ve is a combination of the words I have.”
- Say, “Instead of saying the sentence, ‘I have been to the city,’ we can use I’ve to shorten the sentence to ‘I’ve been to the city.’”
- Have students pronounce the following contractions: you’ve, we’ve, they’ve.
- Say, “We can also use this contraction with the verbs could, would, and should. An example of this type of contraction is could’ve.”
- Separate the word from the contraction in could’ve: /kood/ /əv/. Then say them together: could’ve. Have students repeat the separated and blended word.
- Say, “Instead of saying the sentence, ‘We could have met,’ we can use could’ve to shorten the sentence to ‘We could’ve met.’”
- Have students pronounce the following contractions: should’ve, would’ve.
- Say, “Contractions can also shorten sentences with the word not. These contractions are called negative contractions. An example of this type of contraction is hasn’t.”
- Separate the word from the contraction in hasn’t: /haz/ /ənt/. Then say them together: hasn’t. Have students repeat the separated and blended word.
- Say, “Instead of saying the sentence, ‘It has not rained,’ we can use the negative contraction hasn’t to shorten the sentence to ‘It hasn’t rained.’”

TEKS 3.2.A.iii Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviation.

- Have students pronounce the following contractions: haven't, hadn't, can't, wouldn't, couldn't, don't, doesn't, didn't, isn't, aren't, wasn't, weren't.
- Say, "The contraction of will not is irregular. When we combine these words, we use the contraction won't." Have students repeat won't.

Challenge

Ask students to form their own sentences with contractions featuring has, have, and not.

Lesson 13: Review: Contractions with Have, Has, and Not, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will create and read contractions with have, has, and not.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.iii; TEKS 3.2.B.iii

Students will construct and read multisyllabic words with the CV/VC pattern.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.v

READ CONTRACTIONS WITH HAVE, HAS, AND NOT (3 MIN.)

- Write the phrase I have on the board. Have students read the phrase aloud.
- Say, "If we want to make a contraction out of these words, we'll have to change the spelling."
- Model adding an apostrophe to I and crossing out the letters to shorten have: I' have.
- Say, "To form the contraction I've, we add an apostrophe to the pronoun and shorten the word have. I have can become I've."
- Write I've on the board. Have students read the word aloud. Ask a volunteer to use the word in a sentence.
- Write the phrase she has on the board. Have students read the phrase aloud.
- Model adding an apostrophe to she and crossing out the letters to shorten has: she' has.
- Say, "To form the contraction she's, we add an apostrophe to the pronoun and shorten the word has. She has can become she's."

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.iii Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviation;
TEKS 3.2.B.iii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling compound words, contractions, and abbreviations;
TEKS 3.2.A.iv Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.2.B.v Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

- Write she's on the board. Have students read the word aloud.
- Write the phrase Casey has on the board. Have students read the phrase aloud.
- Say, "We can also form contractions with proper nouns. In this case, we add an apostrophe to the proper noun and shorten the word has. Casey has can become Casey's."
- Explain that we can also use the contraction 's for the word is. Point out to students that depending on context, or the information in the story, Casey's may mean Casey has or Casey is.

Note: Adding an apostrophe to a noun also creates the possessive form of the noun. Students will review possessive nouns in the next lesson.

- Write the phrase has not on the board. Have students read the phrase aloud.
- Say, "To form the contraction hasn't, we make the phrase into one word and replace the 'o' in the word not with an apostrophe. Has not can become hasn't."
- Write hasn't on the board. Have students read the word aloud.
- Repeat the routine with the contractions we've, could've, couldn't, won't.
- Direct students to Activity Page 13.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Activity Page 13.1

CONSTRUCT AND READ WORDS WITH THE CV/VC PATTERN (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they can look for patterns to divide words into syllables as they read and spell words.
- Write the word readmit on the board.
- Circle the vowels. Underline the consonants.
- Say, "I recognize the VC/CV pattern here, so I will divide these two syllables." Mark the syllables in ad•mit with a slash.
- Say, "I see two vowels together in this word. I know that sometimes the vowels 'ea' can work together to make one sound, like /ee/ or /e/. We also learned that when two vowels stand between two consonants, the word can be divided between the two vowels. This pattern is called CV/VC."

- Say, "I want to know whether I should divide this word after or before the second vowel, 'a'."
- Say, "I see letters that might be a vowel team I've learned about: 'ea'. I can read the word with a long /ee/ sound for the vowel team 'ea' to see if I should divide the word after the vowel 'a'."
- Read the word readmit with the long vowel sound /ee/ for the vowel team 'ea': /r/ /ee/ /d/ /m/ /i/ /t/, /reed/ /mit/.
- Say, "That does not sound right to me. I'm going to try dividing the word after the 'e' which would mean it is an open syllable. I know that open syllables often make a long vowel sound."
- Read the word readmit syllable by syllable, with separate vowel sounds for 'e' and 'a': /ree/ /ad/ /mit/.
- Say, "That sounds much better, but still sounds a bit off. Remember that in unstressed syllables, the vowel can change to the schwa. Let me try to read the word again with the schwa: /ree/ /əd/ /mit/. Readmit is a word I have heard before. To readmit means to allow someone to enter a space again."
- Write CV/VC under the word. Say, "This word has a CV/VC pattern, so we divide the syllables between the vowels."
- Mark with a slash where the first syllable ends: re•ad•mit.
- Read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Repeat the routine with the following words: a•re•a, fli•er, cas•u•al, bi•ol•o•gy.

Check for Understanding

Turn and Talk: Have student pairs come up with a word that follows the CV/VC pattern. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Then have pairs share their words with the class.

Lesson 13: Review: Contractions with Have, Has, and Not, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use the root words phon/phone. TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS: PHON/PHONE (6 MIN.)

- Write the root phon/phone on the board.
- Remind students that a root is a word part from which other words are created.
- Say, “The root phon or phone means ‘sound or voice.’” Write the word telephone on the board. Have students read the word aloud.
- Say, “This word has two parts: tele- and phone.”
- Say, “We have learned that the prefix tele- means ‘distant or far’ and the root phone means ‘sound or voice.’ Therefore, we can tell that a telephone is something that carries sounds over distances.”
- Repeat the routine with the word microphone. (The prefix micro-, meaning “small,” combines with the root phone, meaning “sound or voice,” to refer to a device that makes a quiet sound louder.)
- Direct students to Activity Page 13.2 and review the instructions.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

READ “THE QUEEN OF SOUL: A MUSICAL BIOGRAPHY” (10 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 13.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: notable, pursuit, relatable, genuine, valuable
  - phrases: “voice’s power could fill a room,” “touch every listener’s heart,” “dedicated to her craft”
  - domain-specific language: soul music, the industry, lyrics
- Remind students that they can use context clues to find the meanings of unfamiliar words. Model using context clues to determine the meaning of the word sizable in the sentence: “She sang for a sizable crowd, a huge group of more than one million people.”
- Have students follow along as you read “The Queen of Soul: A Musical Biography.”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., characterized and symphonies).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read or have students read it independently.

TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (iii) decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviations; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.3.B Use context within and beyond a sentence to determine the meaning of unfamiliar words and multiple-meaning words; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Have a strong reader work with a struggling reader to complete the comprehension questions.

Intermediate

Have a small group read the first paragraph together, taking turns, and work together to complete the comprehension questions.

Advanced/
Advanced High

Have students read independently and then work with a partner to share their responses to the comprehension questions.

ELPS 4.1

Support

Before reading “The Queen of Soul: A Musical Biography,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

- Then have them turn to Activity Page 13.4 and complete the comprehension questions. If they don't complete the activity page, instruct them to work on it at home.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Turn and Talk: Have students work in pairs to identify unfamiliar words. Prompt pairs to use context clues to find the meaning of these words in the text. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner's thinking with the group.

Lesson 13: Review: Contractions with Have, Has, and Not, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words that are contractions.

TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.iii

SPELL CONTRACTIONS WITH HAVE, HAS, AND NOT (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling contractions with has, have, and not that you say aloud.
- Say the word isn't. Repeat it. Have students write it in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

|           |              |              |
|-----------|--------------|--------------|
| 1. isn't  | 4. won't     | 7. shouldn't |
| 2. it's   | 5. wasn't    | 8. I've      |
| 3. hadn't | 6. should've | 9. weren't   |

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iii) decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviations.

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

1. Dan's already finished the test.
2. They could've come, but they didn't.

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 13: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 13.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 13.3.
- Have them reread “The Queen of Soul: A Musical Biography.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 13.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.

Support

Students may not be familiar with the spelling of the proper noun Dan. If they struggle to understand the word, have them substitute their own names.

- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following word on an index card: lyrics. Create or gather some additional Tricky Word cards to review in this lesson.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word lyrics and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘yr’ is pronounced /eer/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /l/ for this letter. We say /eer/ for these letters. We say /i/ for this letter. We say /k/ for this letter. We say /s/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /l/ /eer/ /i/ /k/ /s/, lyrics. Say, “Lyrics! It’s a word we hear all the time, like when we say ‘The song’s lyrics express moving and relatable emotions.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say lyrics. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining review words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.

- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Warm-Up

- Write the following sentences on chart paper or on the board and keep them covered.
  - That is Josie's dog.
  - The cat is hers.
  - The boys' bird is green.
  - The car is theirs.
  - The hat is yours.
  - James's pen is blue.
  - The dog's ball is soft.

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 4 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
  - Have students take turns reading the entire text.
  - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
  - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the text.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity:
Aretha Franklin, minister (church), lyrics, Rock & Roll Hall of Fame, inauguration, and saxophones.

Lesson 14: Review: Possessives, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and blend possessives. TEKS 3.2.A.i

REVIEW POSSESSIVES (3 MIN.)

- Get the chart paper with the sentences that you've prepared. Uncover sentences one at a time.
- Say, "In this lesson, we are going to review how to use possessives. Possessives are words that describe ownership."
- Tell students that you are going to speak sentences aloud. Have them listen for the part of the sentence that is possessive, or shows ownership.
- Say, "That is Josie's dog." Uncover the sentence.
- Ask, "To whom does the dog in this sentence belong?" (Josie) Underline Josie's.
- Say, "The word Josie's is possessive. Notice that we use an apostrophe to show that Josie is the owner of the dog."
- Say, "The cat is hers." Uncover the sentence.
- Ask, "To whom does the cat in this sentence belong?" (her) Underline hers.
- Say, "In this case, we used a pronoun as the possessive. Notice that the possessive pronoun does not use an apostrophe."
- Say, "The boys' bird is green." Uncover the sentence.
- Ask, "To whom does the bird in this sentence belong?" (the boys) Underline boys'.
- Say, "The word boys' is possessive. Notice that when the noun is plural the apostrophe comes after the 's'."
- Repeat the routine with the following sentences:
  - The car is theirs.
  - The hat is yours.
  - James's pen is blue.
  - The dog's ball is soft.

TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en.

Lesson 14: Review: Possessives, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

✦ Students will create and read possessives. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.11.D.vii

Students will construct and read multisyllabic words with the CV/VC pattern.

✦ TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.v

Support

Students have previously learned that adding an apostrophe and an 's' to a word can replace the verbs is or has. Explain that when they see a word with an apostrophe and an 's', they'll have to use context to decide if the word is a contraction replacing has, a contraction replacing is, or if the word is possessive.

READ POSSESSIVES (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that possessives are used to describe ownership.
- Demonstrate forming possessives by writing your name and then the word class.
- Say, "To make my name possessive, I will add an apostrophe and an 's'." Write the apostrophe and 's' after your name on the board.
- Ask for three student volunteers. Have the volunteers write their names on the board.
- Have the volunteers add an apostrophe and an 's' to make their names possessive. Have students read the possessive name aloud.
- Circle the word class on the board. Ask, "How would we make this noun possessive to show that something belongs to the class?" (class's) Write class's on the board. Have students read it aloud.
- Ask, "What if we want to make this noun plural and possessive to show that something belongs to more than one class?" (classes') Write the word classes' on the board. Have students read it aloud. Say, "Remember that when the noun is plural the apostrophe comes after the 's'."

CONSTRUCT AND READ WORDS WITH THE CV/VC PATTERN (3 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 14.1 and review the instructions.

Activity Page 14.1

✦ TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; TEKS 3.11.D.vii Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including pronouns, including subjective, objective, and possessive cases; TEKS 3.2.A.iv Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.2.B.v Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

- Demonstrate how to complete the activity page by pointing out the syllables qui- and -et in the first two columns.
- Write quiet on the board. Have students draw a line to connect the two syllables. Then have them write the word in the third column on their activity page and read the completed word.
- Have partners complete the rest of the activity page together.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as partners complete the syllable activity. Monitor students’ comprehension and provide assistance when necessary.

Lesson 14: Review: Possessives, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the suffixes -able and -ible. TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

ENGLISH
LANGUAGE
LEARNERS

ROOT WORDS AND SUFFIXES: -ABLE/-IBLE (6 MIN.)

- Remind students that a suffix is a word part that is added to the end of a word.
- Write the suffixes -able and -ible on the board. Have students read the suffixes aloud.
- Say, “The suffixes -able and -ible mean ‘can be done.’”
- Write the word readable on the board. Underline the suffix -able.
- Say, “At the start of this word I see the root word read.” Circle read. Have students read the root aloud.

Language

Learning How English Works

Remind students that the prefixes un- and im- most often mean “not” or “the opposite of.” Knowledge of these prefixes can help them determine the meanings of the words impossible and unable in Part 2 of the activity page.

ELPS 2.C

TEKS 3.2.A.vi Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B.vii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Support

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meaning: ador (“to love”), vis (“to see”), and pos (“can be done”).

---

Challenge

---

Have students form their own sentences with a word from the activity page.

- Say, “I know the suffix -able means ‘can be done.’ If I put the word parts together, I can tell that readable means ‘can be read.’”
- Write the word reversible on the board. Underline the suffix -ible.
- Say, “At the start of this word I see part of the word reverse. Unlike words with -able, words that end in -ible usually do not include the full root.” Circle revers-. Have students read the root aloud.
- Say, “I know the suffix -ible means ‘can be done.’ If I put the word parts together, I can tell that reversible means ‘able to be reversed.’”
- Direct students to Activity Page 14.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the affix changed the meaning of the root word. Then, have students share their partner’s response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 14: Review: Possessives, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will reread “The Queen of Soul: A Musical Biography” fluently with a partner.

TEKS 3.1.D; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.3.B; TEKS 3.3.C; TEKS 3.4

REREAD “THE QUEEN OF SOUL: A MUSICAL BIOGRAPHY” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s text with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the text.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 13.3. Tell students that today they will reread “The Queen of Soul: A Musical Biography” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “The Queen of Soul: A Musical Biography.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Remind students that they can use context clues to find the meanings of unfamiliar words.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.

TEKS 3.1.D Work collaboratively with others by following agreed-upon rules, norms, and protocols; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.B Use context within and beyond a sentence to determine the meaning of unfamiliar words and multiple-meaning words; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Support

Have students work on one annotation at a time. For example, first have them look for possessives. Then have them look for words with the two suffixes.

Activity Page 13.3

ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Work with student pairs to identify a few possessives.

Intermediate

Have students share their annotations with another student.

Advanced/ Advanced High

Encourage students to read aloud the words they annotate to a partner.

