Firefighters and horses lived together in the first firehouses so that they could be ready for a fire. Horses lived on the first floor of the firehouse. Firefighters lived and slept on the second floor. Firefighters ate in the kitchen and slept in the bedrooms. Fireplaces kept the firefighters warm on cold nights.

Firefighters and horses lived together in the first firehouses. The firefighters slept and ate on the second floor. They tossed hay down to the first floor for the horses at feeding time. The horses learned that the second floor was the warmer place to be and learned to climb the stairs. The problem was that the horses could not go down the stairs. When there was a fire, the firefighters didn't have time to get a horse that was stuck on the second floor down the stairs to the fire wagon.

To solve the problem, many firehouses put in circular staircases that the horses couldn't climb up. But these stairs slowed the firefighters when they needed to rush to a fire.

One firefighter had the idea to cut a hole in the second floor and put a wooden pole from the second floor to the horses on the first. Firefighters could grab the pole and slide down to the first floor. Now firefighters were getting to the fires faster than ever!

The Runaway Pumpkin

Jimmy wanted to grow a giant pumpkin. Jimmy planted the pumpkin seeds in dirt piles he made in the garden. Every day Jimmy dragged the water hose through the yard and watered the plants so they would not dry up. The seeds grew into pumpkins. Jimmy chose the biggest pumpkin in the garden to take to the fair.

When they got back, Jimmy's pumpkin was gone. A big orange mess covered the grass at the bottom of the hill.

Jimmy ran down the hill and picked up a shiny bit of his first-place ribbon from the mess. Jimmy's pumpkin had won a prize!