ELPS 4.A

- After students read the passage, have them work together to
  - underline three possessives;
  - circle three words with the suffixes -ible/-able;
  - highlight three words with the CV/VC syllable pattern; and
  - write one unfamiliar word that you can define with context clues.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Observation: “The Queen of Soul: A Musical Biography”
Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read “The Queen of Soul: A Musical Biography,” make notes about the student’s reading, such as errors in fluency and prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 14: Review: Possessives, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write possessives.

TEKS 3.2.B.iv; TEKS 3.11.D.vii

SPELL POSSESSIVES (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling possessive words. Explain that you will say a short sentence aloud, and they will spell the correct form of the possessive in that sentence.
- Say, “The men’s hats are large,” and emphasize the possessive word men’s. Repeat the possessive word. Have students write the word in their dictation journal. Say, “In your journal, write men’s.”

TEKS 3.2.B.iv Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns; TEKS 3.11.D.vii Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including pronouns, including subjective, objective, and possessive cases.

- Repeat with the remaining sentences with possessive words.

- |                                       |                                                             |                                         |
|---------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|
| 1. The men's hats are large.   | 4. Is that bus ours ?                                | 7. All foxes' fur grows.         |
| 2. Those books are theirs .    | 5. Only peel one potato's skin.                      | 8. People's opinions can change. |
| 3. Ohio's capital is Columbus. | 6. The student counted her left hand's five fingers. | 9. The dog chases its tail.      |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write. Make clear that students are expected to write the full sentence.

- |                                       |
|---------------------------------------|
| 1. Both schools' students learn math. |
| 2. James's house is next to yours.    |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students complete the encoding activity. Monitor students' comprehension and provide assistance when necessary.

Lesson 14: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 14.1 for each student.
- Have them complete the sentences by filling in the blanks with the correct possessive.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “The Queen of Soul: A Musical Biography” on Activity Page TR 13.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say lyrics and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, llleerriks. Write the letters to spell lyrics on the board.
- Point to the word lyrics and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /eer/ sound is spelled ‘yr.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “We say /l/ for this letter. We say /eer/ for these letters. We say /i/ for this letter. We say /k/ for this letter. We say /s/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /l/ /eer/ /i/ /k/ /s/, lyrics. Say, “Lyrics! It’s a word we use all the time.”
- Repeat with any additional words you reviewed. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.
- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.
- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Warm-Up

- Create signs for each corner of the classroom to prepare for the Four Corners game: would/had, have, will, and are.

Phonics—Encoding

- To learn more about how your students' language varieties may affect their encoding skills, refer to the Language Varieties' Influence on Oral Reading Fluency and Accuracy document, available under the General English Learners resource in the program's digital components site.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: expedition (zoology), Arctic, blubber (animal), Arabian desert, navigation system (electronic), and chameleon.

Lesson 15: Mixed Review, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will review identifying contractions. TEKS 3.2.A.iii

REVIEW CONTRACTIONS (3 MIN.)

- Say, “We are going to play a game to practice recognizing contractions.”
- Point to the signs in the corners of the room that you prepared in advance.
- Say, “I will read a list of contractions. Listen carefully for which word is shortened to form the contraction, either would/had, have, will, or are. I will repeat the word a second time. Then calmly go to the corner labeled with that word.”
- Begin the activity by reading the word would’ve. Repeat the word.
- Tell students to choose the corner that corresponds to the shortened verb.
- Confirm that would’ve is a contraction of would and have; therefore, have is the shortened verb.
- Repeat the exercise with the following words: they’re, we’ll, could’ve, she’d, it’ll.

Lesson 15: Mixed Review, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Primary Focus: Students will review reading and creating contractions. TEKS 3.2.A.iii; TEKS 3.2.B.iii

Students will review dividing and reading multisyllabic words with syllable

Primary Focus: patterns. TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.B.v

TEKS 3.2.A.iii Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviations;
TEKS 3.2.B.iii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling compound words, contractions, and abbreviations;
TEKS 3.2.A.iv Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; TEKS 3.2.B.v Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV.

Challenge

Ask students to use one of the contractions in a sentence.

REVIEW CONTRACTIONS (3 MIN.)

- Say, “We are going to play a game to practice recognizing contractions.”
- Say, “I will write a list of contractions. If the contraction is negative, calmly and slowly stand up. Otherwise, remain seated. When I ask, answer with what two words the contraction combines.”
- Write the word haven't on the board. Prompt students to stand up.
- Say, “The word haven't is a negative contraction. What words does it combine?” (have and not)
- Prompt students to sit back down.
- Repeat the routine with the following words: isn't, would've, we'll, they're, it'd, Kim's, won't, that'd.

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH SYLLABLE PATTERNS (3 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 15.1, and read the passage aloud. Draw students' attention to the word define in the first sentence.
- Write the word define on the board. Circle the vowels.
- Say, “I'll try to figure out how to read this word by first looking at the vowels. Circle the vowels and underline the consonant. I need to figure out whether to divide this word after or before the consonant 'f'. Let me try to divide the word after the consonant.” Put a slash after the 'f' to divide the word into the syllables: def•ine.
- Say, “The first second syllable is closed, so the vowel sound is short.” As you read the word define, pronounce the first syllable with the /e/ sound: /def/ /ien/.
- Say, “That does not sound right to me. Let me try to divide the word before the consonant.” Put a slash before the 'f' to divide the word into the syllables: de•fine.
- Say, “Now, the first syllable is open, so the vowel sound is long.” As you read the word define, pronounce the first syllable with the /ee/ sound: /dee/ /fien/.
- Say, “That sounds much better, but still sounds a bit off. Remember that in unstressed syllables, the vowel can change to the schwa sound. Let me try to read the word again with the schwa. /də/ /fien/: define. That makes sense! The word follows the V/CV pattern.”

- Have students read the word aloud and write the divided word in the V/CV column in the chart on the activity page.
- Assign students to pairs.
- Have partners complete the rest of Activity Page 15.1.
- After pairs finish the activity page, read aloud each bold word from the passage again, and have student volunteers write each divided word on the board.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Activity Page 15.1

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students complete the activity page. Monitor students' comprehension and provide assistance when necessary.

Lesson 15: Mixed Review, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will review identifying the meaning of and using root words and suffixes. TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

REVIEW ROOT WORDS AND AFFIXES: PORT, MOT/MOV, FORM, PHONE/PHONE, -ABLE/-IBLE (6 MIN.)

- Write the words formless, mover, portable, and microphone on the board. Have students read each word aloud.
- Ask, "Which of these words uses the root port? (portable) Underline the root in portable."
- Say, "I know the root port means 'to carry.'" Write to carry under the root.
- Circle the suffix -able. Ask, "What does the suffix -able mean?" (can be done) Write can be done under the suffix.

Support

If students struggle to choose definitions in the activity page, write the words on the board and underline the roots and/or suffixes to help students recognize the patterns of meaning.

TEKS 3.2.A.vi Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B.vii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Foundational Skills

Foundational Literacy Skills

Beginning

Ask yes or no questions to reinforce words with the suffixes and/or roots covered this week. For example: Is a mountain portable? (no) Is a backpack portable? (yes)

Intermediate

Have volunteers complete this sentence frame: It is important for backpacks to be _____ so students can easily take them to school.
(portable)

Advanced/

Advanced High

Have students answer a question to practice using words with the suffixes and/or roots covered this week. For example: What objects are portable? A calculator is portable.

ELPS 1.C

- Say, "If I combine the root and the suffix, I see that portable means 'can be carried.'"
- Ask, "Which of these words uses the root mot or mov? (mover) Underline the root in mover."
- Say, "I know the root mov means 'to move.'" Write to move under the root."
- Circle the suffix -er. Say, "I know the suffix -er means 'someone or something that does an action.'"
- Say, "If I combine the root and the suffix, I see that mover means 'something or someone that moves or causes something else to move.'"
- Repeat the routine with the remaining words.
- Direct students to Activity Page 15.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the affix changed the meaning of the root word. Then, have students share their partner's response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 15: Mixed Review, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Adaptable Animals” independently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.2.A.iii; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.3.B; TEKS 3.3.C; TEKS 3.5

READ “ADAPTABLE ANIMALS” INDEPENDENTLY (10 MIN.)

- Tell students that they will be reading “Adaptable Animals” independently. Direct students to Activity Page 15.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: portable, isolated, navigating, insulator
  - phrases: “built-in solution,” “living navigation systems,” “masters of disguise,” “function properly”
  - domain-specific language: zoology expeditions, landscape, nutrients, predators, prey
- Read a few lines of the passage, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., fascinating, Madagascar, and chameleons).
- Remind students that they can use context clues to find the meanings of unfamiliar words. Model using context clues to determine the meaning of the word adapt in the sentence: “I’ve found that many animal groups are able to change over time to adapt to challenges in their environments.” (change over time)
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace.
- Remind students that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (iii) decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviations; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.B Use context within and beyond a sentence to determine the meaning of unfamiliar words and multiple-meaning words; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful; TEKS 3.5 Self-select text and read independently for a sustained period of time.

Activity Pages
15.3, 15.4

Support

Have students focus on one annotation at a time.

For example, first have them read and underline words with contractions.

On the next read, have them highlight words with the root word port, and so on.

Before reading “Adaptable Animals,” show the images you prepared in advance.

Have students repeat the word after you, as you show each image.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Ask students yes/no questions using simple phrases to summarize the text: Does Ninette study animals? (yes) Does Ninette work at a zoo? (no)

Intermediate

Provide students with a specific sentence frame for summarizing and use temporal words: When Ninette went to the Arctic, she studied _____. (polar bears)

Advanced/ Advanced High

Encourage students to expand or build on other students' responses.

ELPS 4.G; ELPS 4.I

- Tell students that they may read the text either silently or softly to themselves.
- Then have them read the text again and
  - underline three contractions;
  - draw a box around three words with port, mot/mov, form, or phon/phone;
  - circle three words with -ible and -able;
  - highlight three multisyllabic words with the VC/CV pattern; and
  - write one unfamiliar word that they can define with context clues.
- After students have annotated the passage, have them complete the comprehension questions on Activity Page 15.4 independently.
- If time allows, have students complete the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home. If they don't complete it, instruct them to work on it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 15: Mixed Review, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will review spelling and writing words that are contractions. TEKS 3.2.B.iii; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

ENCODING REVIEW (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling some words with prefixes and suffixes and some words that are contractions and possessives. Explain that you will say a short sentence aloud for the contractions and possessives, and they will spell the correct form of the possessive or contraction in that sentence.
- Say, “You’re my best friend,” and emphasize the contraction you’re. Repeat the contraction. Have students write the word in their dictation journal. Say, “In your journal, write you’re.”
- Repeat with the remaining sentences with contractions and possessive words. Then, say the word teleportation. Repeat it. Have students write it in their journal. Repeat with the remaining words.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (iii) spelling compound words, contractions, and abbreviations; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

- |                                                  |                  |                |
|--------------------------------------------------|------------------|----------------|
| 1. You're my best friend.                        | 4. teleportation | 7. formable    |
| 2. I wish I would've worn a jacket.       | 5. motivation    | 8. microphone  |
| 3. The women's restroom is down the hall. | 6. removable     | 9. convertible |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write. Make clear that students are expected to write the full sentence.

- |                                                   |
|---------------------------------------------------|
| 1. It'd be good if you didn't lose the pen's cap. |
| 2. Who'll eat Chris's apple if he doesn't?        |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students complete the encoding activity. Monitor students' comprehension and provide assistance when necessary.

Dictation Journals: Spelling Dictation

Collect students' dictation journals to review and monitor student progress.

Lesson 15: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 15.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 15.3.
- Have them reread “Adaptable Animals.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 15.1
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Then, pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Adaptable Animals” on Activity Page TR 15.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Gather Tricky Word index cards from Lesson 11 and Lesson 13 (courageous, lyrics) and any additional Tricky Words that you reviewed in the lessons. Write the following new words on an index card: chameleon, imagine, direction, and built.
- Use the cards with the new words. Say, “Today we will review some more Tricky Words together. You can sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Display and point to the word built and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘ui’ is pronounced /i/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, say /b/ for this letter. We say /i/ for these letters. We say /l/ for this letter. We say /t/ for this letter.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /b/ /i/ /l/ /t/, built. Say, “Built! It’s a word we use all the time, like when we say ‘Camels have a built-in solution for that.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say built. What’s the word?” Ask them to sound it out and then read it again. Say, “It is helpful to remember another word that has the /i/ sound spelled ‘ui.’” Write guilt on the board, then blend and read the word aloud with students.
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining word(s), mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.

- Add the Tricky Word cards from Lesson 11 and Lesson 13. Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all the new words we learned this week. Let’s play a game. We’re going to go through this stack of cards as fast as we can, reading the word on each card. Read the words carefully, because these are words that you have to sound out in a special way. Let’s see how fast we can go. My turn first.”
- Model taking the top card off the stack, showing it to students, and saying the Tricky Word after a pause. Continue through the stack.
- Say, “Do you think you can go faster than I did?”
- Assign students to small groups. As you show each card, have one group of students read through the stack of cards as quickly as they can.
- If a student says the wrong word for a card, model how to sound out the Tricky Word and then say the word. Ask the student to repeat your answer, and move on to the next card in the stack with the same small group until you go through all of the cards.
- Select the next small group, shuffle the stack of cards, and repeat until all groups have had a turn.
- Say, “Okay, now let’s go faster.” Shuffle the stack of cards and repeat at a faster pace so that each group has had two turns.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Save the index cards to incorporate review of the Tricky Words throughout the unit.

Additional Activities to Review All Tricky Words from This Week

(1) Tricky Words Race

- Create a four-column chart. Fill it out with the Tricky Words you taught this week.
- Divide the class into two groups and have each group line up by the board.
- Explain how the game works. You will call out a Tricky Word. One student from each team will race to find the word on the chart and tap it. The first student to find and tap the word earns a point for the team.
- Repeat until all the words have been found or every student has had a turn.

Note: Consider playing this game in pairs to provide support for students who are still mastering these Tricky Words.

(2) Call, Flip, Read, Roll

- Gather ten index cards for each student.
- Give each student ten index cards, and have them number the cards 1–10.
- Display all Tricky Words that have been taught so far. Have each student pick ten Tricky Words from the list and write one word on the back of each index card. Their set of cards should now have a word to be read on one side and a number on the other side.
- Place students into pairs. Call out a number at random and have each student take turns finding a card with that number on it in their stack. The student then reads the word aloud. If the word is read correctly, the student may then roll a die and whatever number it lands on is the number of points they receive. The student with the most points is the winner.
- Save the index cards to use the next time students play this game. Students can reuse another student's set of cards.

REVIEW

Homophones

PRIMARY FOCUS OF LESSON

Warm-Up

- Students will orally substitute initial sounds to make new words. TEKS 3.2.A.i

Phonics—Decoding

- Students will identify and read homophones. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.3.D
- Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the VC/CCV and VCC/CV patterns. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.iv

Morphology

- Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the root dict and the prefix multi-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

Reading

Students will read “Riddle Game” orally with appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) and will answer questions about key details in the text.

- TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.4

Phonics—Encoding

Students will spell and write words that are homophones.

- TEKS 3.2.B.ii; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

FORMATIVE ASSESSMENT

Activity Page 16.1

- Read Homophones
- TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.3.D

Observation

- Discussion Questions Observation Record
- TEKS 3.4

- TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (vi) spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful; TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (ii) spelling homophones; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Prepare a chart to present the VCC/CV and VC/CCV Patterns. Save this chart for Lesson 17.

| Pattern | Rule                                                   | Examples                                              |
|---------|--------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------|
| VC/CCV  | divide before a consonant blend or a consonant digraph | hun•dredcom•plexex•plode |
| VCC/CV  | divide after a consonant blend or a consonant digraph  | pump•kinking•domath•lete |

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 4 Discussion Questions Observation Record that you prepared in Lesson 1. Remember to ask each student to respond to at least one discussion question over the course of the week. Make notes regarding each student's ability to answer literal, inferential, and evaluative questions and to respond using complete sentences.
- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: multilingual (text in three or more languages) and multicolored notecards (3 by 5).

Lesson 16: Review: Homophones, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will orally substitute initial sounds to make new words.

TEKS 3.2.A.i

ORALLY SUBSTITUTE SOUNDS TO MAKE NEW WORDS (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that changing one sound in a word can change its meaning.
- Say the word puzzle. Demonstrate how to make a new word by changing the sound at the beginning of the word.
- Say, "If I change the /p/ at the beginning of puzzle to /m/, I can make the word muzzle."
- Continue the routine with the remaining examples. Have students create new words by changing the sound at the beginning of each word.

| Example | Possible New Word |
|---------|-------------------|
| loyal   | royal      |
| vocal   | local      |
| medal   | pedal      |
| sandal  | candle     |
| dental  | mental     |

Support

Remind students to be careful to only change the beginning sound and not other sounds within each word. For example, changing puzzle to nozzle would require substituting the first two sounds.

TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en.

Lesson 16: Review: Homophones, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

✚ Students will identify and read homophones. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.3.D

✚ Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the VC/CCV and VCC/CV patterns. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.iv

READ HOMOPHONES (3 MIN.)

- Tell students that homophones are words that sound the same but are spelled differently.
- Write the words piece and peace on the board. Point to each word and read it aloud. Then have students read them aloud.
- Say, “These words sound the same, but they have different spellings and meanings. They are homophones.”
- Point to piece again. Say, “This word means ‘one part of something.’”
- Point to peace again. Say, “This word means ‘a state of calm or quiet.’”
- Work with students to generate sentences using each homophone.
- Repeat with the homophones meet/meat and real/reel.
- Direct students to Activity Page 16.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH THE VC/CCV AND VCC/CV PATTERNS (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they can look for patterns of vowels and consonants to divide syllables in order to make it easier to read longer words.

✚ TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.2.A.iv Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts.

Challenge

Provide small groups with another homophone pair, such as here/hear, your/you’re, or fair/fare, and challenge them to write a set of fill-in-the-blank sentences to exchange with another group.

Activity Page 16.1

Language

Learning How English Works

Beginning

Simplify the activity page by providing shorter sentences or phrases based on students' level of proficiency.

Intermediate

Have students work with a proficient reader who acts as a mentor.

Advanced/ Advanced High

Students can work on the activity independently.

ELPS 1.F

- Display the chart you prepared in advance.
- Point out the VC/CCV pattern, and read aloud the rule for dividing words with the VC/CCV pattern.
- Draw students' attention to the divided word hun•dred. Say, "This word has three consonants ('n', 'd', and 'r') between two vowels ('u' and 'e')."
- Explain that when three consonants appear between two vowels, the word is often divided after the first consonant, but the division depends on whether two of the consonants blend together. Consonant blends stay together in a syllable. Read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Say, "The word hundred follows the VC/CCV pattern because we divide the word before the consonant blend 'dr'."
- Write concentrate on the board.
- Circle the vowels in concentrate, and underline the consonants. Draw students' attention to the three consonants ('n', 't', 'r') between the two vowels ('e', 'a').
- Say, "In this word, the 't' and 'r' blend, so they stay together in the third syllable."
- Draw slashes to break the word into syllables: con•cen•trate. Read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Point out the VCC/CV pattern on the chart, and read aloud the rule for dividing words with the VCC/CV pattern.
- Draw students' attention to the divided word pump•kin. Point out that the word pumpkin has three consonants ('m', 'p', and 'k') between two vowels ('u' and 'i').
- Say, "In this case, 'm' and 'p' form a consonant blend that should stay together in the syllable, so we divide after the second consonant. The word follows the VCC/CV pattern because we divide the word after the consonant blend 'mp'." Read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Write the word handsome on the board. Circle the vowels and underline the consonants, pointing out that the blend 'nd' appears as the first two consonants in the VCC/CV pattern.
- Say, "In this case, 'n' and 'd' are a consonant blend that should stay together in a syllable, so we divide after the second consonant."

- Demonstrate dividing the syllables with a slash: hand•some. Read the word aloud with students: first, syllable by syllable, and then, as a whole word.
- Repeat with the words explosion (ex•plo•sion) and mushroom (mush•room).
- Remind students that words with double consonants are usually divided between the consonants, as in ad•dress.
- Point out that consonant digraphs (two consonants that work together to make a single sound) count as one consonant, as with the 'th' in earth•ly.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Write the syllable division subt•rac•tion on the board. Say the word subtraction aloud, emphasizing the consonant blend 'tr'. Ask students to give a thumbs-up if they agree or a thumbs-down if they disagree that this is the correct way to divide subtraction into syllables. (thumbs-down)

Lesson 16: Review: Homophones, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the root dict and the prefix multi-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND PREFIXES: DICT, MULTI- (6 MIN.)

- Write the word parts dict and multi- on the board.
- Tell students that dict is a root and multi- is a prefix.
- Remind students that a root is a word part from which other words are created, and a prefix is a word part added to the beginning of a root to change its meaning.
- Write the word predict on the board.
- Point out that the word predict has two parts: the prefix pre- and the root dict.

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Support

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meaning: multifunctional and multimedia.

- Say, “We already reviewed that the prefix pre- means ‘before.’ The root dict means ‘say, tell, or speak.’”
- Say, “Let’s put these word parts together. If pre- means ‘before’ and dict means ‘say, tell, or speak,’ then predict means ‘to say something before it happens.’”
- Write the words contradict, dictionary, and verdict on the board. Work as a class to break each word into its parts. Circle the roots and underline the affixes. (contradict: contra-, dict; dictionary: dict, -tion, -ary; verdict: ver, dict). Then have students read each word aloud. Provide corrections and definitions as needed.
- Write the word multitask on the board.
- Point out that the word multitask has two parts: the prefix multi- and the root task.
- Tell students that the prefix multi- means “many or much,” and a task is something that has to be done.
- Say, “Let’s put these word parts together. If multi- means ‘many or much’ and task means ‘something that needs to be done,’ then multitask means ‘to do many things at once.’”
- Say, “We can use a dictionary or we can think about how the word is used in a sentence to check our definition. Listen to this sentence: Florence had so many things to do before noon that she had to multitask to get them all done. This sentence tells me that Florence had to do many things at one time, so our definition is correct. To multitask means ‘to do many things at one time.’”
- Write the words multicultural, multitask, and multilevel on the board. Work as a class to break each word into its parts. Circle the roots and underline the affixes. (multicultural: multi-, cultur, -al; multitask: multi-, task; multilevel: multi-, level). Then have students read each word aloud. Provide corrections and definitions as needed.
- Direct students to Activity Page 16.2 and review the instructions. Read the paragraph aloud for students, and have them follow along.
- Have students pick one word with an affix from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the affix changed the meaning of the root word. Then, have students share their partner’s response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 16: Review: Homophones, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Riddle Game” orally with appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) and will answer questions about key details in the text. TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.4

READ “RIDDLE GAME” WITH ACCURACY (10 MIN.)

Activity Page 16.3

Support

Before reading “Riddle Game,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

- Direct students to Activity Page 16.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: multilingual, multitude, dictated, complex
  - phrases: “excitement multiplied,” “What’s the verdict?” “exploded with laughter”
- Remind students that homophones are pairs or sets of words that have the same pronunciation but different meanings and spellings. Prompt students to look for homophones as you read the passage and use context to determine the correct meaning.
- Have students follow along as you read “Riddle Game.”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read the first three or four paragraphs of the passage again, this time without awareness of phrasing and with a flat, expressionless voice. For example, “So, he decided to entertain the children with an exciting word game.”
- Ask students to explain how your voice was different and to identify which reading was the most enjoyable to listen to.
- Confirm that your reading didn’t sound conversational, you didn’t use appropriate phrasing of words, and your reading didn’t have the right rhythm.

TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Review questions and ask them in a yes/no format rather than an open-ended format.

Intermediate

Allow students to work with a partner to answer the discussion questions.

Advanced/ Advanced High

Provide minimal support as students work independently to answer the discussion questions.

ELPS 4.G

- Say, “To read fluently, we have to read accurately and with expressive voices that sound the way the characters would talk. Listen as I reread the sentence: “So, he decided to entertain the children with an exciting word game.”
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., multiple and indicated).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read. Encourage them to read with appropriate expression. Explain that they will be practicing reading with appropriate expression throughout the week.

Wrap-Up

Discussion Questions for “Riddle Game”

1. Literal. What kinds of words does Uncle Alfredo put in the riddles?
  - » Uncle Alfredo puts homophones in the riddles.
2. Literal. What homophones appear in the first two paragraphs of the story?
  - » The word eight appears in the first paragraph, and the word ate appears in the second paragraph.
3. Literal. What is another word for also?
  - » Too is another word for also.
4. Literal. Did anyone win the game? Explain why or why not.
  - » Nobody won. The game finished in a three-way tie.
5. Inferential. Do you think the children solved many riddles or only a few riddles? Why?
  - » The children probably solved many riddles, because the text says they played the game for a long time.

Check for Understanding

Think-Pair-Share: Have students turn and talk to a partner to share their responses to the discussion questions. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their answers. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner’s thinking with the group.

Observation: Discussion Questions Observation Record

- Call on a different student to answer each question. Note students' performance in the Discussion Questions Observation Record.

Lesson 16: Review: Homophones, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words that are homophones.

TEKS 3.2.B.ii; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL HOMOPHONES (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words that are homophones. Explain that you will say a short sentence aloud, and they will identify and spell the correct form of the homophone in that sentence.
- Say, “Melba rode a horse” and emphasize the homophone rode. Repeat the homophone. Say, “In your journal, write rode.”
- Repeat with the remaining sentences with homophones.

- |                                       |                                         |                                       |
|---------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 1. Melba rode a horse.         | 4. Taylor went to the store.     | 7. Mei heard a noise.          |
| 2. Delia combed her hair .     | 5. Ali will write a short story. | 8. Janina saw a herd of goats. |
| 3. Paul raised his right hand. | 6. Gabriel has two sisters.      | 9. Kyle crossed the road .     |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write. Make clear that students are expected to write the full sentence.

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (ii) spelling homophones; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

1. A rabbit is smaller than a hare.
2. I like bananas, but I like peaches too.

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 16: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 16.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 16.3.
- Have them reread “Riddle Game.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 16.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
  - include clear and accurate description, examples, and details to describe both meanings of each homograph pair and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following word on an index card: English. Choose additional Tricky Words to review.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word English and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘eng’ is pronounced /ing/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /ing/ for these letters. We say /l/ for this letter. We say /i/ for this letter. We say /sh/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /ing/ /l/ /i/ /sh/, English. Say, “English! It’s a word we hear all the time, like when we say ‘Uncle Alfredo spoke English, Spanish, and French.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say English. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.
- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Prepare a list of scrambled homophones that students will match.

|                                  |                                      |
|----------------------------------|--------------------------------------|
| 1. course - a golf course        | A. led - led the way                 |
| 2. lead - lead pipes             | B. which - which one                 |
| 3. fur - the dog's fur           | C. hole - hole in the ground         |
| 4. one - one thing after another | D. see - see the light               |
| 5. whole - a whole egg           | E. fir - fir trees                   |
| 6. maid - a maid cleaning        | F. rows - rows of crops              |
| 7. threw - threw the ball        | G. coarse - coarse to the touch      |
| 8. sea - swim in the sea         | H. through - path through the forest |
| 9. witch - a black witch hat     | I. made - made a sandwich            |
| 10. rose - a red rose            | J. won - won the game                |

- Use the chart you prepared in Lesson 16, to present the VCC/CV and VC/CCV Patterns.

| Pattern | Rule                                                   | Examples                                              |
|---------|--------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------|
| VC/CCV  | divide before a consonant blend or a consonant digraph | hun•dredcom•plexex•plode |
| VCC/CV  | divide after a consonant blend or a consonant digraph  | pump•kinking•domath•lete |

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 4 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
  - Have students take turns reading the entire story.

- Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
- Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the story.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: multilingual (text in three or more languages) and multicolored notecards (3 by 5).

Lesson 17: Review: Homophones, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will orally substitute medial sounds to make new words.

TEKS 3.2.A.i

ORALLY SUBSTITUTE SOUNDS TO MAKE NEW WORDS (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that changing one sound in a word can change its meaning.
- Say the word flip. Demonstrate how to make a new word by changing a sound in the middle of the word.
- Say, “If I change the /i/ in the middle of flip to /a/, I can make the word flap.”
- Continue the routine with the remaining examples. Have students create new words by changing one sound in the middle of each word.

| Example | Possible New Word |
|---------|-------------------|
| clock   | click      |
| stomp   | stamp      |
| track   | trick      |
| think   | thank      |
| miss    | mess       |

Foundational Skills
Foundational Literacy Skills

If students struggle with identifying a sound to change in each word, have them first identify the vowel sound in each word. Then have them substitute different vowel sounds until they've created a word.

ELPS 2.A; ELPS 2.B;

ELPS 3.A

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Say the words grass and glass. Ask students to give a thumbs-up if they agree or a thumbs-down if they disagree that you can change grass into glass by changing one sound. (thumbs-up)

TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en.

Lesson 17: Review: Homophones, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will identify and read homophones. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.3.D

Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the VC/CCV and VCC/CV

patterns. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.iv

READ HOMOPHONES (3 MIN.)

- Display the list of scrambled homophone pairs you prepared in advance.
- Explain that the class will work together to match all the homophones in the first column with the ones in the second column.
- Read aloud the homophone course and its short phrase, and then have students read the word aloud.
- Ask, “Which homophone in the second column matches this one?” (coarse) Read aloud the homophone coarse and its short phrase, and then have students read the word aloud.
- Continue with the remaining homophones.
- Direct students to Activity Page 17.1 and review the instructions. If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH THE VC/CCV AND VCC/CV PATTERNS (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they can look for patterns of vowels and consonants to divide syllables, in order to make it easier to read longer words.
- Display the chart you prepared in advance for Lesson 16.

TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.2.A.iv Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts.

Activity Page 17.1

Challenge

Challenge student volunteers to define each word in the homophone pairs. Provide corrections as needed.

- Explain that when three consonants appear between two vowels, the word is often divided after the first consonant, but the division depends on whether two of the consonants blend together. Consonant blends stay together in a syllable.
- Point to VC/CCV on the chart. Say, “If the single consonant appears before the consonant blend, the word has a VC/CCV pattern, like com•plex.”
- Point to VCC/CV on the chart. Say, “If the consonant blend appears before the single consonant, the word has a VCC/VC pattern, like king•dom.”
- Write the words sandwich, conclusion, extremely, and inspection.
- Ask student volunteers to approach the board. First ask them to mark vowels and consonants and identify blends/digraphs. Then have them use a slash to divide the word into syllables and read it aloud. (sand•wich, con•clu•sion, ex•tre•me•ly, in•spec•tion)

Lesson 17: Review: Homophones, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the root dict and the prefix multi-. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND PREFIXES: DICT, MULTI- (6 MIN.)

- Write the word parts dict and multi- on the board.
- Remind students that dict is a root that means “say, tell, or speak” and multi- is a prefix that means “many or much.”
- Divide students into small groups.
- Ask students in each group to work together to write sentences. First, have them write sentences that include words with the root dict. Then have them write sentences that include words with the prefix multi-.
- Have groups swap sentences and identify the dict and multi- words.

Support

If students struggle to generate dict and multi- words, provide examples such as contradict, indicate, predict, multipurpose, multiuse, and multivitamin.

TEKS 3.2.A.v Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.2.B.vi Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

- Collect students' sentences. Read the sentences aloud, and work with the class to define the dict and multi- words words used.
- Direct students to Activity Page 17.2 and review the instructions.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 17: Review: Homophones, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will reread “Riddle Game” fluently with a partner.

TEKS 3.1.D; TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.4

REREAD “RIDDLE GAME” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s text with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the text.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 16.3. Tell students that today they will reread “Riddle Game” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “Riddle Game.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.
- After students read the passage, have them work together to
  - underline words that are homophones,
  - circle words that have prefix multi- or root dict, and
  - highlight multisyllabic words with the VCCCV pattern.

TEKS 3.1.D Work collaboratively with others by following agreed-upon rules, norms, and protocols; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

LANGUAGE
LEARNERS

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Work with student pairs to identify a few words that are homophones.

Intermediate

Have students share their annotations with another student.

Advanced/
Advanced High

Encourage students to read aloud the words they annotate to a partner.

ELPS 4.A

- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Challenge

Challenge students to annotate the homophones by writing other spellings or meanings they know.

Observation: “Riddle Game” Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read “Riddle Game,” make notes about the student’s reading, such as errors in fluency or prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 17: Review: Homophones, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words that are homophones.

TEKS 3.2.B.ii; TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL HOMOPHONES (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words that are homophones. Explain that you will say a short sentence aloud, and they will identify and spell the correct form of the homophone in that sentence.
- Say, “I ate a whole apple” and emphasize the homophone whole. Repeat the homophone. Have students write the correct form of the homophone in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining sentences with homophones.

- |                                     |                                       |                                       |
|-------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 1. I ate a whole apple.      | 4. I can see you.                     | 7. The sun rose at 6:00 a.m.   |
| 2. He won a contest.         | 5. The dog dug a hole .        | 8. Their cat is named Mittens. |
| 3. The glass is over there . | 6. She planted seeds in rows . | 9. The octopus lives in the sea.      |

TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (ii) spelling homophones; (iv) spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write. Make clear that students are expected to write the full sentence.

1. I lost one sock.
2. They're best friends.

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Lesson 17: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 17.1 for each student.
- Review the directions. Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to complete the activity.
- When students are finished writing, ask pairs to share and check each other's work.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about "Riddle Game" on Activity Page TR 16.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.

- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say English and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly, ingllliish. Write the letters to spell English on the board.
- Point to the word English and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /ing/ sound is spelled ‘eng.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “We say /ing/ for these letters. We say /l/ for this letter. We say /i/ for this letter. We say /sh/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /ing/ /l/ /i/ /sh/, English. Say, “English! It’s a word we use all the time.”
- Repeat with the additional words you reviewed. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.

- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.
- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.
- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

REVIEW

Homographs

PRIMARY FOCUS OF LESSON

Warm-Up

- Students will orally substitute final sounds to make new words. TEKS 3.2.A.i

Phonics—Decoding

- Students will identify and read homographs. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.3.D
- Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the VC/CCV and VCC/CV patterns. TEKS 3.2.A.i, TEKS 3.2.A.iv

Morphology

- Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the roots graph and scrib/script. TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

Reading

Students will read “Photography and Cameras” fluently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Prepare a chart to present the VC/CCV and VCC/CV Patterns

| Pattern | Rule                                                   | Examples                                              |
|---------|--------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------|
| VC/CCV  | divide before a consonant blend or a consonant digraph | hun•dredcom•plexex•plode |
| VCC/CV  | divide after a consonant blend or a consonant digraph  | pump•kinking•domath•lete |

Reading

- To ensure all students have the opportunity to contribute during Turn and Talk and Think-Pair-Share exchanges, provide students with a signal such as a thumbs-up, putting both hands up, or folding their hands, to indicate when both partners have added to the conversation. This ready signal allows you to quickly scan the room and assess who is ready and who may need more assistance.

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: cameras, landscapes, cuddly pets, whooping cranes, construction cranes, viewfinder (camera), shutter (camera), zoom lens, digital cameras, and microchip.

Lesson 18: Review: Homographs, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will orally substitute final sounds to make new words.

 TEKS 3.2.A.i

ORALLY SUBSTITUTE SOUNDS TO MAKE NEW WORDS (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that changing one sound in a word can change its meaning.
- Say the word flip. Demonstrate how to make a new word by changing the final sound of the word.
- Say, “If I change the /p/ at the end of flip to /k/, I can make the word flick.”
- Continue the routine with the remaining examples. Have students create new words by changing the final sound of each word.

| Example | Possible New Word |
|---------|-------------------|
| steep   | steel      |
| wheat   | wheel      |
| gate    | game       |
| bite    | bike       |
| snack   | snap       |

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Say the words grab and grasp. Ask students to give a thumbs-up if they agree or a thumbs-down if they disagree that you can change grab into grasp by changing one sound. (thumbs-down)

 TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en.

Lesson 18: Review: Homographs, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will identify and read homographs. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.3.D

Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the VC/CCV and VCC/CV

patterns. TEKS 3.2.A.i, TEKS 3.2.A.iv

READ HOMOGRAPHS (3 MIN.)

- Say, “Homographs are words that are spelled the same but may have different pronunciations and have different meanings.”
- Say wind (/i/) and wind (/ie/) as you write the words on the board. Have students read the words aloud.
- Say, “These words are spelled the same, but they make different sounds and have different meanings. They are homographs. The meaning tells us how to pronounce this homograph.”
- Say, “The wind blew hard during the storm.”
- Say, “Please wind the yarn into a ball.”
- Work with students to generate additional sentences using each homograph.
- Repeat the routine with the following homographs:
  - tear: “Did you tear the paper?” “A tear rolled down his cheek.”
  - read: “I like to read.” “I read an article yesterday.”
  - present: “I gave my brother a present.” “We need to present our ideas to the class.”
  - record: “My dad will record the concert.” “A diary is a written record of a person’s life.”
  - desert: “Cacti thrive in the desert.” “Birds will desert their nests when they migrate for the winter.”

Challenge

Challenge partners or small groups to use as many words from the activity page as they can to create a paragraph or short story.

TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.2.A.iv Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts.

CONSTRUCT AND READ WORDS WITH THE VC/CCV AND VCC/CV PATTERNS (3 MIN.)

Activity Page 18.1

- Display the chart you prepared in advance.
- Point out the VC/CCV pattern, and read aloud the rule for dividing words with the VC/CCV pattern. Repeat with the VCC/CV pattern.
- Direct students to Activity Page 18.1 and review the instructions.
- Explain that you will be creating words with a VC/CCV or VCC/CV pattern in both parts of the activity page. In Part 1, students will be choosing second syllables to complete VC/CCV or VCC/CV words. In Part 2, students will be choosing first syllables to complete VC/CCV or VCC/CV words.
- Model how to complete the first item in Part 1. Read the first syllable, 'fair', aloud. Explain to students that you are going to construct words by adding ending syllables from the Syllable Bank.
- Ask, "Which ending created a real word?" (ground) "Which word did it create?" Read the word aloud with students. (fairground)
- Complete the rest of Part 1 of the activity page as a class.
- Model how to complete the first item of Part 2. Read the syllable -treme aloud. Explain to students that you are going to construct words by adding beginning syllables from the Syllable Bank.
- Ask, "Which beginning syllable created a real word?" (ex) "Which word did it create?" Read the word aloud with students. (extreme)
- Complete the rest of Part 2 of the activity page as a class.

Lesson 18: Review: Homographs, Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use words with the roots graph and scrib/script.

TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

ROOT WORDS AND SUFFIXES: GRAPH, SCRIB/SCRIPT (6 MIN.)

- Write telegraph on the board, and read it aloud. Then have students read it aloud.
- Say, “The word telegraph has two parts: the prefix tele- and the root graph.”
- Remind students that a root is a word part from which other words are created, and a prefix is a word part added to the beginning of a root to change its meaning.
- Say, “We already reviewed that the prefix tele- means ‘distant or far’ and that a telegraph is a device that allows people to send written messages across far distances.”
- Write the root graph on the board.
- Ask, “Based on this information, we can figure out that the root graph means ‘write or draw.’”
- Write the words autograph, paragraph, and graphics on the board. Ask student volunteers to read the words aloud and provide definitions: autograph (“a signature, or a type of writing that is unique to the self”), paragraph (“written sentences or parts of writing that are organized under one another to make a text”), and graphics (“pictures or drawings”). Provide examples of the words in sentences if students cannot decode and define the words. Offer corrections as needed.
- Write the word scribble on the board, and read it aloud. Then have students read it aloud.

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (vi) spelling words using knowledge of prefixes; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Support

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meanings: scriptwriter and postscript.

ENGLISH
LANGUAGE
LEARNERS

Language

Learning How English Works

Beginning

Review the meaning of the root graph with a demonstration. Point to the graphite tip of a pencil. Say, “A tip of a pencil is made of graphite. We use graphite to write.”

Intermediate

Ask students to act out a word with the root graph or the root scrib/script. For example, a student may mimic taking a photograph.

Advanced/ Advanced High

Have students say a sentence using a word with the root graph or the root scrib/script.

ELPS 1.E

---

- Ask a student volunteer to define the word. (to write quickly or messily)
- Write the root scrib/script on the board.
- Say, “The root scrib/script also means ‘to write.’”
- Write the words describe, manuscript, and prescription on the board: describe (“to give an account of; to tell about”), manuscript (“a text that has not yet been published”) and prescription (“instructions written by a doctor for medicine or treatment”). Ask student volunteers to read the words aloud and provide definitions. Provide examples of the words in sentences if students cannot decode and define the words. Offer corrections as needed.
- Direct students to Activity Page 18.2 and review the instructions.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 18: Review: Homographs, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Photography and Cameras” fluently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

✚ TEKS 3.1.A; TEKS 3.2.A.i, TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.4

READ “PHOTOGRAPHY AND CAMERAS” (10 MIN.)

- Direct students to Activity Page 18.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: producing, duplicate, graphic
  - phrases: “earthly landscapes,” “capture images,” “scribble descriptive words”
  - domain-specific language: macro lens, microchip, visual effects, shutter
- Remind students that homographs are pairs or sets of words that have the same spelling but different meanings and possibly different pronunciations. Prompt students to look for homographs as you read the passage and use context to determine the correct meaning.
- Have students follow along as you read “Photography and Cameras.”
- Read the passage once without interruption, modeling how to read accurately. Read at a rate that is neither too slow nor too fast and allows you to read with appropriate expression.
- Read a few lines of the passage again, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., viewfinder and techniques).
- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Read the passage once more with the whole class as a choral read or have students read it independently.

✚ TEKS 3.1.A Listen actively, ask relevant questions to clarify information, and make pertinent comments; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Support

Have students reread or scan the text to look for key ideas and details as they answer the comprehension questions.

Before reading “Photography and Cameras,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

LEARNERS

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Have a strong reader work with a struggling reader to complete the comprehension questions.

Intermediate

Have a small group read the first paragraph together, taking turns, and work together to complete the comprehension questions.

Advanced/ Advanced High

Have students read independently and then work with a partner to share their responses to the comprehension questions.

ELPS 4.1

- Then have them turn to Activity Page 18.4 and complete the comprehension questions. If they don't complete the activity page, instruct them to work on it at home.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Turn and Talk: Have student pairs discuss and compare their answers to the comprehension questions. Remind students to be sure to cite specifics from the passage to support their answers. Tell students to signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation. Call on students to share their partner's thinking with the group.

Lesson 18: Review: Homographs, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words that are homographs.

 TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL HOMOGRAPHS (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words that are homographs. Explain that you will say a short sentence aloud, and they will spell the homograph in that sentence.
- Say, “The wind blew the leaves” and emphasize the homograph wind. Repeat the homograph. Have students write the homograph in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining sentences with homographs.

 TEKS 3.2.B.iv Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

- |                                            |                                                   |                                                                          |
|--------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1. The wind blew the leaves.        | 4. It is your turn to present your report. | 7. I like to read before I go to sleep.                           |
| 2. Have you read that book?         | 5. The toy car moves when you wind it up.  | 8. Sheila wrapped the present .                                   |
| 3. Penny wiped a tear from her eye. | 6. We will record a message.               | 9. Do you know the school record for the number of wins in a row? |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell in their dictation journal.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write. Make clear that students are expected to write the full sentence.

- |                                      |
|--------------------------------------|
| 1. Be careful not to tear the paper. |
| 2. It is very hot in the desert.     |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 18: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 18.1 for each student.
- Direct students to Activity Page 18.3.
- Have them reread “Photography and Cameras.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 18.1.

- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Tell students that they will have a chance to share their responses with the class.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Write the following word on an index card: material. Choose additional Tricky Words to review.
- Say, “Today we will review some Tricky Words together. You can try to sound out these words, just like you’ve been doing. But some letters in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect. That’s what makes them tricky.”
- Display and point to the word material and say, “This word is tricky because the ‘er’ is pronounced /ir/. The ‘i’ is pronounced /ee/, and the ‘al’ is pronounced /əl/.”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “Let’s sound out this word. My turn first.”
- Point to the letters as you say them. Say, “In this word, we say /m/ for this letter. We say /ə/ for this letter. We say /t/ for this letter. We say /ir/ for these letters. We say /ee/ for this letter. We say /əl/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /m/ /ə/ /t/ /ir/ /ee/ /əl/, material. Say, “Material! It’s a word we hear all the time, like when we say ‘Film is a thin, clear material that changes when light enters through the lens.’”
- Say, “Now it’s your turn. When I touch the letters, you say the sounds and then read the word.” Touch the letters as you blend and read the word aloud with students. Correct any students who blend the sounded out word incorrectly. Say, “We say material. What’s the word?”
- Repeat the steps when introducing the remaining words, mapping the correct sounds to the letters in the irregular word.

- Once each of the new Tricky Words have been introduced, tape the index cards on the board in a random arrangement.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all of the new words we just learned. Ready?” Point to words randomly, pausing on each for a few seconds. Call on individual students to read multiple words as you point to them.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Have students take turns reading each Tricky Word to a partner.
- Say each Tricky Word aloud. Using a yardstick, have individual students point to the Tricky Word you say aloud.
- Use each Tricky Word aloud in a sentence. Call on students to come up and point to the correct Tricky Word when they hear it in the sentence you say aloud.
- Have students search the lesson passage to find the Tricky Words. Then have them read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Reading

- Ensure you have the Unit 4 Anecdotal Reading Record that you prepared in Lesson 2.
- Plan how you will pair students for partner reading.
- Partner reading options may include the following:
  - Have students take turns reading the entire text.
  - Have one student be the leader, reading a line at a time for the partner to echo.
  - Have students read chorally, keeping their voices together to read the text.

Phonics—Decoding

- Prepare a chart to present the VCC/CV and VC/CCV Patterns

| Pattern | Rule                                                   | Examples                                              |
|---------|--------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------|
| VC/CCV  | divide before a consonant blend or a consonant digraph | hun•dredcom•plexex•plode |
| VCC/CV  | divide after a consonant blend or a consonant digraph  | pump•kinking•domath•lete |

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: cameras, landscapes, cuddly pets, whooping cranes, construction cranes, viewfinder (camera), shutter (camera), zoom lens, digital cameras, and microchip.

Lesson 19: Review Homographs, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will identify and read homographs. TEKS 3.2.A.i

READ HOMOGRAPHS (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that homographs are two or more words that are spelled the same but can have different pronunciations and have different meanings.
- Ask, “Do homographs have different meanings?” (yes)
- Say bow (/oe/) and bow (/ou/) as you write the words on the board. Have students read the words aloud.
- Say, “Pretend like you are tying a bow (/oe/).” Do the action with the students.
- Say, “Take a bow (/ou/).” Do the action with the students.
- Read aloud close (/s/) and close (/z/) as you write the words on the board. Have students read the words aloud.
- Say, “Put two objects on your desk close to each other (/s/).” Do the action with the students.
- Say, “Pretend to close a window (/z/).” Do the action with the students.

Challenge

Have students generate sentences with the pairs of homographs used in the Warm-Up.

ENGLISH
LANGUAGE
LEARNERS
Foundational Skills
Foundational Literacy Skills
Beginning

Ask yes or no questions to reinforce homographs in the activity. For example: When you bow (/ou/), do you bend your body forward? (yes) Is a bow (/oe/) something you can make with string or ribbon? (yes)

Intermediate

Have volunteers complete this sentence frame: When you get next to someone, you stand _____ to them. (close [/s/])

Advanced/
Advanced High

Have students answer a question to practice using homographs from the activity. For example: Where might you put a bow (/oe/)? (in your hair)

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Primary Focus: Students will identify and read homographs. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.3.D

Students will divide and read multisyllabic words with the VC/CCV and VCC/CV

Primary Focus: patterns. TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.iv

TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as igh, ough, and en; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.2.A.iv Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts.

READ HOMOGRAPHS (3 MIN.)

- Say, “Let’s continue to review homographs.”
- Say, “Remember, homographs are two or more words that are spelled the same but can have different pronunciations and have different meanings.”
- Say dove (/ə/) and dove (/oɛ/) as you write the words on the board. Have students read the words aloud.
- Say, “These words are spelled the same, but they make different sounds and have different meanings. They are homographs.”
- Write the following sentence on the board: A dove is a kind of bird. Say, “A dove (/ə/) is a kind of bird.”
- Write the following sentence on the board: Mia dove into the pool. Say, “Mia dove (/oɛ/) into the pool.”
- Work with students to generate additional sentences using each homograph.
- Repeat the routine with the following homographs:
  - live: “Where do you live?” “I love listening to live music.”
  - content: “The video’s content was interesting.” “Seeing a rainbow makes me feel content.”
  - object: “What is that object in the distance?” “My parents will object to us having ice cream for breakfast.”
- Direct students to Activity Page 19.1 and review the instructions.
- Complete the first item as a class.
- Circulate as students work on the activity page.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

DIVIDE AND READ WORDS WITH THE VC/CCV AND VCC/CV PATTERNS (3 MIN.)

- Remind students that they can look for patterns of vowels and consonants to divide syllables, in order to make it easier to read longer words.
- Display the chart you prepared in advance.
- Point out the VC/CCV pattern and read aloud the rule for dividing words with the VC/CCV pattern.

- Using a slash, write the following incorrect syllable division of conclusion on the board: conc•lu•sion.
- Say, “Raise your right hand if you think I divided the word correctly. Raise your left hand if you think I divided the word incorrectly.” (left hand; incorrect)
- Have a student approach the board to correctly divide the word: con•clu•sion. Remind students that consonant blends like ‘cl’ stay together in the same syllable.
- Have students read the word aloud.
- Point out the VC/CCV pattern, and read aloud the rule for dividing words with the VC/CCV pattern.
- Using a slash, write the following incorrect syllable division of explosion on the board: exp•lo•sion.
- Say, “Raise your right hand if you think I divided the word correctly. Raise your left hand if you think I divided the word incorrectly.” (left hand; incorrect)
- Have a student approach the board to correctly divide the word: ex•plo•sion. Remind students that consonant blends like ‘pl’ stay together in the same syllable.
- Have students read the word aloud.
- Write the following correct syllable division of concentrate on the board: con•cen•trate.
- Say, “Raise your right hand if you think I divided the word correctly. Raise your left hand if you think I divided the word incorrectly.” (right hand; correct)
- Have students read the word aloud.
- Repeat with the following VCC/CV words: pumpkin, sandwich, mushroom, punctuation.

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Write and read aloud the word exclusion and the syllable division ex•clu•sion. Ask students to give a thumbs-up if they agree or a thumbs-down if they disagree that this is the correct way to divide exclusion into syllables. (thumbs-up)

Lesson 19: Review Homographs; Part 1

Morphology

Primary Focus: Students will identify the meaning of and use adjectives with the suffix -ly. TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

SUFFIXES: -LY (ADJECTIVES) (6 MIN.)

- Say, “Remember, a suffix is a word part added to the end of a root to change its meaning or part of speech.”
- Write the suffix -ly on board.
- Say, “Remember, the suffix -ly is often added to the end of a root word to make an adverb.”
- Write the following sentence: The girls laughed loudly. Read the sentence aloud.
- Ask, “Which word describes how students laughed?” (loudly)
- Ask, “What is the root word of loudly?” (loud)
- Say, “The adverb loudly means ‘in a loud way.’”
- Ask volunteers to identify other adverbs they have learned about that end in -ly. Write each on the board, and have students read them aloud. (e.g., calmly, bravely, quietly)
- Say, “The suffix -ly can also be added to a root word to create an adjective.”
- Write the word friend on the board. Have students read it aloud. Point out that friend is a noun.
- Demonstrate adding the suffix -ly to create friendly.
- Use the word in a sentence: When we were sick, our friendly neighbor made us soup.
- Ask students to define friendly in their own words. (e.g., kind, pleasant, nice)

TEKS 3.2.A.vi Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B.vii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

- Repeat the routine with the following root words: mother, kind, live, body, hour, love. Point out spelling changes as needed, such as dropping changing 'y' to 'i' before adding -ly to form bodily.
- Direct students to Activity Page 19.2 and review the instructions.
- Have students pick one word from the activity page and work with a partner to discuss how the new affix changed the meaning of the word. Then, have students share their partner's response.
- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Support

---

It might be helpful to define the following root words to help students understand how the affix changes their meaning: fondly, monthly, and sickly.

Lesson 19: Review: Homographs, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “Photography and Cameras” fluently with a partner. TEKS 3.1.D; TEKS 3.2.A.iv; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.4

REREAD “PHOTOGRAPHY AND CAMERAS” (10 MIN.)

Note: Students will read today’s text with a partner. You may wish to review the partner reading routines before they read the text.

- Direct students back to the passage on Activity Page 18.3. Tell students that today they will reread “Photography and Cameras” with a partner.
- Take time to answer any questions that students may have about “Photography and Cameras.”
- Assign partners.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace. Explain that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Their reading should sound like conversation. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis, inflection, and expression. Explain that they should also read accurately, pausing to sound out unfamiliar words or rereading as needed.
- Have partners use one of the partner reading routines to read the text.
- Students may ask their partners questions about the text and discuss what they read.
- Remind students to listen carefully while their partner reads.
- Tell students that after they finish reading, they should work together to
  - underline homographs,
  - circle words with the suffix -ly, and
  - highlight words with the syllable patterns VC/CCV and VCC/CV.

TEKS 3.1.D Work collaboratively with others by following agreed-upon rules, norms, and protocols; TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (iv) decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.4 Use appropriate fluency (rate, accuracy, and prosody) when reading grade-level text.

Activity Page 18.3

- If time allows, have students work on the activity page in class. If not, ask students to complete it at home.
- Go over student responses and offer general feedback or provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Observation: “Photography and Cameras”
Anecdotal Reading Record

As you listen to each student read “Photography and Cameras,” make notes about the student’s reading, such as errors in fluency or prosody, in the Anecdotal Reading Record.

Lesson 19: Review: Homographs, Part 2

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will spell and write words that are homographs.

TEKS 3.2.B.iv

SPELL HOMOGRAPHS (5 MIN.)

- Explain that students will write in their dictation journal.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words that are homographs. Explain that you will say a sentence aloud, and they will identify and spell the homograph pair in that sentence.
- Say, “The dove dove out of the tree. Write the homograph in your journal.” (dove) Have students write only the homograph in their dictation journal.
- Repeat with the remaining sentences.

TEKS 3.2.B.iv Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns.

Support

Have students work on one annotation at a time. For example, first have them look for homographs. Then have them look for words with the suffix -ly, and so on.

ENGLISH LANGUAGE LEARNERS

Reading

Reading Closely

Beginning

Work with student pairs to identify a few words with the suffix -ly.

Intermediate

Have students share their annotations with another student.

Advanced/Advanced High

Encourage students to read aloud the words they annotate to a partner.

ELPS 4.A

- |                                                                              |                                                                                                        |                                                                       |

| 1. The dove dove out of the tree.                              | 4. I like to wind my way around the beach path on days when there is a lot of wind .     | 7. Do you object to moving that object to the bookcase? |
| 2. He shed a tear when he saw the tear in his book.            | 5. I used to live in a lush, green place where there were many live plants.              | 8. The doctor wound a bandage around the wound .        |
| 3. When she took a bow on stage, the bow fell out of her hair. | 6. First close the door, and then put your wet shoes close to your umbrella in the hall. | 9. Let's record a video for the official record .       |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

Note: You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow's lesson.

Check for Understanding

Circulate as students are working or collect their dictation journals to review and monitor their spelling progress.

Students may benefit from completing the activity in pairs. Consider pairing stronger students with those who may need extra help.

Lesson 19: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

PHONICS SUPPORT

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 19.1 for each student.
- Review the directions as a class.
- When students are finished, ask pairs to share and check each other's work.

SHARING

- Pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “Photography and Cameras” on Activity Page TR 18.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.
- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Tell students that they will be using their dictation journals to spell Tricky Words.
- Remind them that they can segment sounds to help spell the parts of the word that are not “tricky.”
- Say material and use it in a sentence. Then elongate the sounds as you repeat the word slowly: mətireeəl. Write the letters to spell material on the board.
- Point to the word material and say, “Let’s sound out this word to check that I’ve spelled it correctly. This word is tricky because the /ir/ sound is spelled ‘er’, the /ee/ sound is spelled ‘i’, and the /əl/ sound is spelled ‘al.’”
- Show how the letters map to the sounds. Say, “We say /m/ for this letter. We say /ə/ for this letter. We say /t/ for this letter. We say /ir/ for these letters. We say /ee/ for this letter. We say /əl/ for these letters.” Point to the letters as you blend the sounds: /m/ /ə/ /t/ /ir/ /ee/ /əl/, material. Say, “Material! It’s a word we use all the time.”
- Repeat with the additional words you reviewed. Say the word and use it in a sentence. Elongate the sounds as you repeat the word, and have students write it in their journals. Then have them read it quietly to themselves to check their work.
- After spelling and writing the Tricky Words in their journal, have students volunteer to choose a Tricky Word and spell it out for you to write on the board. Have a different student read the word aloud to check that the word is spelled correctly.

Additional Ways to Practice Tricky Words

- Assign partners. Tell student pairs that they will give each other a “spelling test” on today’s Tricky Words. Have one student say a Tricky Word aloud while the other student writes it down, taking turns and choosing a new word with each turn. Encourage students to sound out the word as they write it in their journals, paying attention to the tricky spellings in the words.
- Have one partner use each Tricky Word in a sentence. The other partner should listen for and write the Tricky Word they hear in the sentence. Partners should then work together to check the spelling of the word by spelling the word together aloud and comparing it to how it was written. Partners can then reverse roles.

- Have students pull the passage to read sentences that use the Tricky Words. One student can read the sentence in which the Tricky Word appears, and the partner can spell the Tricky Word. After they check for the correct spelling, partners can reverse roles.

REVIEW

Mixed Review

PRIMARY FOCUS OF LESSON

Warm-Up

- Students will review orally substituting sounds to make new words. TEKS 3.2.A.i

Phonics—Decoding

Students will review the homophones they studied this week.

- TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.3.D

- Students will review sorting words by syllable division patterns. TEKS 3.2.A.iv

Morphology

Students will review identifying the meaning of and using words with roots and

- suffixes. TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

Reading

Students will read “How to Grow a Sunflower” independently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

ADVANCE PREPARATION

Phonics—Decoding

- Have students cut word cards on Activity Page 20.1 for the Homophone Matchmaker game.
- Create a two-column chart on the board for use in the Syllable Division activity.

| Word     | Group |
|----------|-------|
| broken   |       |
| handsome |       |
| member   |       |
| cabin    |       |
| quiet    |       |
| pencil   |       |
| control  |       |
| flavor   |       |
| sandwich |       |
| liar     |       |
| shovel   |       |
| angry    |       |

- Prepare a chart to present the VC/CV, CV/VC, VC/V, V/CV, VCC/CV and VC/CCV Patterns

| Pattern | Rule                                                                                                              | Examples                                              |
|---------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------|
| VC/CV   | When two consonants stand between two vowels, we usually divide the word between the two consonants.              | din•nerprac•ticecac•tus  |
| CV/VC   | When two vowels stand between two consonants, we usually divide the word between the two vowels.                  | me•owpo•emsci•ence       |
| VC/V    | When one consonant stands between two vowels, we divide after the consonant if the first vowel has a short sound. | fin•ishcam•elmag•ic      |
| V/CV    | When one constant stands between two vowels, we divide before the consonant if the first vowel has a long sound.  | si•lenta•genthu•man      |
| VC/CCV  | When three consonants stand between two vowels, we divide before a consonant blend or a consonant digraph.        | hun•dredcom•plexex•plode |
| VCC/CV  | When three consonants stand between two vowels, we divide after a consonant blend or a consonant digraph.         | pump•kinking•domath•lete |

Universal Access

- Gather pictures to represent the words in the Reading activity: sunflower, pot (large flower pot), trowel, potting soil (open bag), watering can.

Lesson 20: Mixed Review, Part 1

Warm-Up

Primary Focus: Students will review orally substituting sounds to make new words. TEKS 3.2.A.i

REVIEW: SUBSTITUTE SOUNDS TO MAKE NEW WORDS (3 MIN.)

- Explain that you are going to say words. Students will change sounds at the beginning, middle, or end of the word to make a new word.
- Say the word bean as you write it on the board. Demonstrate how to make a new word by changing the sound at the end of the word. Read the word.
- Say, “If I change the /n/ at the end of bean to /t/, I can make the word beat.”
- Create the chart below and write the words one at a time.
- Have students read the word aloud.
- Then have them create a new word by changing the sound at the beginning, middle, or end of each word. Accept all correct responses and write them on the board.
- Have students read the new words aloud.

| Example | Possible New Word |
|---------|-------------------|
| draft   | drift      |
| flame   | frame      |
| sling   | cling      |
| crank   | prank      |
| form    | fort       |

TEKS 3.2.A.i Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en.

Lesson 20: Mixed Review, Part 1

Phonics—Decoding

Primary Focus

Students will review the homophones they studied this week.

 TEKS 3.2.A.i; TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.3.D

 Students will review sorting words by syllable division patterns. TEKS 3.2.A.iv

REVIEW HOMOPHONES (3 MIN.)

- Tell students that they are going to play a game of Homophone Matchmaker. Have students work in pairs.
- Refer students to the Word Cards on Activity Page 20.1 that they cut apart in advance.
- Have students shuffle the cards and place them face down on the table or floor, in rows and columns.
- Explain how the game is played:
  - Students take turns flipping over two cards at a time to try to make a match.
  - Students should read the cards aloud to determine if the cards match, or they sound the same.
  - If there is a match, the student who flipped the cards over keeps the matching pair. If the cards do not match, the student turns them over and tries again.
  - When students find a match, ask them to use each word of the pair in an oral sentence.
- Circulate as students work, clearing up misunderstandings.

REVIEW SYLLABLE DIVISION PATTERNS (3 MIN.)

- Tell students that they are going to play a game to review syllable division patterns.

 TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (i) decoding multisyllabic words with multiple sound-spelling patterns such as eigh, ough, and en; (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.2.A.iv Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV with accent shifts.

Activity Page 20.1

Language

Learning How English Works

Beginning

Review the meaning of words from the cards with a demonstration. For example, point to the card for road. Pretend to drive. Say, "I am driving down a road."

Intermediate

Ask students to act out a word from the word cards. For example, a student may shake their head for no.

Advanced/
Advanced High

Have students define a word from the cards in their own words.

ELPS 1.E

- Display the chart you prepared in advance as a reference for students.
- Divide the class into six groups. Designate a division pattern for each group:
  - Group 1: VC/CV
  - Group 2: CV/VC
  - Group 3: VC/CCV
  - Group 4: VCC/CV
  - Group 5: VC/V
  - Group 6: V/CV
- Display the two-column chart you prepared in advance. Ask students to identify the words that match their designated rule. Have a representative from each group approach the board one at a time to write the group number next to the appropriate word(s) on the board.
- Review responses and make corrections as needed using the second column of the chart below.

| Word     | Group |
|----------|-------|
| broken   | 6     |
| handsome | 4     |
| member   | 1     |
| cabin    | 5     |
| quiet    | 2     |
| pencil   | 1     |
| control  | 3     |
| flavor   | 6     |
| sandwich | 4     |
| liar     | 2     |
| shovel   | 5     |
| angry    | 3     |

Check for Understanding

Thumbs-Up/Thumbs-Down: Write the word complete on the board. Say, “This word belongs to Group 3.” Have students give a thumbs-up if they agree or a thumbs-down if they don’t. (thumbs-up; it is a VC/CCV word)

Lesson 20: Mixed Review, Part 1

Morphology

Support

In their own words, have students explain the difference between a prefix and a suffix. (A prefix is a word part that goes at the beginning of a root word; a suffix is a word part that goes at the end of a root word.)

Activity Page 20.2

Primary Focus: Students will review identifying the meaning of and using words with roots and suffixes. TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.2.B.vii; TEKS 3.3.C

REVIEW ROOT WORDS AND AFFIXES (6 MIN.)

- Tell students that they are going to work in pairs to review root words and affixes.
- Direct students to Activity Page 20.2 and review the instructions.
- Sort a few roots and affixes as a class.
- Have partners work on the activity page in class.
- Circulate as students work. If needed, students may complete the activity page at home.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

TEKS 3.2.A.vi Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.2.B.vii Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful.

Support

Lesson 20: Mixed Review, Part 2

Reading

Primary Focus: Students will read “How to Grow a Sunflower” independently and will answer questions about key details in the text.

TEKS 3.2.A.ii; TEKS 3.2.A.iii; TEKS 3.2.A.v; TEKS 3.2.A.vi; TEKS 3.3.C; TEKS 3.3.D; TEKS 3.5

READ “HOW TO GROW A SUNFLOWER” INDEPENDENTLY (10 MIN.)

Note: The passage is a procedural text about growing a sunflower plant. You may wish to point out some of the text features of procedural texts with students, such as bulleted material list, numbered steps, and domain-specific language related to gardening.

- Tell students they will be reading “How to Grow a Sunflower” independently. Direct students to Activity Page 20.3.
- Define unfamiliar words, phrases, and domain-specific language for students. You may want to include the following:
  - words: precision, depth, diameter, unsightly, transportable
  - phrases: “green thumb,” “simple formula”
  - domain-specific language: pot’s base, hydrate, sprout, development, harvested
- Remind students that homophones are pairs or sets of words that have the same pronunciation but different meanings and spellings and that homographs are pairs or sets of words that have the same spelling but different meanings and possibly different pronunciations. Prompt students to look for homographs and homophones as you read the passage and use context to determine the correct meaning.
- Read a few lines of the passage, modeling how to sound out unfamiliar words (e.g., descriptive, resemble, indication).

TEKS 3.2.A Demonstrate and apply phonetic knowledge by (ii) decoding multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (iii) decoding compound words, contractions, and abbreviations; (v) decoding words using knowledge of prefixes; (vi) decoding words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants; TEKS 3.3.C Identify the meaning of and use words with affixes such as im- (into), non-, dis-, in- (not, non), pre-, -ness, -y, and -ful; TEKS 3.3.D Identify, use, and explain the meaning of antonyms, synonyms, idioms, homophones, and homographs in a text; TEKS 3.5 Self-select text and read independently for a sustained period of time.

Have students focus on one annotation at a time. For example, first have them read and write one contraction. For the next reading, have them write one possessive, and so on.

Before reading “How to Grow a Sunflower,” show the images you prepared in advance. Have students repeat the word after you as you show each image.

Activity Pages

Language

---

Learning How English Works

Beginning

Help students with the challenging grammatical structure in the first sentence: “Growing a sunflower can be an enjoyable and rewarding activity.” Explain the gerund by saying that growing a sunflower is something that people do. Doing this is enjoyable, and rewarding means that you can learn from it.

Intermediate

Direct students to the sentence in the first paragraph “Whether you’re someone who’s known for having a green thumb or not, it’ll prepare you for what to expect throughout the process.” Explain that the idiom “having a green thumb” means that a person is good at growing plants.

Advanced/

Advanced High

Have partners break down the sentences in the first paragraph into simple sentences.

ELPS 4.A

- Have students practice pronouncing the words with you.
- Before students begin reading, model reading the first paragraph with appropriate expression and at a comfortable pace.
- Remind students that they should try to read at an appropriate rate, not too fast and not too slow. Encourage them to pace their reading to show appropriate emphasis and inflection, or expression.
- Tell students that they may read the text either silently or softly to themselves.
- Then have them read the text again and write examples of the following:
  - a pair of homophones
  - a pair of homographs
  - a contraction
  - a possessive
  - a word with ‘tion’
  - a word with ‘sion’
  - a word with ‘cian’
  - a word with ‘cial’
  - a word with ‘tial’
  - a word with the prefix mid-, semi-, or multi-
  - a word with the suffix -ible, -able, or -ly
  - a word with the root meter/met, port, spect, mot/mov, form, dict, graph, or scrib/script
- After students have annotated the passage, have them complete the comprehension questions on Activity Page 20.4 independently. If they don’t complete it, instruct them to work on it at home.
- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Phonics—Encoding

Primary Focus: Students will complete the dictation posttest for Unit 4.

 TEKS 3.2.B.i; TEKS 3.2.B.v; TEKS 3.2.B.vii

UNIT 4 DICTATION POSTTEST (5 MIN.)

Activity Page 20.5

- Direct students to Activity Page 20.5. Review the instructions together.
- Tell students that they will be spelling words that you say aloud.
- Remind them to use what they know about syllable division patterns as they spell the words.
- Say the word transportation. Repeat it. Have students write it on Activity Page 20.5.
- Repeat with the remaining words.

- |                   |                 |                  |
|-------------------|-----------------|------------------|
| 1. transportation | 4. dictation    | 7. indescribable |
| 2. persuasion     | 5. multilingual | 8. descriptively |
| 3. telephone      | 6. bibliography | 9. semiyearly    |

- Then tell students you will say two sentences aloud for them to spell on their activity page.
- Say the following sentences aloud, pausing to provide students time to write.

- |                                            |
|--------------------------------------------|
| 1. She'd like to hear every option.        |
| 2. The man's Dalmatian loves the dog park. |

- Finally, have students choose one of the words from the dictation activity and use it to write a sentence of their own.

 TEKS 3.2.B Demonstrate and apply spelling knowledge by (i) spelling multisyllabic words with closed syllables; open syllables; VCe syllables; vowel teams, including digraphs and diphthongs; r-controlled syllables; and final stable syllables; (v) spelling words using knowledge of syllable division patterns such as VCCV, VCV, and VCCCV; (vii) spelling words using knowledge of suffixes, including how they can change base words such as dropping e, changing y to i, and doubling final consonants.

Note: You may accept Dalmatian spelled with an initial capital or lowercase letter.

You may accept invented spellings for words with sound-spellings not yet reviewed in Grade 3, but the dictated spelling word should be spelled correctly.

- If time allows, go over student responses and offer general feedback. Otherwise, provide feedback at the beginning of tomorrow’s lesson.

Lesson 20: Foundational Skills

Additional Support

WRITING EXTENSION

- Make one copy of Activity Page TR 20.1 for each student.
- Direct students back to Activity Page 20.4, “How to Grow a Sunflower.”
- Have students reread “How to Grow a Sunflower.”
- Review the writing prompt on Activity Page TR 20.1.
- Tell students they will use text evidence to write for approximately 10 minutes in response to the passage, and that they should try to write at least 3–5 sentences.
- Students should:
  - use evidence from the text or from their lives to support the idea, claim, or description and
  - write using complete sentences.
- Answer any questions students have, and then ask students to respond to the prompt.
- Then, pair up students and have one person share the response they wrote about “How to Grow a Sunflower” on Activity Page TR 20.1. Listeners should use the sentence starters to provide constructive feedback. Circulate and provide support and feedback to the student who is using the Response Starter. Have student pairs signal when both partners have contributed to the conversation.

- After all pairs have had a chance to share and respond to each other, call on two to three students to share their writing response with the group. Then have each student call on one to three listeners to comment, using the Response Starters to provide constructive feedback.
- Display the Response Starters in the chart below. Response Starters should be used consistently to provide targeted feedback that helps the writer note (a) where they used evidence correctly, (b) where their word choice was impactful, and (c) where they communicated their idea clearly.

Response Starters for Writing About Text

1. When you used the word(s) _____, it helped me understand _____.
2. When you used the evidence about _____, it convinced me that _____.
3. The idea that stood out to me was _____ because you wrote _____.

TRICKY WORDS REVIEW

- Gather Tricky Word index cards from Lesson 16 and Lesson 18 (English, material). and the additional Tricky Words you reviewed.
- Say, “Now we’re going to practice reading all the words we learned and practiced this week. Let’s play a game. We’re going to go through this stack of cards as fast as we can, reading the word on each card. Read the words carefully, because these are words that you have to sound out in a special way. Let’s see how fast we can go. My turn first.”
- Model taking the top card off the stack, showing it to students, and saying the Tricky Word after a pause. Continue through the stack.
- Say, “Do you think you can go faster than I did?”
- Assign students to small groups. As you show each card, have one group of students read through the stack of cards as quickly as they can.
- If a student says the wrong word for a card, model how to sound out the Tricky Word and then say the word. Ask the student to repeat your answer, and move on to the next card in the stack with the same small group until you go through all of the cards.
- Select the next small group, shuffle the stack of cards, and repeat until all groups have had a turn.

- Say, “Okay, now let’s go faster.” Shuffle the stack of cards and repeat at a faster pace so that each group has had two turns.
- Say, “Remember, some words are tricky. You can sound them out, just like you’ve been doing. But some letter sounds in these words are pronounced differently than we would expect.”
- Save the index cards to incorporate review of the Tricky Words throughout the year.

Additional Activities to Review All Tricky Words from This Week

Tricky Words Race

- Create a four-column chart. Fill it out with the Tricky Words you taught this week.
- Divide the class into two groups and have each group line up by the board.
- Explain how the game works. You will call out a Tricky Word. One student from each team will race to find the word on the chart and tap it. The first student to find and tap the word earns a point for the team.
- Repeat until all the words have been found or every student has had a turn.

Note: Consider playing this game in pairs to provide support for students who are still mastering these Tricky Words.

Call, Flip, Read, Roll

- Gather ten index cards for each student.
- Give each student ten index cards, and have them number the cards 1-10.
- Display all Tricky Words that have been taught so far. Have each student pick ten Tricky Words from the list and write one word on the back of each index card. Their set of cards should now have a word to be read on one side and a number on the other side.
- Place students into pairs. Call out a number at random and have each student take turns finding a card with that number on it in their stack. The student then reads the word aloud. If the word is read correctly, the student may then roll a die and whatever number it lands on is the number of points they receive. The student with the most points is the winner.
- Save the index cards to use the next time students play this game. Students can reuse another student’s set of cards.

The Declaration of Independence

The Declaration of Independence is a document created by a group of men who later became known as the Founding Fathers. The Declaration explains why the thirteen American colonies no longer wanted to live under the rule of the British government and instead wanted to be in charge of themselves and start a new country—in other words, they were declaring independence.

While the Declaration of Independence does not include rules and laws for how the country should be set up, like the Constitution does, it is a symbol of American independence. Many of the phrases used in the Declaration still have importance today.

One such important section of the Declaration says the following: “We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.”

consent, n. the approval of someone

governed, adj. led by someone with authority

pursuit, n. a chase or search for something

unalienable, adj. fundamental, built-in

Father and Son in the White House

George H. W. Bush and George W. Bush were a father and son who both became presidents of the United States. They also shared a special connection to Texas.

George H. W. Bush, the father, was the 41st president. He moved to Texas in 1948 to work in the oil business and quickly grew to love the state's spirit and warm people. His son, George W. Bush, the 43rd president, grew up in Texas and was the governor there for two terms before becoming president.

Both men embraced many Texan values such as hard work, kindness, dedication to country, and bravery, bringing these ideals to the White House. Each of them played an important role in shaping our country's history, guided by the lessons they learned in the Lone Star State.

Follow along as your teacher reads the passage.

When you reread the passage with a partner, mark up the text as follows:

- underline words with 'tion'
- highlight two-syllable words with the VC/CV syllable pattern

Below the passage, write two words from the text that are synonyms.

Volcanic Eruptions

Volcanoes have played an important role in the earth's formation and evolution over time. And they continue to influence and shape our planet.

What is a volcano?

A volcano is a hill or mountain with a crater, or hole, at the top. Lava, gas, and vapor erupt from the crater.

Why do volcanoes erupt?

The earth's crust includes underground rock slabs. These rock slabs fit together like puzzle pieces. These slabs are called plates. Sometimes these plates move and crash into each other. These collisions cause a disruption to the earth's crust and can form a volcano.

A volcanic eruption can happen slowly or as a big explosion. Certain conditions, like pressure buildup, cause volcanic eruptions. Melted rock, or magma, erupts out of the volcano's opening. The boiling hot magma released from a volcano is called lava. Lava is so incredibly hot that it can reach 2,000 degrees! The lava cools and leads to the formation of rock.

What happens after a volcano erupts?

Volcanic eruptions can cause a lot of damage and destruction. But they also lead to many new land formations. These land formations cover a big part of the earth's landscape. Over time, these eruptions form new islands or extend existing land. The Hawaiian Islands are an example. They were entirely formed by the action of volcanic eruptions.

Volcanic eruptions release water vapor and other gases into the air. The earth's atmosphere is mostly the collection of these gases. The atmosphere is the layer of gas surrounding the planet. This layer protects the earth and traps in heat.

In addition, volcanoes have also helped with the formation of the earth's oceans. The extreme heat from the volcanic eruptions caused huge amounts of condensation. This process of water vapor turning into liquid eventually led to the formation of oceans. Today, oceans cover nearly three-quarters of the earth.

Volcanoes have long been a source of fascination and wonder. They do more than cause damage and destruction. They also help form and shape our planet and its atmosphere. Learning this kind of information about volcanoes helps people understand our planet's growth and development.

Soccer History Club

Quincy and Emmett attended a mid-sized middle school named Precision Academy. The two boys had been best friends since kindergarten. Quincy and Emmett shared many similar interests. They did everything together.

However, midway through the school year, Quincy and Emmett started to feel tension, or stress, in their friendship. They each started to love different things. Their bond began to weaken as they each pursued their individual passions.

Quincy loved soccer. He played the midfield position for their school's soccer team. Quincy often said, "There's something special about watching a soccer ball as it soars through midair."

On the other hand, Emmett loved learning about history and important historical figures. He was always reading biographies and various historical accounts.

Quincy started to spend his afternoons on the soccer field. Meanwhile, Emmett started to spend all his time in the library. Slowly, they stopped hanging out. They were once inseparable. But now there was a division between them.

During a postseason practice, Quincy realized he missed their shared jokes. He missed their post-school walks home. Feeling lonely in the library, Emmett realized he missed their friendly debates on whether soccer or books were superior.

One midweek afternoon, Quincy decided to have a discussion with Emmett. "I miss hanging out with you. We have different interests. But maybe we can find a way to pursue them while we work to strengthen our friendship."

"You're right, Quincy. I miss you too. Maybe we can figure out how to combine our separate passions," replied Quincy.

"Let's do it!" they both exclaimed.

They began working together to envision, or brainstorm, an activity combining their interests. They quickly came up with a shared vision.

During their midday lunch, the duo played a one-on-one soccer match on the field. Quincy taught Emmett how to kick the soccer ball. They followed it up with a postgame reading session on the bleachers. The boys each read biographies about the greatest soccer players of all time. This fusion of interests was a success! Quincy and Emmett remembered how much they enjoyed spending time together.

Soon, many of their Precision Academy classmates joined Quincy and Emmett during their midday soccer and reading sessions. Their creative idea to combine their interests inspired the first "Soccer History Club" at Precision Academy.

Postgame Report

Gabriela was doing a midweek clean-up when she found an old newspaper. She turned to the sports page and began reading.

Women's World Cup Final

July 5, 2015

Vancouver, Canada - The Women's World Cup final match was both intense and emotional! Spectators observed lots of action, especially from midfielder Carli Lloyd #10. Carli performed her role to perfection. She led the US Women's Soccer Team to an impressive victory over Japan. This postgame report will provide valuable insights and reflections on Carli's performance.

The game had a midday start. Known as one of the greatest midfielders in the history of women's soccer, Carli looked ready to win. She took her position at the field midpoint. Her mission was clear. She was set on helping her team accomplish their shared vision. Their goal was to win the international World Cup title. They would not accept defeat.

The stadium atmosphere felt tense with nervous energy. Even under such tension, Carli showed her calm and focused attitude. Her training, dedication, and intense passion were obvious with every move she made. The rival team could tell she had taken her practice sessions very seriously.

The highlight of the midfielder's amazing performance came when she scored a hat trick. A hat trick is a situation in which a player makes three goals in one game. She did this before the midway point of the match!

Her two first goals came in the first five minutes! She scored the third goal from the midfield at sixteen minutes. This action sparked an eruption of joyful clapping and shouting in the stadium. It was sure to earn recognition as one of the best goals in World Cup history!

In addition to her impressive goals, the midfielder displayed quick thinking on many occasions. Carli made smart game-time decisions. These added strength to the team. The US Women's Soccer Team won the game and the World Cup Title. The final score was 5-2.

At the end of the game Carli participated in a post-match interview. She humbly claimed that the whole team's effort led to the win. She now plans to get some rest in the postseason. She looks forward to preparing for the next mission."

Gabriela finished reading and set the newspaper down. She felt a great sense of motivation and inspiration. Gabriela grabbed her soccer ball and ran outside.

Dr. Dalmatian

Dr. Dalmatian was a pediatrician, a doctor who specializes in children's health. Almost like a magician, Dr. Dalmatian had a spectacular way of making his patients feel better. He played an essential role in his community.

Dr. Dalmatian was given his silly nickname because he wore a fuzzy white coat with black spots. As an owner of three adorable Dalmatian dogs, he loved this fun nickname. He carried a red paw-shaped stethoscope around his neck. He had his initials, D. D., printed on it.

Every morning, the friendly pediatrician rode his bike to the office. It was only a kilometer away, slightly more than half a mile. Before he left home, he checked his barometer, which helped to predict sudden changes in the weather. This was an important and crucial step in his routine. He didn't want to get caught in a storm and potentially ruin his coat.

At the office, he had many special medical tools. His thermometer was shaped like a bone. He used it to take temperatures. His paw-shaped stethoscope helped him examine hearts and lungs. His fun tools and gentle tone made doctor's appointments less scary for his patients. He was detailed and helpful. He never cut corners when it came to taking care of others.

One day, a child named Sebastian came to Dr. Dalmatian's office. The child felt under the weather. He had a serious and substantial fever. He also had a rough cough. Sebastian's parents felt a spectrum of emotions, especially stress and worry. But the friendly pediatrician was ready to help!

Dr. Dalmatian carefully inspected the patient using his special stethoscope and thermometer. He had a special technician perform a chest X-ray on the child. This was to check for any serious lung illnesses.

The pediatrician adjusted his reading spectacles and began charting Sebastian's symptoms. Dr. Dalmatian determined that Sebastian had a bad cold. He assured the worried parents that the child was in good hands. He suggested that Sebastian take some medicine for the next few days. Dr. Dalmatian carefully described what to expect as Sebastian got better. The pediatrician also explained any potential reactions to the medication. Finally, Dr. Dalmatian gave Sebastian a sticker with a Dalmatian puppy on it for being such a brave patient.

At 5:00 p.m., Dr. Dalmatian called it a day. He reflected on all that had happened as he pedaled his bike toward home. He was glad he was able to help Sebastian and his other patients. His positive perspective was one of the reasons he was such a great doctor! Exhausted, he hit the sack early and prepared to do it again the next day.

Bacteria Fighters!

Bacteria are tiny living organisms. They can be found almost anywhere! Trillions of bacteria can be found in and on the human body. That's a huge number! Some bacteria can be beneficial and help keep people healthy. For example, some helpful gut bacteria assist with food digestion. But other bacteria are unwelcome guests that can make people feel sick and out of sorts. These types of illnesses are called bacterial infections.

The best way to keep bacterial infections at bay is to prevent them from happening. Scientists have proven that proper hygiene can be quite effective. Hygiene is what people do to keep themselves clean. It must be practiced often, not just once in a blue moon. Good hygiene habits include frequent hand washing. People can remove bacteria by washing their hands with soap and warm water for at least twenty seconds. This helps get rid of bacteria before they enter the body.

If bacterial infections occur, human bodies have natural defenses that help get rid of them. These defenses are called antibodies. Antibodies fight and remove unwelcome bacteria. They try to make sure none remain.

Antibodies do their best to keep people healthy. But sometimes they are only semi-effective and may not fully work.

Scientists thought they had struck gold when they discovered antibiotics. Antibiotics are antidotes or medicines that fight bacterial infections more effectively. This awesome discovery has greatly improved the way doctors cure once fearsome illnesses. Antibiotics have become a popular treatment for bacterial infections. Doctors carefully prescribe antibiotics for only certain illnesses, like strep throat.

Antibodies and antibiotics help humans fight off troublesome bacteria. While these are powerful tools, good hygiene is also very helpful as a way to prevent bacterial infections. Good hygiene practices and semiannual health check-ups can help people stay fit as fiddles.

Idiom: Possible response: struck gold

Meaning: Possible response: was very lucky

Tools of the Trade

What tools might a famous musician need to make their next hit song? They'd likely need an instrument like a guitar or a piano. They might need a microphone and a spectacular voice. A metronome might also keep their song's beat steady and computer software can arrange their melody into a masterpiece!

Like musicians, other professionals also use special tools. They each have different purposes. They are used to complete different aspects, or parts, of each job. These tools are real game changers because they help get the job done. Let's get the rundown on the tools used in some professions.

Electricians use tools to run inspections and fix troublesome issues. Their work requires precision and accuracy. Electricians use tools like multimeters to test the electricity in residential and commercial buildings. They also use important and crucial safety gear during each inspection. For example, their nonconductive gloves protect them from the risk of electric shocks.

Beauticians use products and tools to make clients feel like a million bucks. A beautician might use a curling iron and an anti-frizz treatment to prepare someone's hair for a semi-fancy event. They may use special creams as part of a facial treatment. They might also use nail products, like files and polish, to give clients a lovely manicure.

Physicians or doctors use tools to monitor and improve their patients' health. These tools help them identify potential illnesses. Physicians use stethoscopes to check on hearts and lungs. They use thermometers to measure body temperatures. They also sometimes use medicines like antibiotics to treat infections.

Teachers use tools to help students learn fun and exciting things. They might use books to teach reading or semicircle-shaped protractors to teach geometry! They might use rulers marked with centimeters and millimeters to teach students how to measure objects. Teachers may also use digital tools for virtual learning settings.

Professionals have different tools that are essential to their work. This is only a partial list! There's a whole heap more to discover.

Idiom: Possible response: like a million bucks

Meaning: Possible response: excellent

4. What word means the same thing as the word physician?

The word doctor means the same thing as physician.

5. Which teacher tools are mentioned in the text?

Books, protractors, rulers, and digital tools are mentioned.

6. Choose a profession that you think is especially important to society. Why do you think it is important?

Sample response: Physicians are important because they can help sick people get better, and they can even save lives.

Violet's Poems

Violet was a poet. She'd spend hours writing poems in her diary. She had a talent for using words to describe emotions. But she'd never shared them with anyone except her best friend, Marius.

One day, a flyer caught Violet's attention. The paper announced a poetry showcase at the local theater. Here, people would have a formal space to read their poems to an audience.

"Maybe you could share your poems and promote yourself as a writer," said Marius. "You'd be great! Your poems are so creative! They transport people to amazing imaginary places."

"I don't know, Marius. Sharing my poems with an audience feels intimidating and scary. But I'll think about it," Violet replied.

"You're so talented," Marius said, trying to motivate her. "Writing is your art form. They're going to love your poems."

Violet thought about the poetry showcase. She decided that she wanted to share her poems with the world. So, she'd have to let go of her fears and be courageous. "Okay," she thought. "I'll do it."

On the big day, Violet felt her pulse racing. The audience watched as she approached the platform that would be her stage. They'd quickly gone silent. Violet gripped the poem in her shaking hand. She stood nervous and motionless, wishing she could teleport away.

After a few moments, she took a deep breath and began to read her poem out loud. At first, her voice was only a whisper. But it gradually grew stronger and more confident. Her voice sounded clear and steady through the portable microphone. She read:

"Exciting World

We'll color the sky purple and blue.

A formula of joy for me and you.

We'll report our dreams, both big and small.

Life is a riddle to be solved, after all.

On a paper boat, we'll take a sail.

Stories will form just like fairy tales.

With a violin, we'll create a tune,

Beneath the free-form stars and moon.

Life's a dance, so we'll keep on moving.

In this exciting world that's always blooming."

Joyful commotion filled the room when she'd finished reading. Violet's face beamed with pride. She'd done it. She'd shared a poem with the members of the audience, and they loved it. She felt as triumphant as a champion.

The Queen of Soul: A Musical Biography

Aretha Franklin was a notable Black American soul music artist. Soul music is characterized by lively beats and powerful, emotional vocals.

Franklin's work in the music business made many valuable contributions to the industry. Her remarkable voice earned her the title "Queen of Soul." She's one of the world's best-selling musical artists ever.

The famed artist's life began on March 25, 1942, in Memphis. Her family moved to Detroit when she was five. Franklin had a genuine talent. She probably hadn't realized yet how much it would change her life.

Franklin's father was a minister in a Detroit church. There, she'd join the church's choir and learn to sing. As a young girl, her voice's power could fill a room and touch every listener's heart, even without a microphone.

At just 14 years old, Franklin recorded her first album. Two years later, in 1958, Franklin went on tour, traveling and performing in different parts of the country. By the age of 18, she'd made the same journey as so many other notable and hopeful artists had. She moved to the New York City area. There, she continued her pursuit of becoming a famous singer.

Franklin didn't achieve great fame right away. Her career grew gradually. It wasn't until 1967 that she recorded and released the song "Respect." This mighty tune has since become many of her fans' all-time favorites. Like great poetry, its lyrics express moving and relatable emotions. The song's inspiring message is about believing in yourself and asking to be treated fairly.

During the 1970s, "the Queen of Soul's" music was everywhere. People loved listening and dancing to Franklin's enjoyable melodies. Her songs were played daily through countless music lovers' radios.

By the 1980s, she'd won many music awards. Franklin became the first woman to be given a spot in the Rock & Roll Hall of Fame. This is a huge honor, one that is considered a triumph in the music industry. The fame and awards didn't prevent Franklin from staying dedicated to her craft. It seems that she had a sensible and down-to-earth approach to her career.

Franklin continued to release a variety of popular hit songs until the early 2000s. In 2009, Franklin sang at Barack Obama's presidential inauguration. She sang for a sizable crowd, a huge group of more than one million people.

Aretha Franklin died in Detroit on August 16, 2018. Her incredible legacy and lasting influence continue to live on. Many people still put on their headphones and listen to her timeless music today. Some orchestras play symphonies to remember and celebrate her music. They use saxophones, horns, trumpets, and other instruments to recreate her songs.

Aretha Franklin's life tells the story of a capable and hardworking musical artist. Her story inspires many and demonstrates that achieving your dreams isn't impossible.

Adaptable Animals

To: Florence Fong

From: Ninette Ramos

Subject: My Recent Zoology Expeditions

Hi, Florence.

I hope you're doing well! I'm typing this email from my smartphone. I'm happy to report that I've been having a blast on my zoology expeditions. I've been researching animals wherever they live. I'd like to share some of what I've learned.

I've found that many animal groups are able to change over time to adapt to challenges in their environments. They've slowly changed things like how they move, eat, rest, and protect themselves in order to survive. Let's take an imaginary journey and discuss some amazing, adaptable animals. I think they're just so fascinating!

Let's start our journey in the freezing Arctic. Have you noticed that polar bears don't seem cold in their environment? If we humans were there, we'd be freezing cold! That's because polar bears have a thick layer of blubber or fat under their skin. This blubber works as an insulator for the polar bears' body heat. Like a portable electric blanket, their blubber keeps them toasty and comfortable. They've got their warmth moving with them!

Now, let's teleport to the remote and isolated Arabian desert. Imagine you're a camel moving through this very hot landscape. You'd probably think, "I can't survive in these hot temperatures without food and water!" But guess what? Camels have a built-in solution for that! They have humps on their backs that store nutrients. Nutrients help bodies stay healthy and function properly. When food and water become scarce or hard to find, a camel's body transforms these stored nutrients into energy and water. They can go a couple of weeks without eating or drinking! Aren't camels incredible?

Let's move on to the mountains of Mexico. What if you were a bat navigating the dark caves in these mountains? Without light, it'd be hard to see and move in the right direction. Nothing would be visible! Well, bats solve this problem with echolocation. Echolocation is when bats use sound waves to find their way in the dark. Bats' noses, mouths, and ears make sounds that bounce off nearby objects. This echo tells the bat how far away something is! If you think about it, they're like living navigation systems.

Lastly, let's end our adventure in the rainforests of Madagascar, home to colorful chameleons. A chameleon's skin is like a transforming uniform. Its skin can change color to match its surroundings. Chameleons are able to become practically invisible within their environments. This camouflage is a valuable survival tool that helps them escape predators and catch prey. They're the masters of disguise!

Now we've finished our journey. It's remarkable how these animals have adapted in such creative ways.

I can't wait to share more about my zoology expeditions. What've you been up to? Maybe we'll catch up and talk on the phone soon.

Take care,
Ninette

Root Words and Prefixes: dict, multi-

Read the following paragraph. Circle words with the root dict. Underline words with the prefix multi-.

Many people think of libraries as quiet places to read and do research. Libraries have dictionaries, encyclopedias, and reference books on multiple topics. Some people may be surprised to learn that libraries are multifunctional spaces. Libraries have multimedia materials, such as movies and video games. Some libraries have collections of board games, cookware, and tools. Libraries also have multipurpose rooms. They host multicultural events and other gatherings. Some celebrations have music and dancing. This contradicts the idea that you always have to be quiet in the library. You can never predict what you will find at a library!

Riddle Game

Eight-year-olds Astrid, Westley, and Andrea were looking for something fun to do together. Alfredo, Andrea's uncle, was visiting that day. Uncle Alfredo spoke English, Spanish, and French! As a multilingual person, he loved exploring words and solving problems. So, he decided to entertain the children with an exciting word game.

After the group ate lunch, Uncle Alfredo explained, "The dictionary defines homophones as 'words that sound alike but have different spellings and meanings.' There's a ton of them in the English language! Let's try to solve multiple homophone riddles. Whoever solves the most riddles wins. Ready?"

The children nodded in agreement. Uncle Alfredo grabbed a handful of multicolored notecards. He picked up a card and wrote a riddle on it. He read out loud, "I am what you use your eyes to do. I am also a large and salty body of water. What two words am I?"

The children tried to solve the riddle. Astrid considered a multitude of answers. "I've got it! The answer is see and sea," she said.

"Correct!" Uncle Alfredo responded. "You use your eyes to see. And the sea is a large, salty body of water. How do you spell the two words?"

"S-E-E and S-E-A," Astrid dictated as Uncle Alfredo wrote the words on the card.

"Yes, you won this round," Uncle Alfredo added. "Let's try a more complex one. I wonder if you can predict the next two words. I am the opposite of left. I am also what you would do with a pen on paper."

Westley instantly giggled. "That's easy! It's right and write! R-I-G-H-T and W-R-I-T-E."

"Yes! That's exactly it," Uncle Alfredo said.

The children's excitement multiplied as they listened to the third riddle. "I am another word for also. But I am also more than one but less than three."

The children concentrated. After a moment, Andrea exclaimed, "It's too and two! T-O-O and T-W-O."

"Good job!" Uncle Alfredo said.

They continued playing and solving riddles for a long time. When they finished, Westley indicated that he was interested in the scores written on the cards. He asked, "What's the verdict? Who won the game?"

"I know you all did your best. But there is no winner. It's a three-way tie!" Uncle Alfredo explained.

Together, Astrid, Westley, and Andrea exploded with laughter.

"That's fine," Astrid said. "That was so much fun!"

The children thanked Uncle Alfredo for the fantastic game. They asked if they could play it again the next time he visited.

My third grade class decided to publish a newsletter. We began by scribbling down all our ideas. Then we chose assignments and got to work. Tam wrote a biography about our teacher. Jayden described his team's last soccer game. Mila drafted a paragraph about the school play. Carter included a transcript of the principal's weekly announcements. Then we added images to our manuscript. Leilani shared photographs she took at the school dance. Sanjay designed graphics to create a logo. We shared our newsletter with the school. Many students asked if they could subscribe. Our readers cannot wait for our next issue!

Photography and Cameras

Photography is the art of taking and producing photographs. Photographers use cameras to take photographs of all kinds of things. They capture photos of nature and earthly landscapes from various geographical locations. They snap photos of cuddly pets and large flocks of birds, such as whooping cranes. They might take photos of friendly people and kind faces. Photographers may even capture images of city skylines and construction cranes.

While writers type or sometimes scribble descriptive words onto paper to tell a story, photographers use cameras to capture graphic moments with exciting images. So, how do cameras work? And how do photographers use them?

Cameras come in all types of sizes and shapes. Some cameras are big and heavy. Some are small and light. Some cameras can even fit in a pocket! Regardless of size, all cameras record images by using a lens, or a special piece of glass, to capture light.

Photographers use a small part of the camera called the viewfinder to take photos. They look into the viewfinder to preview the subject they want to capture. Then, they press a button to capture a photo. Afterward, they process the image using various techniques to prepare it for printing or sharing.

All cameras also have special controls. These features help photographers capture images with a variety of artistic visual effects. One feature is the shutter. The shutter controls the amount of light that enters the camera. A photographer can adjust the shutter to make an image clearer or blurrier. Another feature is the type of lens. A zoom lens can make objects appear closer than they would with a normal lens. A macro lens captures details on a close-up object.

Many photographers use cameras with film to capture images. Film is a thin, clear material that changes when light enters through the lens. The light creates an image on the film. Someone must carefully remove the film from the camera. Then, they must treat it with special chemicals and lights to create prints. This process is called developing. If a photographer wants more than one copy of the image, they can make duplicate prints using the same process.

Photographers also use digital cameras and smartphones to take photographs. These cameras do not use film. They capture light from the lens and turn it into a digital image, which is stored on a microchip. Photographers sometimes load these digital images onto a computer or device where they can share them electronically. Then, they may use a printer to print and duplicate images.

Photographers use cameras in various ways to transform the scenes they see into captivating images. Whether it's silly faces, lovely landscapes, or daily life, cameras help describe a moment with the perfect image.

7. Keep an eye on your sunflower's development. If your sunflower starts looking unsightly, it might need help. If its leaves are wilting or turning partially yellow, it might need more water or less direct sunlight.
8. Repeat steps 6 and 7 as you watch it grow. Take photographs of your sunflower to record its growth.
9. After some time, you might notice the back of the sunflower looks brown or feels dry. This is an indication or sign that your sunflower is ready to be harvested! That means removing the flower head and leaving a few centimeters of the stem. The seeds can then be roasted or used for planting another sunflower.

You don't need to be a magician to grow a sunflower! You can experience the fun and amazing process by following this simple formula. It involves careful watering, monitoring, and harvesting. Hopefully, these instructions motivate you to try growing a sunflower yourself.

“How to Grow a Sunflower” Comprehension Questions

1. How does the author describe a sunflower that has finished growing?
The author says that it is tall and strong.
2. How do the procedure numbers provide you with a context clue for the meaning of the idiom kick off?
Kick off appears at the start of Step 1, which indicates the idiom means “to start something.”
3. Which item in the materials list is used for digging?
The hand shovel, or trowel, is used for digging.

4. Where should the sunflower seed be planted?
The seed should be planted in the middle of the pot, about an inch down in the soil.
5. What should you do if the leaves start to turn yellow?
You should water the sunflower less or remove it from direct sunlight.
6. Do you think it would be easy to grow a sunflower? Why?
I think it would not be easy because I would need to gather many materials and then check the plant often while it is growing.

The Declaration of Independence

The Declaration of Independence is a document created by a group of men who later became known as the Founding Fathers. The Declaration explains why the thirteen American colonies no longer wanted to live under the rule of the British government and instead wanted to be in charge of themselves and start a new country—in other words, they were declaring independence.

While the Declaration of Independence does not include rules and laws for how the country should be set up, like the Constitution does, it is a symbol of American independence. Many of the phrases used in the Declaration still have importance today.

One such important section of the Declaration says the following: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed."

- consent, n. the approval of someone
- governed, adj. led by someone with authority
- pursuit, n. a chase or search for something
- unalienable, adj. fundamental, built-in

Comprehension Questions:

1. Why do you think it was important for the Founding Fathers to include that "all men are created equal"? Were all people treated equally at the time?

The Founding Fathers said "all men are created equal" because they wanted everyone to have fair rights and be happy. At that time, not all people were treated equally.

2. What three things do the Founding Fathers say are "unalienable Rights"? What do they say is needed to keep those rights secure?

The Founding Fathers said the unalienable Rights are Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of Happiness. We need governments that are created by the people to help protect these rights.

3. Reread the definitions for consent and governed. Based on those definitions, what do you think "consent of the governed" means?

"Consent of the governed" means that the people who are being led give their approval to the leaders in charge.

4. The Declaration says the government gets its power from the "consent of the governed." What are some ways citizens can give their consent, or show their approval, about someone leading the government?

Citizens can give their consent and show their approval by voting for leaders they like or agreeing with the rules the leaders make.

Father and Son in the White House

George H. W. Bush and George W. Bush were a father and son who both became presidents of the United States. They also shared a special connection to Texas.

George H. W. Bush, the father, was the 41st president. He moved to Texas in 1948 to work in the oil business and quickly grew to love the state's spirit and warm people. His son, George W. Bush, the 43rd president, grew up in Texas and was the governor there for two terms before becoming president.

Both men embraced many Texan values such as hard work, kindness, dedication to country, and bravery, bringing these ideals to the White House. Each of them played an important role in shaping our country's history, guided by the lessons they learned in the Lone Star State.

Reread "How to Grow a Sunflower." This kind of passage is called a procedural text because it describes the procedure, or steps, needed to complete a task. Imagine you need to explain to a friend how you do one of your favorite activities. Write the steps for the activity in your own procedural text. Remember that the steps must go in order and be clear enough for someone who has never done the task before to follow. You may also need to make a list of materials needed to complete the task.

Sample response:

How to Make an Almond Butter and Jelly Sandwich

Materials:

- almond butter
- strawberry jelly
- plate
- sandwich bread
- butter knife or spatula

Steps:

1. Place two slices of bread on the plate.
2. Open the almond butter and use the knife to spread the almond butter on one side of one slice of the bread.
3. Clean off the knife.
4. Open the strawberry jelly and use the knife to spread the jelly on one side of the other slice of bread.
5. Gently place the jelly side of the second slice of bread down so it touches the almond butter side of the first slice.
6. Enjoy!

ENGLISH LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY STANDARDS - GRADE 3

Unit 4

Correlation—Teacher’s Guide

(1) Cross-curricular second language acquisition/learning strategies. The ELL uses language learning strategies to develop an awareness of his or her own learning processes in all content areas. In order for the ELL to meet grade-level learning expectations across the foundation and enrichment curriculum, all instruction delivered in English must be linguistically accommodated (communicated, sequenced, and scaffolded) commensurate with the student’s level of English language proficiency. The student is expected to:

| ELPS 1.A | use prior knowledge and experiences to understand meanings in English                                                                                                                                                          | U4: p. 136                                              |
| ELPS 1.B | monitor oral and written language production and employ self-corrective techniques or other resources                                                                                                                          |                                                         |
| ELPS 1.C | use strategic learning techniques such as concept mapping, drawing, memorizing, comparing, contrasting, and reviewing to acquire basic and grade-level vocabulary                                                              | U4: p. 35, U4: p. 48, U4: p. 60, U4: p. 194, U4: p. 245 |
| ELPS 1.D | speak using learning strategies such as requesting assistance, employing non-verbal cues, and using synonyms and circumlocution (conveying ideas by defining or describing when exact English words are not known)             |                                                         |
| ELPS 1.E | internalize new basic and academic language by using and reusing it in meaningful ways in speaking and writing activities that build concept and language attainment                                                           | U4: p. 101, U4: p. 235, U4: p. 262                      |
| ELPS 1.F | use accessible language and learn new and essential language in the process                                                                                                                                                    | U4: p. 207                                              |
| ELPS 1.G | demonstrate an increasing ability to distinguish between formal and informal English and an increasing knowledge of when to use each one commensurate with grade-level learning expectations                                   |                                                         |
| ELPS 1.H | develop and expand repertoire of learning strategies such as reasoning inductively or deductively, looking for patterns in language, and analyzing sayings and expressions commensurate with grade-level learning expectations |                                                         |

(2) Cross-curricular second language acquisition/listening. The ELL listens to a variety of speakers including teachers, peers, and electronic media to gain an increasing level of comprehension of newly acquired language in all content areas. ELLs may be at the beginning, intermediate, advanced, or advanced high stage of English language acquisition in listening. In order for the ELL to meet grade-level learning expectations across the foundation and enrichment curriculum, all instruction delivered in English must be linguistically accommodated (communicated, sequenced, and scaffolded) commensurate with the student’s level of English language proficiency. The student is expected to:

| (3) Cross-curricular second language acquisition/speaking. The ELL speaks in a variety of modes for a variety of purposes with an awareness of different language registers (formal/informal) using vocabulary with increasing fluency and accuracy in language arts and all content areas. ELLs may be at the beginning, intermediate, advanced, or advanced high stage of English language acquisition in speaking. In order for the ELL to meet grade-level learning expectations across the foundation and enrichment curriculum, all instruction delivered in English must be linguistically accommodated (communicated, sequenced, and scaffolded) commensurate with the student’s level of English language proficiency. | (4) Cross-curricular second language acquisition/reading. The ELL reads a variety of texts for a variety of purposes with an increasing level of comprehension in all content areas. ELLs may be at the beginning, intermediate, advanced, or advanced high stage of English language acquisition in reading. In order for the ELL to meet grade-level learning expectations across the foundation and enrichment curriculum, all instruction delivered in English must be linguistically accommodated (communicated, sequenced, and scaffolded) commensurate with the student’s level of English language proficiency. For Kindergarten and grade 1, certain of these student expectations apply to text read aloud for students not yet at the stage of decoding written text. | (5) Cross-curricular second language acquisition/writing. The ELL writes in a variety of forms with increasing accuracy to effectively address a specific purpose and audience in all content areas. ELLs may be at the beginning, intermediate, advanced, or advanced high stage of English language acquisition in writing. In order for the ELL to meet grade-level learning expectations across foundation and enrichment curriculum, all instruction delivered in English must be linguistically accommodated (communicated, sequenced, and scaffolded) commensurate with the student’s level of English language proficiency. For Kindergarten and grade 1, certain of these student expectations do not apply until the student has reached the stage of generating original written text using a standard writing system. The student is expected to: |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |  |
